GUILFORD STARTS THE SCHOOL YEAR WITH AN ENLARGED ENROLLMENT

Largest Freshman Class in the History of the College Admitted

In the first two weeks of Guilford's fall term, 277 students have been enrolled, somewhat an increase over last year's enrollment at this time. The classes are approximately distributed as follows:

The Senior Class has prospects of being as large as the class of '25, there being at present 34 members with a prospect of two more.

The Junior Class has lost several of its members. Many have dropped out this year to teach or engage in other pursuits for a year before completing their college courses. At present there are only 12 full-fledged Juniors but several who are now lacking in a few hours will be able to secure standing by midterm, so that prospects for a big class in 1927 are good.

The Sophomore Class is a promising one, there being fifty-five members with class standing.

The Freshman Class is the largest in the history of the college. Up to date there are 121 who are classed as Freshmen.

Forty-seven members of the student body are classed as irregulars. The irregular students are those who are graduates of a four-year high school but who have not taken the prescribed courses for regular class standing.

Eight special students are enrolled. These are mature students over 21 years of age who are not looking forward to taking a degree.

The student body comes from nine different states and from 35 counties in North Carolina, Guilford leading with 91. Alamance follows with an enrollment of 27.

Eight denominations are represented, the Friends leading with 130. The Methodist takes second place with 93.

SENIORS ELECT OFFICERS

At its first regular meeting of the year, the class of twenty-six elected F. H. Smith as president for the first semester. His associate officers, elected to serve with him, were: Harvey Dinkins, for vice-president; Maitie Been, for secretary and treasurer, and Garvice Guthrie, for marshal.

The new president took the place of John Cude, who did not return this fall. Several other members of the class have failed to return, and at first, prospects for a large graduation class were not promising. However, with the addition of several members from other schools and some students who have done summer school work here and elsewhere, the number on class roll has been pushed upward until it equals that of the senior class of this time last year.

STUDENTS AND FACULTY HEAR TOM SIKES SPEAK

Rev. Tom Sykes, of High Point, addressed the student body during the chapel period Wednesday morning on "The Production of Goodness".

"When I speak of good people, I do not mean people who try to cover their lives with a veneer of goodness", he said. "The pressure of modern American life is too hard on venerated goods for them to stand the test of time."

He continued by giving a short review of church history dating from the first of the sixteenth century. "Throughout these centuries", he said, "many attempts were made by persecutions and torture to make people good, but it was found out that human beings could not be forced into goodness."

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS TENDER A RECEPTION TO THE INCOMING FRESHMEN

First Social Event of the Year A Success

Saturday evening, September 19th, marked the initial social gathering of the school year—the opening reception which is given each year under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The weather, however, a bit cool and threatening, did not prevent the entire student body from turning out for this occasion.

Promptly at eight o'clock, perhaps the longest line of students in the history of the college began to form outside the library waiting to go down the receiving line.

Doctor and Mrs. Binford stood first in the receiving line, which was composed of the entire Faculty. As the new students, each escorted by an old student, made their way down the line, they were given a hearty welcome by the Faculty to the life on the Guilford campus. At the end of the receiving line, miniature autograph books and pencils were presented by members of the Social Committee

DOCTOR SHAW SUGGESTS HELPFUL READING GUIDE

Dr. Shaw, librarian at North Carolina College for women, made an interesting talk in chapel on Tuesday, choosing for his subject, "The culture that does and can come from books." He said that there were two books with which readers should become acquainted. The first book that he mentioned was "Literary Taste," a book written by Arnold Bennett. Dr. Shaw read an extract from this book to show what those who have no interest in books are missing. He stated that if one has failed to become interested in books, it is because one has failed to assimilate what genius has placed before us. In referring to the great authors, he said that their lives are one great ecstasy of denying that this world is a dull place in which to live. "You should become readers in the true sense of the world," continued Dr. Shaw. "You should make a new year's resolution at the beginning of this school year to develop your literary taste."

As a reader's guide, Dr. Shaw suggested one of Asa Don Dickinson's books entitled "One Thousand Best Books." He recommended that this book be used because it is particularly addressed to undergraduates and to those who are not in college, and because the list of books is exceptionally well chosen. He also pointed out the fact that the book is very orderly arranged, as it is intended for a reference rather than for continuous reading.

Dr. Shaw closed by saying that through the day many quarter hours are wasted which might be more profitably spent in reading good books.

FRESHMEN PARTICIPATE IN A FOUR-DAY PROGRAM OF GETTING ACQUAINTED

Special Attention Given to Registration and Assimilation of New Students

In keeping with her program of expansion and closer contact with her students, Guilford College, this year instituted a program of having all freshmen report at the college four days ahead of the old students.

This experiment of freshmen week is decidedly new in North Carolina, as this is the first year it has been tried in this state. The University of North Carolina and Guilford College are the only institutions that have attempted having the freshmen come early. The experiment has been carefully observed by the other colleges of the state.

September 11 was designated as the day for freshmen to arrive at Guilford. President Binford and the Young men's Christian Association had sent out letters to the entering freshmen telling them what to do upon their arrival. Before Friday noon, nearly 125 students had registered at the president's office.

In the afternoon there was a mass meeting at Memorial Hall at which all freshmen and faculty members

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

Miss Hedwig H. Hoffman, now Mrs. A. F. Russack, has returned to Guilford this year, after an absence of one and a half years during which she has been doing resident work for her doctor's degree.

She spent the summer of 1924 abroad, studying material in various libraries for her dissertation. Most of her time was spent in Naples and Vienna, in the National Library of Austria, and the University library. She also visited Switzerland, southern France and Italy, and Berlin, besides doing special work in the National Library at Bavaria.

The past year she taught German and French at Barnard College, Columbia University, and did work in the extension department there.

Mr. O. H. Cole, head of the department of Physics, is a graduate of McGill University, in Montreal, Canada, having received his degree there in 1904. He also did graduate work there during 1905, and was on the staff in Physics. He studied at Yale University in the same year, and in the fall of 1905 sailed for China, in connection with Y. M. C. A. work. He has been connected with the educational work of the Y. M. C. A. since then, with the exception of a few years.

During the late war he had charge of the educational work of the Y. M. C. A. in the Canadian army, where he served as an officer.

He was then sent to France to take charge of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. in the British, French and American armies. His last two years have been spent at Columbia University, where

MRS. PERISHO AWAY ON A VISIT TO NORTHWEST

Mrs. Elwiod C. Perisho left the college the latter part of August for the northwest. En route she visited Indiana, arriving there in time to attend the Yearly Meeting of Friends at Richmond, Indiana. She then went to Minnesota where she spent some time at White Fish Lake, and in St. Paul where she visited friends.

She is now in South Dakota with her mother where she will remain until sometime in November when she will again return to Guilford College.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Vacation Time Utilized in Making Repairs and Beautifying College Grounds

When the college men and women returned from their vacations instead of finding that the hand of Time had been laid heavily upon the grounds and buildings, as is usually the case when he is allowed to have way, even for ever so short a period, they found a freshness and newness that bespoke care and attention on the part of those who made the dormitories their home during the summer months. Indeed the repairs and attentions that have been given the buildings, and grounds have added much to the comfort of student life and made Guilford College a more beautiful place for a home.

Under the direction of S. Gladstone Hodgins, Business Manager, much needed repairs have been made, touching practically every department of the college. Perhaps the most outstanding thing that was noticeable at the opening of school was the new coats of paint which practically every building has received. Instead of the pale, drab colors that were in evidence last spring, pure white and rich gray tints glisten against the background of the stately old oaks upon the campus. Only the gymnasium and library buildings have failed to get attention. However, the gymnasium is likely to be replaced by a better building in the near future and can therefore, wait.

Then, too, none could fail to notice the splendid addition to the President's home. This addition, along with the remainder of the house, has been painted and the whole has taken on the appearance of a dwelling larger than the cottage type that it was last year. The white cottage, where the Cole family now lives has been wholly re-fitted inside and re-shingled outside. The Hoffman cottage has also been re-finished on the inside. The large enrollment of young women this fall made necessary to re-fit the back hall in Founders to afford more room. At Archdale Hall, the half of the ground floor, which is not to be used for the Men's reading room, is being arranged for consultation rooms and other purposes. The upper floor of Archdale Hall has been fitted up so as to afford a home for 25 men. This is the first time that this splendid old building has been nearly full since Cox Hall has been in use.

Besides the general repairs on the buildings, other repairs have been made that will add fully as much to the comfort of student life. The whole

DOCTOR HOBBS SPEAKS TO THE STUDENT BODY

"He who does a good deed is instantly ennobled", said Dr. Hobbs, in his chapel address Thursday morning. Following this quotation, he added rare bits of wisdom, likely to be of use to college men and women just starting a year's work. "We need toning up, rather than toning down in starting the year", he said. "Any time is lost that could be better spent. Hence, make the choices that lead to the ideal. When we make a choice we decide a hundred other things. When we chose to come to college we are making a choice to spend our money three times. We spend our time. It is money. We spend our labor. It is money. We spend our money which makes the third time our money goes."

CAPTAIN WARRICK STARS

White scores largest gains for Guilford

Coach Doak's Guilford quakers ushered in the 1925 football season by losing to the Duke Blue Devils Saturday, by the score of 33-0. Despite the large score, the game never lacked interest and fight. The plucky, but light Quaker team scrapped the heavier Duke team during the entire period. But at length the heavier Blue Devil squad showed its superiority over the lighter Quaker aggregation.

COSTLY FUMBLES

Several costly fumbles by Guilford's back field were counted into touch downs by the Duke team. Two of the opponent's touch downs came in this manner.

Guilford received the ball on the kick off and was held for downs. Duke received Guilford's punt but was held for downs. It was during this period that the quakers were making a steady march down the field, but fumbled the ball near their own goal, which the Blue Devils soon took advantage of, and after a series of line plays, and end runs, made their first touchdown of the game and the first under the name of Duke University. One more touch down was scored in this quarter on off tackle plays mixed with passes.

CALDWELL AND BULLARD STAR

Caldwell made most of the gains through the line while Bullard received most of the passes. One more touchdown was scored in the second period and another was added in the third, while the last score was made in the final quarter. The inability of the Quaker backfield to break up passes and the several fumbles they made pushed the score up considerably.

Kimrey, White and Robertson were the trio of backfield men that kept the Duke team from scoring more touch downs on the Quakers. The work of White was especially outstanding. Also the punting of Hendrickson was especially good. In the line the work of Harrell and Warrick was the most outstanding during the entire game. However, Tew, and Parrish, a new man, played exceptionally well. The men of the entire line put up a splendid fight but the heavy opposing line soon wore them out.

For Duke the work of Bullock and Caldwell is the backfield and Grigg in the line was outstanding.
