of the lighting, heating and water systems has been gone over and put into excellent condition. Showers and dressing room arrangements have been fitted in the Y. M. C. A. building, handy to the athletic field. This affords the men a place to keep their football "Armor" outside of their living rooms and is more convenient for practice. At present a new heating water system is being put into Archdale Hall. This will render the living conditions there as commodious as those in Cox Hall. The baths in Cox Hall, by the way, are being tiled which will, in connection with the other conveniences already established, make a home that will compare favorably with that found in a first class hotel.

Outside the building themselves, much has been done to better conditions. Ever since the great sleet two years ago, many valuable trees have needed attention. Since spring every tree upon the campus has had the of expert tree surgeons and all are now in excellent condition.

Another bit of work has been done that does not rank last in the catalog of beneficent labors. That is the building up of the walks where mud has been worst in the past. Without spoiling the looks of the campus with more costly cement walks, cinders and topsoil have been added to the places needing attention and will serve the purpose as well.

Lastly, what has been an eyesore for several years, has been removed, at least temporarily. The Oak Ridge road, running from the "1909" gate has been oiled as far north as Doctor Hobbs' gate. This has very effectively stopped the dust nuisance along the west side of the campus and added much to an appearance of cleanliness throughout the college grounds.

he finished the courses and examinations on his Doctors degree. He is now working on his thesis, a treatise in Physics.

were requested to be present. President Binford addressed the meeting briefly, after which he introduced Prof. D. Riley Haworth who gave a warm address of welcome to the new students.

The next step in acquainting the freshmen with Guilford was a series of talks by the heads of the different departments of the college curriculum. In these talks, the professors pointed out the relation of their particular subject to the college course as a whole, and the practical value the subject might have in one's life work. In order to have this work go on as smoothly as possible, the students were divided into six groups so that various classes might be carried on at the same time.

In the English department various tests were given so that the professors might more easily ascertain how far each student had advanced and what type of work would best fit their need.

On Friday and Saturday evenings the students gathered on the porch at Founders Hall and there found out something of Guilford, her policies, history and ideals.

Friday night, President Binford gave a talk on the policy and ideals of Guilford. He brought out the fact that the student should live so strongly in the Gilford spirit that they would not think of rules as restraining their liberties, but rather think of them as a guide to happy, helpful living.

On Saturday evening, Dr. L. L. Hobbs, President Emeritus of Guilford College, gave a vivid history of the life of the college and New Garden Boarding School. Doctor Hobbs also spoke of several of the prominent leaders connected with the early life of the Institution.

Starting in the mid-afternoon, Sunday, the faculty, several prominent visitors and the freshmen took a hike through the woods to Hamilton Lakes. There in a grove, sheltered by pine trees, Rev. Tom Sykes, of High Point, gave a talk, as a part of a program to interest students in the religious life and religious institutions at Guilford.

Every afternoon, from Friday to Tuesday, recreation hour was observed on the campus in front of Founders Hall. Games were played and the hour served all as a time in which to become better acquainted with one another. Also in the evening, directly after the dinner hour, the young folks met on the campus where they sang songs, learned the college yells and absorbed the "family" spirit of Guilford.
