Guilford Cagers Break Even With High Point But Lose To Elon By A One Point Margin

Quakers Defeat High Point College 23-17 But Lose In Second Game 28-29

TEAMS WELL MATCHED

Ferrell Is Now Back In The Game

In the last three games of the Quakers schedule which came before mid-term examinations, the Quakers quint made an even break with the Purple Panthers of High Point College and lost a brilliant game with the strong Maroon and Gold aggregation by one point. The scores in the High Point-Guilford game, one of which was played here and the other at High Point, were 23 to 17 on the local floor in the Quaker's favor and 29 to 28 at High Point with the Quakers trailing. At Elon the Quakers lost the contest by one point with a score of 16 to 15.

GOOD GAME AT ELON

The annual Elon-Guilford contest was a basketball classic. Every element that can enter into a contest and contribute to the excitement of the fray was present. The teams were apparently well matched, and the outcome was in doubt throughout every minute of the game. The close guarding on the part of both teams kept the score down to the minimum. The compact defense kept the ball entirely out of reach of the hoops for a great amount of the time.

Guilford was the first to score. R. Smith made a foul shot good. This was followed by another shot from the field. The Christians, however, soon rose to the occasion and a foul and a field shot and tied the score. Near the close of the first quarter they added another shot and the score stood 5 to 3 at the quarter, with Coach Doak's quintet sniffing the dust.

At the beginning of the next quarter Coble replaced Moore at center. During this quarter the Christians had a slight edge, getting two field shots to Guilford's one.

In the second division the Quakers began to locate the landmarks and getting their bearing, started to chip away the Christian's lead. At the third bell the game was beginning to afford thrills. The score was playing leapfrog and the cheering had given away to a deafening roar. With a minute go to the Quakers shot a goal and placed themselves one point ahead, the count standing 14-15. As the stop watch ticked off the few remaining seconds the Christians caged another beauty that marked the difference between winning and losing.

HIGH POINT DEFEATED

The Guilford-High Point game that was staged here was a rough and tumble affair, through which was scattered moments of brilliant work on the part of both teams. Numerous fouls were called, especially on the visiting team. Getting away to a good start, the Panther's scored well before the locals' defense began to function properly. After the visitors had hooped three points the locals broke away and starting with two foul points, they piled up a sinking fund of points calculated to settle the contest. At the half the count stood 14 to 6 in favor of the Quakers. The Panthers never smelt blood again except one time when they had rolled their score to within four points of the Quaker lead. However the spectacular shooting of R. Smith and Moore kept the locals at a safe distance ahead of the invaders.

LOSE AT HIGH POINT

The game at High Point Saturday night, January 30, was a seesaw affair. The Purple Panthers were able to put over the winning point only in the closing minutes of the fracas.

HAWORTH AND COX TO HEAD GUILFORDIAN STAFF

Frances Osborne and Ida Newlin will serve as Associate Editors.

At the regular meeting of the Guilfordian board, held last Wednesday night, the new staff, which will have charge of the paper during the coming year, was elected. Byron Haworth of Burlington was elected editor-in-Chief. Joseph J. Cox, of High Point, was elected managing editor; and Ia G. Newlin of Saxapahaw and Frances Osborne of Pleasant Garden were elected to the position of associate editors.

Mr. Haworth who follows Edwin Brown as editor-in-Chief, has been on the staff for some time and has proved himself an able director and a competent worker under his direction the publication will undoubtedly attain heights which it has never yet reached. Mr. Haworth holds important offices in other campus activities and it will be remembered that he was on the winning debating team put out last year.

The new managing editor, Joseph Cox, has been connected with the college publication for only about a year, but he has shown himself to be a capable one to handle detail and managerial work. Mr. Cox follows Harvey Dinkins who for the past year has performed the manager's duties efficiently.

The associate editors, Miss Osborne and Mr. Wewlin, have been on the staff for only a short time but they have done active work all the time and have naturally strengthened the news staff. They follow Maude Simpson and Nereus English, both members of ability and long standing. Miss Osborne has distinction of being

NEW SPANISH COLLECTIONS LATELY ADDED TO LIBRARY

Students who are taking Spanish, especially the members of the class in Spanish III, are finding the nice addition to the Spanish book shelf in the library an interesting one. These new books were on hand shortly before mid-term examinations but it is only recently that their real value as reference works and supplementary reading has been looked into.

It is hard to make a book report sound enough like the sensational things which are suppressed and not allowed to go through the mails. If once a book report could gain enough notoriety and questionable reputation as to cause it to be suppressed, then in these very modern days, there would be a general scramble for the book that was reviewed.

However, the books which this article is to review, have practically every one caused a genuine stir when they were first published. The first book to head the new collection received is a beautiful, illustrated copy of Gervantes' Don Quixote. It recommends itself rather, Don Quixote, himself, who is just shortly arrived from Madrid on the front of the volume, recommends himself and his volume.

The other Spanish works are of an equally interesting and valuable nature. There is a collection of 112 of Lope de Vega's plays in four volumes. Another four volume set includes representative works from the pen of Calderon de la Barca. The Poema de Mio Cid, in cheap paper binding and another volume of La Vida de Lazarillo de Tormes are not to be overlooked. A large Appleton's Spanish and English-Spanish Dictionary

MANY MUSICAL PROGRAMS ACCESSIBLE TO GUILFORD STUDENT AND COMMUNITY

Session Holds Forth Many Light Programs Here With a Number of Operas In Greensboro

Because of her situation near Greensboro and because of internal organization and equipment, as well Guilford College is able to enjoy a classical musical season that is on par with any that is offered in this state. In the following paragraphs a short resume is offered covering the productions that are being offered during the next few weeks on the campus and in Greensboro.

As this paper is going to press, the Normandy Singers and Bell ringers are giving a program in Memorial Hall. The Normandy Singers are primarily a good male quartet and the bell ringing feature is an added novelty that has made a tremendous hit wherever the company has performed. February 10, Miss Edith Moore and John Gurney, Briggs, both former Guilford students, will be heard in Memorial Hall in recital. This concert will be sponsored by the Guilford College Club. Mr. and Mrs. Gildersleeve are to give a recital February 20. The voice recital of the students of J. Westley White will take place on Thursday night, February 4.

Besides the above mentioned concerts, all of which will be held in the college Auditorium, there are a number of operas and other special concerts to be given in Greensboro

MISS EDITH MOORE AND J. GURNEY BRIGGS HERE IN RECITAL WEDNESDAY

On Wednesday night, February 10, Guilford community and students will have the opportunity to hear a vocal recital by two of the best known musicians in this part of the state. Miss Edith Moore and J. Gurney Briggs, of High Point, two of Guilford's talented alumni.

Miss Moore has for some time been engaged in concert singing in Atlanta. During the past few weeks she has given concerts at N. C. C. W., in Greensboro, and in many other places in this vicinity. Her Greensboro performance was particularly successful according to the Greensboro Daily News.

While she was in school here, Miss Moore's voice was greatly appreciated. Many of the older faculty members and people of the community will recall her years here with the greatest pleasure.

Mr. Briggs is one of Guilford's most successful alumni. At the present time he is connected with the Beeson Hardware company, at High Point. Last year Mr. Briggs was Director of the Guilford College Glee Club and filled the position in a most successful way. Under his guidance, the club made its unparalleled progress last spring.

President Binford Represents Guilford At The Meeting of The American Association of Colleges

DOCTOR ELIHU GRANT GIVES ADDRESS HERE

President Of Wister Brown Graduate School To Spend Week In North Carolina

Dr. Elihu Grant, President of the Wister Brown graduate school, of Haverford Pennsylvania, a well known educator and writer, addressed the student body and faculty in Memorial Hall Tuesday morning at the chapel hour. Doctor Grant is in North Carolina for several day's visit and will spend most of his time at Guilford College.

"I am going to lose you in the Bible" said Dr. Grant as he began his chapel talk Tuesday morning. He read one of the short stories of the Bible, the parable of the trees choosing a king found in the ninth chapter of Judges. Dr. Grant went on to say that this was a purely fictional passage, and although written over two thousand years ago it was an early expression of our present democratic ideas. Jothan, the young lad who spoke this parable had been driven from his home and from the throne to which he was the rightful heir. His half-brother having killed all the rest of the family and removed all difficulties in his way, had seized this throne. The lad made the trees to say that they had something worth while to do in the world and could not afford to be the lord over the others. But the thorny bramble that could never help the world seized the kingship eagerly.

"The more we read and think about this parable the greater it becomes for

SCHOOL OF MISSIONS TO START FEBRUARY

Arrangements for the coming School of Missions which will start February 7 and close March 14 are practically finished. The courses which had not been sure of a teacher have all been arranged for and will start on the first night.

Mrs. Cornelia (Robertson) Michaux, of Greensboro, who is well known in religious work through the South, will have charge of the Teacher's Training Class. Garvice Guthrie, a member of the senior class at the college, will have charge of the Junior boys and will conduct their class in mission study. Clara Coble, of the community, will take care of the class of Junior girls.

Miss Eva Campbell and Elwood Peele, with Mildred Townsend, will direct the music, both vocal and piano.

FRIENDS SECRETARY HERE

Miss Elizabeth Marsh, Executive Secretary of the Young Friends Activities of the Five Years Meeting of Friends in America, whose headquarters are in Richmond, Indiana, spent the week of January 25 to 30 at Guilford College. Miss Marsh is making a visit to as many of the Friend's centers in North Carolina as possible, having Guilford as her headquarters.

During the next week or two Miss Marsh expects to visit Friends' meetings in Yadkin, Forsyth, and Surry counties. Later on she expects to visit the Friends' meeting in Guilford County.

Miss Marsh's purpose in coming to North Carolina at this time is to form an acquaintanceship with the Young Friends of the State and to learn what they are doing in the way of active service.

"The Effective College" Is Chief Topic of Discussion Before The Meeting

DEAN HAWKS SPEAKS

President Also Attends Friends Educational Board Meeting

President Binford returned Friday evening, January 29, from New York and other points where he has been since January 13th.

Dr. Binford went to New York to attend the twelfth annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges, held January 14, 15, and 16. This Association was founded by Robert L. Kelly who, at that time, was President of Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana. This is the second time the annual meeting has been in New York City, all previous sessions having been held in Chicago, Ill.

"The Effective College," was the theme that was taken up at the meeting. The size of the effective college, athletics in the effective college, the personnel of students and teachers in the effective college, the cost of education in the effective college and business administration and college buildings and equipment was considered. In the discussion regarding the size of the "Effective College," Dr. Binford said there was strong sentiment expressed that a college could very easily become too large to remain effective in its work. Some of the men, however, considered that the effectiveness depended rather upon the equipment and organization than upon the size.

In speaking of the discussion centering around Athletics in the "Effective College," Dr. Binford said that it was suggested that the students should be trained to know how to participate in the control of athletics and that probably alumni control was generally not desired. Also there was a consensus of opinion that in the "Effective College," athletics never has the first place but that if it is kept in its proper place, inter-collegiate athletics is healthful and wholesome.

One whole session of the meeting was devoted to a consideration of the development of personality through Religion and Education. Dean Hawks of Columbia University, told of a course in the study of religion which is conducted there. Other prominent educators of the country spoke along this line. In speaking of the address given by Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, a Philadelphia minister, Dr. Binford

Moore Elected President Of Class Of Twenty-Nine

At the regular meeting of the Freshman Class, held in Memorial Hall on January 19th, Stanley Moore of Greensboro was elected class president over Charles Coble of Guilford and Scott Parker of High Point.

Moore has been a leader in the various school activities since he entered in the fall. Previous to this he attended School at Westtown, Pa., where he was Valdictorian of his class. He also won an old English "W" for being the best allround athlete there. Since entering Guilford he has won for himself a place on the varsity basket ball team, and has showed up well. Moore has already shown his ability as an orator, and his knowledge of parliamentary proceedings makes him especially fitted for this important post. Moore will be assisted by Robert Ayers of Summerfield as Vice-President; Francis Osborne of Pleasant Garden as Secretary and Ester Reece of Burlington as treasurer.
