NUMBER 12

GUILFORD IS RECOGNIZED

Now a Member Southern Association of Colleges

PRESIDENT BINFORD SUCCESSFUL IN HIS TOIL FOR GUILFORD

Association Meeting At Jackson, Mis., Admits the Quaker Institution

MEANS HIGHER STANDING

Eligibility Made Possible by Persistent Constructive Work of President Binford and Patrons of College.

Convening at Jackson, Mississippi, November 30 and December 1, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States admitted Guilford College into full membership to the Association, in recognition of the high standard work being done by this college.

This is an honor for which Guilford has been striving for several years, and membership has been realized only after much efficient and constructive work.

Guilford, for some time has been meeting the requirements of the Southern Association as to the efficiency in her work.

Professor Hill Turner, who presented Guilford's case before the Association, reports that Dean Wannamaker of Duke University, who visited Guilford College as a representative of the Southern Association, wrote a splendid letter recommending that Guilford College be admitted into membership.

PROF. TRUEBLOOD VISITS GUILFORD FOR TWO DAYS

Prof. and Mrs. Edwin P. Trueblood of Earlham College, who are on their way to Florida, stopped at Guilford December 3, for a five day visit.

Prof. Trueblood is the head of the public speaking department at Earlham College and has proved himself to be one of the best debating coaches in the state of Indiana.

While here he will visit some of his old pupils who have made quite a success at debating since they left Earlham.

He plans to visit C. C. Haworth, Superintendent of Burlington City Schools before leaving for Florida. Mr. Haworth debated on the Earlham team for four years and has since coached two teams which won the N. C. debating championship.

ANNUAL PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED THE COMING SAT. NIGHT

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" Will Be Presented by Strong Cast Saturday, Dec. 11

TO BE AT MEMORIAL HALL

Thrilling Mystery Drama Will Be Fall Presentation of Dramatic Council.. For Benefit of Y. W. C. A.

"There are keys and keys but I like my little key best of all." A mystery play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," will be presented Saturday evening, December 11, 1926, in Memorial Hall at 8 p. m.

The hero, a New York novelist, is driven almost to desperation by the varied experiences but at all times he holds the upper hand. He learns what real mystery is. It is not so different from these sensational melodramas he has produced, but the realism grips him, ensnares him and he is submerged.

The comedy that enters in is a subtle type, and is supplied by the old couple who act as caretakers for the Inn. As the hero makes his appearances the couple furnish some excellent character study.

For real thrills you need to see this play. The suave Bland, a dandy among the under world circles. The scheming Jim Cargan, a rascal politician, and the mayor of the nearby town of Reuton. Then the "pure and simple" black mailer, if there be such a thing, Myra Thornton. These people with the low-down cringing coward Lou Max will play upon your emotions.

LORENA BOOKER IS WINNER ZAY PRIZE

Frances Osborne and Mary Ellen Lassiter Are Other Contest Participants

MISS CAMPBELL SINGS

The eighteenth annual Oratorical Contest of the Zatasian Literary Society was held in Memorial Hall Saturday evening, December 4. Lorena Booker, Mary Ellen Lassiter, and Frances Osborne were the speakers for the evening. Miss Booker was winner of the prize.

After an address of welcome by the President of the Society, Ailene Beeson, Lorena Booker spoke on the question, "Shall we abandon the Eighteenth Amendment?" Miss Booker gave several examples of the condition in the country before prohibition, and said that prohibition is here to stay.

Mary Ellen Lassiter, second speaker, made a very interesting talk, "United States and the World Court." She said that the World Court is an important factor in the civilization of the world, and since the United States is one of the most important nations of the world, it should be a member of this court.

Miss Lassiter ended her talk by saying that the United States, as one of the greatest nations, should join the court. "Relation of the Whites and the Negroes in the South" was the topic of Frances Osborne's speech. Miss Osborne began her speech by giving some facts about the social conditions and relations of the whites and negroes in the days of slavery.

LAURA WORTH ATTENDS MAYFLOWER SOCIETY

Miss Laura D. Worth, Matron of Guilford College, was present at the second annual meeting of the Society of the Descendant of the Mayflower in Asheville at the George Vanderbilt Hotel, November 20.

The records of the society show a membership of 83, 32 of whom were present. Besides Miss Worth, who is a life member of the society, the following Guilford College people were present; Mrs. Edward Winslow of Tarboro, Mrs. Roderick B. John of Fayetteville, Mr. George W. Wilson of Gastonia.

While at Asheville Miss Worth was the guest of Burnham Standish Colburn, of Biltmore Forest, who was elected for his third term as governor of the North Carolina Society.

Raymond Binford

President Raymond Binford, who deserves much credit for Guilford's membership in the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States.

CLAYS ENTERTAINED BY PHILOMATHEANS

Conservative and Modern Ideas Interestingly Contrasted in the Program

JO PAUL MODERNIZES

At the semi-annual reception Friday night the Philomathean Literary Society, in old fashioned Quaker dresses and bonnets, and with long hair done up on top of their heads, entertained the Henry Clay Society. The program carried the audience back to the romantic days of strict conservatism when boys and girls were scarcely allowed to look at one another.

The program was divided into two parts, the first being a regular meeting of the Philogorean society, December 3, 1890. The first number on the program was a debate, Resolved: That intemperance is a greater evil than war. This question was thrashed out by the little Quaker maidens, but was left to the chairman to decide whether or not the query was true or false.

The second number, "Woman's Preparation for Life's Work," was given by Ruby Hall.

As the last number Annie Wagoner read a number of current events from "The Friend."

The second part of the program was a meeting of the Philomathean Literary Society, December 3, 1926. As the first number, Jo Paul read an interesting paper on the characteristics of the modern girl and told of the advantages of the modern girl.

Chandos Kimrey entertained with a vocal solo.

The program ended with a reading selection by Sallie Wilkins. President Chandos Kimrey then extended to the Henry Clay guests a hearty welcome.

PRESIDENT BINFORD PLANS FOR FUTURE

Says Guilford Is to Build on Foundation of Membership in Association

1937 IS CENTENARY GOAL

In Chapel, Wednesday, December 1, President Binford announced to the student body at large that Guilford has been accepted as a member of the Southern Association of Colleges. With this step, Guilford formally takes her place with nationally recognized grade "A" colleges.

It is gratifying to realize that Guilford's academic standard is now accepted.

MUSIC STUDENTS SHOW TALENT IN A PROGRAM

Catherine Cox and Jo Paul Are Enjoyed in Piano and Vocal Presentation Thursday at Chapel.

UNDER DIRECTION MISS YOCUM

In the regular chapel period on Thursday morning Miss Yocum presented two pupils of the musical department in program.

Miss Catherine Cox, pupil of Miss Bertha Yocum, played a Brahms Valse in A flat. She showed a great ability on interpretation as well as a good solid technical foundation for a student of her accomplishment.

Miss Josephine Paul, pupil of Mr. White, sang a group of songs which were of a lyric type, especially suited to her voice. The Spanish song was received best by the student body.

These chapel musical programs are not only entertaining, but are showing from time to time the improvement which is made in the pupils and what the music department is really doing.
