GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., OCTOBER 12, 1927

NUMBER 3

CRAWFORD'S ELEVEN STAGES GOOD SCRAP IN LOSS TO ERSKINE

Meets One of Strongest Teams in South Carolina and Loses
by an 18 to 0 Score

FRESHMEN ARE BARRED

Ruling Takes Several Regulars Out of the Lineup—Coach Hopes to Improve Team by Saturday

On a field that was more like the quagmire of an old fishing pond, than a football field, Pat Crawford's grid-ironers were beaten by the score of 18 to 0, by Erskine.

It was a hard fought game from the beginning and the teams were not as unevenly matched as the score would indicate. Guilford showed much improvement over the previous week-end, her line having much more drive than they have shown before. Erskine scored in the first, second, and third quarters. The first touchdown was the result of a series of end runs and line plunging. The second touchdown was carried over on a reverse end run.

Even though Guilford did not score, she fought with great vim. A pass of Robertson to Marshall put the ball on the eight-yard line. A fumble at this time after the ball was apparently over, proved costly.

After running the kick-off back a good distance, followed by off-tackle plays, the ball was again in the scoring position. The necessary drive was lacking and no score resulted.

For the third time, Guilford came within the shadow of the goal line as a result of passes and off-tackle plays. The opposition seemed too great and the boys could not get the ball across.

No scoring was done in the last quarter. It was during this period that the Quakers showed they knew how and could play football. The ball was kept in Erskine territory and in the possession of the Quakers most of the time.

The outstanding stars of the game were: for Erskine, Harkinson and Mac Mackin; for Guilford there were no outstanding players.

DR. PERISHO LECTURES TO COLLEGE STUDENTS

"Get Ready to Serve the Public," Says
Dr. Perisho as He Encourages
Students to Be Teachers

BEGIN TO BUILD FOR THE FUTURE

Dr. Perisho had "Getting Ready to Serve the Public" as the theme of his chapel talk Thursday morning. He began by asking the question: "What would you do if you could do what you want to do?" He answered it by saying that you can do what you want to with good grit, determination, and fine will-power.

Other thoughts brought out were: We need not expect to awake and find ourselves famous without paying the price of fame. We must get ready, while here in college, to do what people want done. Will coming to college increase our opportunity for a position? There are continuous demands for teachers for various departments in the best high schools of the state. However, many of the Guilford graduates do not teach. Several were named as heads of some of the large concerns of the state. In closing, Dr. Perisho said: "The secret of success lies in learning to do the things that you want to do."

LYNCHBURG GAME

Lookout Lynchburg! After another week of consistent practice watch Guilford go over the line to victory in the game with Lynchburg here next Saturday. Coach Crawford is working the men hard in order to rub out the wrinkles that allowed Erskine to defeat us last Saturday.

The Quaker team is planning to play havoc with the spectacular passing of the Grant Brothers, which was instrumental in the defeat rendered by Lynchburg last year. This team is noted for its accurate passing and hard line hitting. For this reason the Quakers are preparing themselves to hinder such playing. This is the first scheduled game for Hobbs Field and it is the aim of the Quakers to show their patrons that they still possess that old fighting spirit.

VOCATIONS SUBJECT OF TALK BY TURNER

Using Freshman Statistics, Professor Turner Speaks on Choosing of Vocation

TEACHING LED THE LIST

In connection with the newly organized vocational guidance committee, Mr. F. Hill Turner, business manager of the college, gave an interesting chapel talk concerning the vocational ambitions of the students, especially the freshmen, of Guilford College. He gave the following statistics of the freshman class, which prove that the professional field of the future will be composed of women as well as men. Teaching led the list of 53, while only one of the class had the calling of a farmer. Out of the class there is but one studying for the ministry. Two are studying medicine and five intend to enter business. The class has two landscape gardeners, one charity worker, two who intend to take up professional chemistry, one librarian, three electrical engineers, one civil engineer, one nurse, one musician, one physical director, two lawyers, one journalist, one secretary, and 26 who are as yet undecided. There are also three who have decided to become the heads of families and be blessed by the ties of matrimony.

"Choosing your profession before entering college has many advantages as it allows the student to take courses most suitable for his profession," said Mr. Turner, "but if you haven't chosen your work, make your decision and stick to it."

NEW BRICK PORCH AND COLUMNS FOR LIBRARY

Columns Are to Be Stuccoed and Mounted on a Granite Border,
Porch Floor to Be Tile

Among the many improvements which are in progress here at the present time is the remodeling and rebuilding of the front of the Library building. A new porch with a tile floor is being constructed. New columns of brick are to be erected. These columns are to be stuccoed and mounted on a granite border. The library building, which was erected in 1919, is still in good shape, but the columns and porch were in need of repair. When present plans for improvements are completed the library will be one of the most beautiful buildings on the campus.

ANTI-SMOKING RULE SUBJECT DISCUSSION

Many Think Present Rule Is Unenforceable and Should Be Modified While Dean Trueblood Agrees That Unrespected Rule Breeds Disregard for Other Rules But Thinks That Ideas of College Founders Should Be Respected

By ERVIN LEMONS

Agitation on a small scale has been making itself felt around the campus lately. The burning subject of said agitation is that of smoking. True to its policy of shedding light on subjects that seem to lie close to the rim of shadowy doubt, the Guilfordian has interviewed several people around the campus with the object of getting pro and con views on the use of tobacco on the campus.

Paul Reynolds, senior, says: "I see no use in having a rule against smoking when it cannot be enforced. The men are old enough to be allowed to smoke if they want to." And Moore Rabb, junior, voices practically the same sentiment: "I am in favor of doing away with the rule against smoking. It is better to have no rule at all than one that is being broken constantly."

Bob Griffin, another senior, states his views thusly: "I believe that the students should be allowed to smoke in their rooms, for now they are practically law-breakers on a small scale." Howard Trivette, president of the senior class, tells us: "The students are going to smoke anyway, and it is better for them to smoke openly than secretly. I think the rule should be lifted."

Dean Trueblood thinks this way: "The people who endowed this institution are against smoking, and we should abide by their wishes since we are the recipients of their generosity. But it is a bad thing to have a rule that is not enforced; broken rules breed disrespect for other rules. I do not believe that smoking in moderation will not hurt a man to any great extent, and my objection to smoking is because of the rules made by the trustees, not on account of smoking itself."

Among these few, the consensus of opinion seems to be in favor of allowing smoking since the men should know for themselves whether they want to smoke or not. Almost everyone admits that the present rule is non-effective. We might mention in passing that the great majority of colleges have no rule against smoking. In fact, there are very few colleges that do have such a rule.

CLASS OF '30 ELECTS OFFICERS FOR TERM

Robert Van der Voort, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Chosen President and Annie Ray to Serve as Secretary

HOWARD CANNON IS VICE-PRES.

At the first regular meeting of the sophomore class, which was held Tuesday night, October 4, the class officers were elected for the present term. Robert Van der Voort, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected president; Howard Cannon, Guilford College, vice-president; Annie Ray, Gibsonville, secretary and treasurer, and George Yelverton, Fremont, marshal.

The retiring officers are Hale Newlin, president; Currie Spivey, vice-president; Eunice Lindley, secretary and treasurer, and Edward Moore, marshal.

The class of '30 is looking forward to a good year. The members consider themselves very fortunate in having so capable a man as Mr. Van der Voort for president. The class hopes by mutual friendship and co-operation to advance, according to its motto, "Onward and Upward."

E. C. PERISHO SPEAKS TO COMMUNITY GROUP

Gives Opening Address at the Reynolds
Memorial High School to Large Group of Community Folk

At the opening of the Nancy Jane Cox Reynolds Memorial High School last Monday morning, Dr. Perisho delivered an address before a large crowd of community folk and students. This school was built by the Reynolds tobacco men of Winston-Salem in memory of their mother.

On this occasion there had been a deluge of rain falling all day but it did not keep the community folk from coming out in great numbers to hear Dr. Perisho's speech.

HAWORTH GIVES FIRST STUDENT CHAPEL TALK

Speaks on Loyalty to One's Alma Mater—Mentions Marked Improvement in Faculty and Students

TO BE SERIES OF STUDENT TALKS

This year there are to be a series of chapel talks by the students. This plan is different from that followed in other years. Byron Haworth was the first student speaker.

He told of a man whom he knew who was dissatisfied because his state did not have good roads, and when it acquired them he kicked because the taxes were higher. Mr. Haworth stated that at the close of his freshman year some people had asked him whether he believed Guilford could last another year or not. "An alumni member of Guilford College had been known to advise some high school students not to enter this college. Does this sound like loyalty to one's alma mater?" asked Mr. Haworth. "Certainly not, and it is such people as the above who are making it hard for Guilford to keep on her feet."

"This year Guilford has one of the finest faculties she has ever had and it is up to the students to back them up."

"It is up to the college students," he continued, "to advertise the true characteristics of their school. This can be done by writing brief snatches of praise in their letters home and by being courteous to the people who visit the college. If you see a visitor on the campus and he has a rather lost appearance, it won't hurt you to ask his name and to see if you can assist him. Give him a chance to know that we have a real student body here."

Edith Macon, '25, was married to James T. Bowman on Thursday, May 5, 1927. Mr. and Mrs. Bowman are living at Liberty, N. C.

COMMUNITY CHORUS IS ORGANIZED AT THE COLLEGE BY MR. NOAH

About 150 Reported for First
Rehearsal Held Tuesday Evening

WILL MEET EACH WEEK

Each Student Who Is Also a Member of Either of the Two Glee Clubs
to Receive One Credit Hour

Guilford College has not in the past been noted as a singing institution, but after seeing the enthusiastic and gigantic response made when Max Noah, head of the department of music, suggested the idea of a College and Community Chorus, one might be led to believe that the Guilford community had always been a musical Utopia.

Such an organization as the Community Chorus has been discussed for some years, but the specific and direct organization of it has been waiting for

TWO ATHLETIC CUPS OFFERED THIS YEAR

One Trophy Is Given by Alumni Association and the Other
by Professor Pancoast

TENNIS CONTESTS START

In order to increase enthusiasm, and a greater student participation in athletics, two attractive cups have been offered. The plans are rapidly being formulated and a more definite program of intra-mural sport is under way. To help foster this cause the alumni association is donating a large, beautiful silver cup to the class winning the most points in intra-mural sports. There will be class competition in basket ball, baseball, volley ball, tennis and track. Each class is already boosting its athletic timber, and since some of the games cannot be played until spring the suspense runs high to know what class shall be first to have its memorial engraved on the cup. Last year it was a close contest, the odds being between the sophomore and senior classes. Therefore, we would predict an easy victory for the present junior class since the class of '27 will not enter the contest.

The boys' tennis tournament is now in full progress. The elimination matches are being played. When all but eight contestants are eliminated there will be a round between each of the final contestants. The man winning the highest percentage will receive a beautiful cup generously donated by Prof. J. Wilmer Pancoast. At present a great deal of interest is being shown in athletics. The large freshman class has brought in some good material that will push the old team rather hard.

Professor Pancoast, the donor of the cup, has done much since he has been at Guilford in the line of tennis. He is not only interested in tennis but after much experience on the track at Cornell he shows a great interest in track here.

From the semi-final the winners will play members of the old team; namely, Robert Van der Voort, Stanley Moore, Worth Mackie and Charles Coble. In some cases professors will have to substitute for members of the team that graduated last year.
