First Time on North Carolina
Tour By Score of 33-23

HIGH POINT SCORE 27-26

Marshall and Coltrane Doing Great Work as Guards, While Coble and Haworth Shoot Well

Feb. 11.—Last Saturday night the Quaker five upset the dope-bucket by defeating the strong William and Mary aggregation to the tune of 33-23. The latter team had met only with success in her tour through North Carolina and was expected to down Guilford easily.

The Quakers took the lead in the first minute of play, but a series of fouls and a field goal enabled William and Mary to pull ahead a point or two. From then until the half it was a nip and tuck affair. The half ended with the visitors leading, 16-13.

At the beginning of the second half the Quakers unleashed a dazzling attack which bewildered William and Mary, and did not cease until the final whistle blew.

The passing attack of the Quaker enabled them to shoot crisp shot after crisp shot which, mixed with three long field goals, soon put Guilford in front with a comfortable lead. The work of the Guilford guards was outstanding throughout the game. Time after time they intercepted passes and broke up numerous shots on their way to the basket. So effectively did they guard that William and Mary got only one crisp goal during the last half.

Haworth, Guilford's ace, led the Quakers with eight points. Marshall and Coble tied for second honors with six

INITIATION HELD BY 'G' CLUB SATURDAY NIGHT

James Cox, Wildman, Murphy, Beamon,
Cannon, Benton, and Cheek Made
Members by Club Ritual

GROTT HOYLE PRESIDENT OF CLUB

Feb. 11.—Saturday night the men who made letters in football during the past season were received into the "G Club." They were James Cox, Wildman, Murphy, Beamon, Cannon, Benton, and Cheek.

The "G Club" is a new organization on the hill, being formed only last fall. Those men who have made one letter in any sport previous to the fall of 1927 are charter members. The purpose of this club is to create a better spirit among the letter men and to aid in rushing new material from high schools. Cranford Hoyle is president and Moore Rabb is secretary of this organization.

The initiation rituals were held in the local wood-box (the gymnasium). The fighting spirit of the Quakers was shown very well during the initiation when they ate raw oysters and Limberger cheese without a murmur. "W." "D." Benton proved very adept at eating raw oysters and Limberger cheese and asked for more. After the new members had made speeches, they were given the right hand of fellowship by the charter members, and then all proceeded to enjoy sandwiches and cold drinks. Besides the letter men and Coach Crawford, Dean Trueblood, Professor Purdom, and Doctor Ott were present, and seemed to enjoy the occasion very much.

Freshman Basketball

Since the Freshmen showed such a great interest in the class basketball team, Coach Crawford suggested that a manager be selected and games arranged with high school teams in this locality. Vaughn Wyrick was chosen manager and several games have been secured.

The Freshmen defeated the fast Clemmans High quintet here Friday night, 49-20. Though the score was a bit one-sided, it was a fast and interesting game with the Freshmen staging a sensational spurt during the last few minutes of play. G. Alley, of the Freshmen, was the shining light, running up a total of 22 points.

In other practice tilts the Freshmen have shown a great deal of strength.

INTRAMURAL GAMES NOW BEING PLAYED

Basketball Tournament a Significant Factor in Winning of the Class Trophy

FRESHMEN HAVE EDGE

Feb. 11.—Keen interest is being shown toward the inter-class basketball tournament which got under way last week. In the opening round of play the freshmen defeated the sophs, the sophs downed the juniors, and the juniors emerged victorious over the seniors.

The freshman-sophomore battle was close and hard fought, the two teams being about evenly matched. The superior teamwork of the freshmen enabled them to grab the big end of the final score, 25-20.

The sophomore-junior engagement was not so close but even more hard fought. Several of the participants suffered sprains and bruises as a result of the floor-work of Hoyle, brilliant junior guard. Due either to nervousness or over-anxiousness, Hoyle soon fouled out of the game and from then on the sophomores enjoyed a comparatively easy time, the final score being 36-20 in their favor.

The junior-senior game was a real thriller. The lead swapped back and forth several times before the juniors

IRA G. NEWLIN ELECTED PRES. OF SENIOR CLASS

Sara Jinnette Is Secretary, Glenn Boose
and Evelyn Braxton Are Marshals; Thesis Question Is Discussed

Feb. 7.—The Senior Class Tuesday evening elected as president, Ira G. Newlin, of Saxapahaw, and as vice-president, Joseph J. Cox. Miss Sarah Jinnette will serve as secretary and Glenn Boose and Miss Evelyn Braxton as marshals.

Featuring the class meeting was a discussion on the question of the abolition of senior theses. The general sentiment of the class was against the present requirements for theses. The main point of objection lay in the fact that at present these theses are done mechanically, and are for the most part re-statements of ideas, instead of expressions of any thought.

ROZELL EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Cox Reviews Achievements of Year and Rozell States Policy—Toasts and Speeches Are Given

Feb. 9.—At the annual banquet of the Guilfordian board, held at the Hylmore Tea Room in Greensboro, Edwin Rozell, of Salt Point, New York, was announced editor-in-chief of the Guilfordian for the coming year. Alice Hazard, of Union Springs, New York, has been re-elected managing editor; and the two newly chosen associate editors are Sara Edgerton, of Trenton, New Jersey, and Reginald Marshall, of Germantown, N. C. Joseph J. Cox, of High Point, N. C., who has served in the last two years as managing editor and editor-in-chief, respectively, was unanimously elected contributing editor.

The banquet was informal and scheduled from 7 to 9 o'clock. Joseph Cox, the retiring editor, acted as toastmaster for the evening. As Harvey Dinkins, of Winston-Salem, who was closely connected with the Guilfordian while in college, was unable to be present, A. Scott Parker, Jr., was called upon to give his characteristic speech. Mr. Parker spoke on the necessity of keeping the college publication alive and vitally interesting both to students and alumni. He also conveyed suggestions from Mr. Dinkins to the members of the board. Miss Dorothy Gilbert, faculty adviser, and Miss Era Lasley, alumni editor, both spoke concerning the paper and its policies, and Byron Haworth, contributing editor, gave a toast to the success of the paper.

Joseph Cox, in his farewell speech, reviewed the achievements of the past year. He mentioned the various certificates of honor which the paper had received, and spoke concerning college publications in general.

The privilege of initiating the new officers fell to Miss Edgerton. In order to fully assure the audience of Mr. Rozell's ability to fulfill the task editor-in-chief, she "got his number." Miss Hazard was submitted to an intelligence test. Short talks were heard from Sara Edgerton and Alice Hazard. Edwin Rozell then made his inaugural address, stating the policy of the paper and his plans for the coming year.

BASKETBALL TEAM IS ON TRIP NORTH

Optimistic Outlook for Quakers
Who Proved Their Valor in Last Two Major Tilts

PLAY SEVEN BIG GAMES

Feb. 13.—After emerging victorious in two major tilts during the past week, the Guilford College Quakers left this morning on an extended northern trip. Tonight the Crawfordites met the Lynchburg Hornets and it is certain that the home team will be out to average the stinging defeat the Quakers handed them two years ago. Little is known of the strength of the Richmond Blues, who will be played in Richmond Tuesday night, though in past years games between the two teams have been closely contested. Wednesday afternoon the Guilford team will meet William and Mary at Williamsburg and as Guilford won handily from the latter team Saturday night, chances of repeating the victory are good. Randolph-Macon is reported to have a strong quintet and the game should be closely contested and exciting when the Quakers tie up with them at Ashland Thursday night. From here the Guilford team goes to Washington, D. C., where Georgetown and George Washington University will be encountered on successive nights. These are both big schools, but according to comparative scores, Guilford is hoped to win one of the latter games. Manager Parker and Coach Crawford are taking the following men on the trip: Captain Moore, Haworth, Coltrane, Marshall, Yelverton, Coble, Ayers, Chisholm, Alley and Griffin.

DWIGHT CHALMERS AT GUILFORD FOR CHAPEL

Christ Is Only Man Found Flawless by His Enemies—Christlike Is Highest
Adjective That Can Be Used

Feb. 7.—Those present in chapel Tuesday morning heard a splendid talk by Mr. Dwight M. Chalmers, pastor of the Church by the Side of the Road, who selected his text from Matt. 10:24. Mr. Chalmers spoke of the many changes in education in which better methods are always being developed. There are social changes for better or worse, but usually the moral standards are raised. More women are entering business than ever before, and this is extremely noticeable early in the mornings when the laboring class of people go to work.

WEBSTERIANS LEAVE GUILFORDIAN BOARD

Feb. 10.—The Websterian Literary Society at its regular meeting refused to act on the communication sent them by Editor-in-Chief Rozell, and through its committee notified him that they were "out for good."

This apparently brings to an end the controversy which started on February 3, 1928, upon the receipt of the following letter by Editor Rozell:

"Editor-in-Chief of Guilfordian,
"Guilford College, N. C.
"Dear Sir:

"We, as a committee, appointed by the Websterian Literary Society hereby do notify you that we (the Websterian Literary Society) have withdrawn all our relations, both financial and editorial, from the Guilfordian.

"GURNEY LEE COLLINS,
"LESLIE MURPHY,
"WALTER ROBERTSON, Committee."

No reason was given for this withdrawal, but it has been unofficially learned from some of the members of the withdrawing society that finances was the sole reason for the action.

In reply to this, Editor Rozell dispatched the following letter:

"Websterian Literary Society,
"Guilford College, N. C.

"Mr. President:
"I have at hand the letter of the Websterian Literary Society stating their intention of withdrawing all sup-

Stating Future Tasks

EXECUTIVE SEC'Y A. F. S. C.

Russia Is Challenging Friends of Today to Demonstrate Christ's Way of Life.
Religion Must Not Be an Opiate

Feb. 12.—The speaker for the second meeting of the School of Missions was Wilbur K. Thomas, executive secretary of the American Friends' Service Committee. Wilbur Thomas mentioned five significant things which have happened to the Society of Friends in the past ten years. In the first place, the war jolted Friends out of their complacency and caused them to realize the work to be done. In the past 50 or 100 years the conservatives have insisted on stereotyped ways of doing and conformity to the ways set by the world. In the second place, Friends have won the confidence of the American people and the rest of the world. The American public demonstrated its willingness to help by donating 23 million dollars to the work of the American Friends' Service Committee although it was a pacifist organization. The third significant event in the past ten years is the relief work

GLEE CLUBS DISCUSS A FEDERATED MUSIC CLUB

The Club Will Give First Program at Asheboro Street Friends Church in Greensboro on February 11

WOULD BE IN NATIONAL GROUP

Feb. 9.—Thursday at 12:30 o'clock The Minnesingers Glee Club, the Euphonian Glee Club, and the piano and voice students of the college, met in the Zatasian Society Hall, to discuss the formation of a Federated Music Club at Guilford College.

Mr. Max Noah, head of the music department, presented the matter to the assembly. In forming a Federated Club at Guilford, the club is a member of the State Federation of Music Clubs, and automatically becomes a member of the National Federation. The club will receive all the literature of the National Federation and will also have an opportunity to send one, if not both, of its Glee Clubs to the annual conference.

Mr. Noah read a letter from the Secretary of the State Federation, in which the Guilford College Music Department was invited to become a member of the State Federation. The assembly voted unanimously to accept the invitation.

The executive committees of the Minnesingers and the Euphonian Glee Clubs are to act as a nominating committee to bring forward names for officers. The organization is to be in name only. It is to gain publicity for the college and not to monopolize the time of the members.

The club will be financed by its members. Each one will pay a small fee each year, and a fund will be established by proceeds from double concerts given by the Minnesingers and Euphonian Glee Clubs. The first concert held for this purpose, will be given Sunday evening, February 11, 1928, at 8 o'clock, at the Asheboro Street Friends Church in Greensboro.
