With Her Keen Understanding of Haman Nature She Led a Generation of Students to Better Living

May 20.—A message was received here today stating that H. Louisa Osborne, professor emerita of Latin and former dean of women at Guilford College, died yesterday at her home in Greensboro, Indiana. Her death was not unexpected, as she had been in a critical condition for some time. On Easter Sunday Miss Osborne was removed to a hospital in Indianapolis, Indiana, where she remained for several weeks after an operation. She seemed at first to be gaining in strength and was removed to her home May 1. She began, however, to grow weaker and lingered only three weeks.

For thirty-four years she was dean of women and professor of Latin in Guilford College. Two years ago, on account of declining health she was forced to retire from active duty. She has since been at her home in Greensboro, Indiana. Despite her illness, she has maintained a keen interest in Guilford and her students, whom she loved. She was affectionately called "Miss Louise" and was, to her students, a vital part of the college life. Her girls can never forget the interest she took in them and her loving understanding. Her great knowledge of life and human nature enabled her to maintain a high standard of discipline among her pupils. In the hearts of all who knew her, her position is secure as one who loved her students and one who was an indispensable part of the growth and advancement of Guilford College. The 1927 annual was dedicated to her memory.

Miss Mamie L. Gaine, treasurer of Guilford College, and a close personal friend of "Miss Louise," left Monday for Greensboro to attend the funeral.

TWO GLEE CLUB CONCERTS

Several recitals and concerts have been given by the members of the Music Department as the spring season closed. Mr. Max Noah, director, has featured the musical program in the activities of this semester's work.

The music club gave a program at the Odell Memorial building in Greensboro. Their repertoire consisted of songs by the Euphonia and Minnesingers Glee Clubs, solo work by Mr. Noah and Miss Catherine Cox, duets by Misses Owen and Paul, and double quartets from both glee clubs. The audience was small but appreciative and the program was considered one of the best given during the year.

On May 12, Paul Reynolds gave his graduate voice recital. He was ably assisted by Misses Catherine Cox and Virginia Saunders, pianists. He was accompanied by Prof. Max Noah. The program was a varied one, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Of especial interest was "The Rainy Day," which was composed by Mr. Reynolds as a senior thesis. It exhibited the talent which has characterized his work in music for four years at Guilford. The program follows:

Vittoria, Mio Core, Carrisima.
Viennese Carnival Pranks, Schumann.
Shall I in Mamre's Fertile Plain?
(Joshua), Handel.
In This Sepulchral Darkness, Beethoven.
Hark! Hark! the Lark, Schubert.
Irish Tune from County Derry,
Grainger.
The Rainy Day, Reynolds.
Sunrise and Sunset, Spross.
My Star, Beach.
Border Ballad, Cowen.

The students' recital took place May 16. The program contained a great variety of selections, all of which were very creditably given. Miss Josephine Paul, singing "To Celia" and "A Memory," displayed a fine clearness of tone and beauty of rendition. Georgia Fulk, playing "Hungarian Concert Polka," re-

TAUGHT HERE 34 YEARS

Funeral Held at Greensboro, Indiana,
Tuesday Afternoon and Interment
Was at Knightstown, Ind.

By DR. L. L. HOBBS

Miss Osborne was a beloved teacher in Guilford College for 34 years, 1892-1926.

She was a graduate of Earlham College at Richmond, Indiana, and felt the touch of the fine spirit of Joseph Moore who was long president of that college. To have known such a man was in itself an enduring inspiration.

Miss Osborne was a distinguished student in the midst of good students at Earlham, and was strong in language, Latin, English, and history; and she continued her work as a student of these branches of learning throughout her life. The kind of books she purchased for her private library proved her scholarship instinct. She was a teacher by natural inclination, by choice, and through many years of devotion to her chosen profession.

Thirty-six years of one's life is a long period to devote to any profession, and gives ample opportunity to test one's ability and one's steadfastness of purpose, as well as one's service of his generation.

Miss Osborne came to Guilford in the prime of her life and almost at the beginning of the college as such. While the school was founded in 1837, its change to Guilford College came in 1888. Miss Osborne gave her life to Guilford almost a full generation, at the native period of educational revival in North Carolina. Especially was this so in the

Minnesingers Glee Club Celebrates
Close of Season With Banquet at High Point Country Club

The Minnesingers, after the concert season, celebrated by having a banquet at the High Point Country Club on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The guests numbered 23, including faculty members, students, and outside friends.

The program was based on the history of the club. The toastmaster, Byron Haworth, began by welcoming the guests and introducing Lyndon Williams, a charter member of the club, who told something of its organization. His talk was called "The Hatching." Other talks followed, as "Feathering," "Chirping," "Flying," "Gooing," "Mating," "Nest-Building," "Nestlings." Max Noah, in his talk on "Nest-Building," spoke on his plans for the next four years, and gave an interesting program for the members of the two glee clubs and chorus. Paul Reynolds, as retiring president, interpreted the "Nestlings" to be the leaders of next year's club. He announced the results of the election of officers held several weeks ago. The new officers are: Moore Rabb, president; Robert Atkinson, vice-president; Walter Davis, secretary; Justice Strickland, business manager; Sinclair Williams, assistant business manager; Glenn Robertson, librarian.

The students' recital took place May 16. The program contained a great variety of selections, all of which were very creditably given. Miss Josephine Paul, singing "To Celia" and "A Memory," displayed a fine clearness of tone and beauty of rendition. Georgia Fulk, playing "Hungarian Concert Polka," re-

DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

MISS EULALIA HANNA

COLLEGE LOSES A CAPABLE TEACHER

Miss Hanna Had Traveled Extensively and Studied in Spain and Philippines

THE LOSS KEENLY FELT

Miss Edna Eulalia Hanna, professor of Spanish, who died last Saturday, was a woman of wide education and varied experience. She came to Guilford last fall with the highest recommendations, and in the estimation of her students she has more than lived up to expectations. She received her first degree, that of A. B., from Athens College in 1917, and the degree of A. M. at Peabody College in 1924. Since then she has studied and taught in various places. From 1921-1923 she was a student in Spanish at Iloilo, Philippine Islands. She both studied and taught at Colegio Internacional, Barcelona, Spain. In the year 1925-27 she was a student of Spanish and French at Berlitz School of Languages. For two years she taught in Iloilo High School, in the Philippines.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD

Had Not Been Well for Several Weeks
But Taught Classes Until Five Days Before Her Death

May 14.—Miss Eulalia Hanna, who has for the past year been assistant in the Romance Language Department at Guilford College, teaching Spanish, died in the Wesley Long Hospital, Greensboro, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. For several weeks Miss Hanna had worked under considerable strain, but although she had to remain in bed most of the time when she was not teaching her classes, it was not until five days before her death that she gave her consent to be taken to the hospital. An operation for appendicitis was not successful and she fought a losing fight for life. Until Saturday morning about 11 o'clock Miss Hanna had seemed to be slowly gaining strength. Just before that hour in a conversation with Mrs. Kressin she had talked of her classes and of her plans for the remainder of the year. She was arranging ways of helping the students make up the work they had lost, so that the entire year's schedule might be completed before examinations, which begin next week. About 11 o'clock, however, Miss Hanna suffered a relapse and was again taken to the operating room. She lost strength steadily and died before her relatives could be reached.

Guilford students had not realized Miss Hanna's condition, not fully appreciating that her cheerful attitude during the past weeks had been maintained only by her grit and courage. They requested that a funeral service be held at the New Garden Meeting House. Sunday afternoon at 3:30 her body was brought here. Samuel Haworth led a very impressive service and Dr. Binford read a tribute written to her by J. Carl Sink.

The chapel period on Monday morning was devoted to a memorial service.
