MRS. DOROTHY NOAH GIVES VOICE RECITAL AT MEMORIAL HALL

Appreciative Audience Especially Enjoys Beautiful Rendition of Songs

MAX NOAH ACCOMPANIES

Best Received Numbers Are "Dream in the Twilight," "My Heart is Weary" and "Thanks Be to God"

Nov. 24.—Dorothy Wilbur Noah made her second formal appearance before a Guilford College audience Saturday evening in the auditorium at Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Noah had a program which gave her simple opportunity to use her highly cultured voice with all its range, which she did beautifully.

She sang with a singular touch and charm that thrilled and delighted an appreciative audience. The numbers "Dream in the Twilight," "My Heart is Weary," and "Thanks Be to God" were especially well received.

Mr. Noah, in his group of five instrumental selections, displayed excellent finish.

The program in full was as follows: Sapphic Ode, Brahms; Dream in the Twilight, Strauss; All Soul's Day, Strauss—Mrs. Noah.

My Heart is Weary (Nadeshda), Thomas—Mrs. Noah.

Toccata and Fugue, D minor, Bach—Busoni—Mr. Noah.

Night, Rachmaninoff; Lilacs, Rachmaninoff; Field Beloved, Rachmaninoff—Mrs. Noah.

Minstrels, Debussy; The Girl With the Flaxen Hair, Debussy; The Dancer in the Patio, Repper; March of the Dwarfs, Grieg—Mr. Noah.

Dawn, Curran; Moon Marketing, Weaver; Thanks Be to God, Dickson—Mrs. Noah.

MRS. BINFORD TO BE ART EXHIBIT HOSTESS

O. Henry Ball Room to Contain Many Etchings from the Museum in Charleston, South Carolina

COLLEGES TO BE REPRESENTED

Nov. 28.—Mrs. Raymond Binford will represent Guilford College as hostess at the Exhibit of Art and Etchings at the O. Henry Hotel this week.

A rare opportunity for art lovers is presented by the exhibition of wood block prints and etchings, which are the property of the Charleston museum of Charleston, S. C., loaned to the Greensboro Historical Museum Society. The bringing of the collection to Greensboro this week and the displaying of a group of paintings will tend to belie the allegation that people of North Carolina are indifferent to art of the better sort.

The exhibition will be opened to the public at ten o'clock Tuesday morning. The hours the exhibition will remain open for the remainder of the week are from ten o'clock in the morning to one o'clock in the afternoon and from three to six o'clock in the afternoon.

Tuesday is the city schools day. Wednesday will be Greensboro College day, Thursday is to be Woman's Club day, Friday will be N. C. C. W. day, and Saturday, the final day of the exhibition, will be Guilford College day.

MINNESINGERS ENTER THE STATE CONTEST

Stiff Practice and Drill Gets the Boys Ready to Compete With Other North Carolina Colleges

HAVE HIGH HOPES OF HONOR

The Guilford College Minnesingers have been actively training for the past two or three weeks for the state glee club contest which is to be held at Duke University, in Durham, on December 6. The club has high hopes of winning the contest this year. It is hoped that the same fighting spirit will be developed by the Minnesingers that Coach Shepard's football team now possesses.

A concert has been scheduled for December 3, which will give the club practice before an audience before the contest.

The following is a list of this year's club: Glen Robertson, French Holt, F. Cox, H. C. Turner, N. White, W. Mackie, Mathews, first tenors; J. Strickland, W. Davis, M. Lindley, J. Robertson, R. Richardson, O. Thompson, second tenors; W. Ingerman, B. Andrews, L. Murphy, W. Steele, A. Tew, R. Atkinson, J. Booker, baritones; C. Wray, P. Tew, R. Van der Voort, Hampton, E. Williams, S. Williams, basses; Glen Robertson, student director.

DR. BINFORD SPEAKS AT HARMONY GROVE

Bernice Henley Talks on Young Friends Activities and Mabel Holton Directs Missionary Pageant

PERISHO TELLS QUAKER HISTORY

Nov. 25.—Guilford College has been taking an active part in the quarterly institutes which are being held in various sections of the Yearly Meeting, Dr. Raymond Binford, Dr. Elwood Perisho, Miss Mabel Holton, and Miss Bernice Henley being the college representatives at the institute which is being held at Harmony Grove Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday Dr. Raymond Binford conducted a blackboard discussion on the duties of the local church. His leading questions pertained to the task of the church, which is generally conceded to be the saving of its people. More and more specific questions were then asked, until the duties of the various Yearly Meeting committees had been brought out. In this way the work of the church becomes a real feature and is much more highly supported. Dr. Binford also presented the general plan of the Quaker organization, from the Monthly Meeting to the Five Years Meeting.

Miss Mabel Holton had charge of the presentation of the missionary pageant which is presented at each institute. Her task is to find local characters to fit the parts and to attend to the costuming.

Dr. Elwood Perisho spoke on Sunday concerning the many things Quakers have done in the history of North Carolina. They established the first permanent religious meeting for worship, the first Bible school, and the first teachers training school.

Miss Bernice Henley spoke on the work of the Christian Endeavor and other phases of the young people's work.

Visiting the Shepards Mrs. Ruckert and Mrs. Knapp, mother and sister of Mrs. Shepard, are now visiting the Shepards.

FALL PLAY TO BE GIVEN DECEMBER 8

A well-blended combination of comic and tragic elements characterize the play, "Icebound," which will be presented by the Dramatic Council on December 8.

Every character is decidedly human. This is brought out by the fact that the Jordan family is waiting impatiently, hoping to become legates, after the last twitch of life leaves Mrs. Jordan.

When the will is brought to light by Judge Bradford, Bunyan Andrews, the servant girl, Jane, Esther Reece, whose benignity of character is well established, is sole inheritor of the vast estate.

The disappointed "Crow Buzzards," as Ben terms the rest of the family, flock thick around Jane, asking her to back them financially after she becomes administratrix.

The plot thickens when Jane plays her financial trumps to keep Ben, whom she has loved since childhood, out of prison. After she teaches him to work and reforms him, she makes the Jordan estate over to him. The climax is reached when Ben awakens to the fact that Jane is responsible for his freedom as well as his reformation, and "all is as you like it ever after."

COLLEGE BAZAAR IS SCENE OF REVELRY

Weary Students Forget Their Cares for an Evening of Fun and Frolic; Viv Color Scheme

SPONSORED BY Y. W. AND Y. M.

Nov. 22.—Color and gaiety featured the College Bazaar which was held at New Garden Hall on Thursday evening from seven until nine-thirty. Plenty of good eats were sold to students, who were hungry for sweets and dainties. A bowling alley attracted a great deal of attention, while a real for sure fish pond yielded forth many and sundry bits of candy, toys, et cetera. Two flashingly dressed Gypsies guarded a secret booth, within which unknown proceedings revealed to the more adventurous their fortunes. A central booth held gifts and candy.

All records of modernistic art were broken by the exotic color scheme of the New Garden dining hall. The center of the room was occupied by a large booth, each side of which was decorated with separate color schemes of brown and gold, lavender and royal purple, black and silver and light and dark green. Three sides of the booth displayed gifts which were for sale. These had been contributed by the young women of the college. Pretty linens, handkerchiefs, a tea set, and clever novelties made up the greater portion of these gifts. Delicious homemade candy was quickly sold.

The windows, which for years had been neglected, were dressed in gala curtains of brilliant colors. Diagonals and angles made one's eyes quite dizzy.

Tea tables for two and four were placed about the room and were graced by yellow chrysanthemums. Menu cards were in evidence, and for each table there was a waitress.

When the music began, two waitresses dressed in white, with caps and aprons of two colors, opened the doors, and the anxious crowd pushed in. The first raid was on the candy booth, but the musicians had their toll of listeners and the bowling alley was soon overcrowded for shots. The fishpond was worked overtime and people were forced to give up finding the secrets of their futures, for the line of the "patiently waiting" became so long.

Flashes of white and color were seen flashing through the throng as the waitresses brought chicken salad, cake, pie, coffee, ice cream, chocolate, and persimmon pudding to the famished students.

As the evening wore on couples found the parlors useful. There was a continuous sound of music and although it became faint during the middle of

INTELLIGENCE TESTS CAUSE FOR COMMENT

Final Outcome of This New Method of Entertainment Not Actually Determined—Forms Complexes

SEVERE TESTS OF KNOWLEDGE

The false and true tests have at last found a bitter rival. It is a well known fact that the more leisurely professors have been given to the check mark type of examination, but Professor Trueblood has done them one better, rationalized, in fact, and substituted intelligence tests. Dean Trueblood himself is probably ignorant of the fact, but to others it is evident that this is merely a suppressed form of laziness. Dean has been approached on the subject, but of course he did a bit of "wish-thinking" and gave reasons less offensive to his "Censor."

Disregarding the motives of the test the results are very interesting. A great many superiority complexes have been broken up. Those who did poorly would not admit the facts to themselves but blamed it onto dissipation of the night before or onto a poor breakfast.

The actual results show Alice Hazard as the high point winner. (It will be of interest to the readers to know that Miss Hazard was a star on last year's legging team, however, we refuse to draw any conclusions). The second place was a tie between Ruth Outland and Margaret Fawcett. The first three places for the men were taken by James Harper, Joe Cude, and Napoleon Bonaparte Hire.

LITERARY CLUB TALKS OF AMERICAN REVIEW

Professor Lyndon Williams Leads Discussion on America's Oldest Monthly Magazine

The Literary Club met at Founders Hall Thursday evening. Linden Williams, leader for the evening, discussed the North American Review, which is the only magazine that survived the Civil War. The paper began in a close intellectual group in Boston and was later moved to New York. The editorship passed through various hands. The articles are semi-popular in type, for example "A Million Dollars for Football—and Worth It." A section, "In Retrospect," is devoted to a discussion of previously published articles. Miss Miles was elected club secretary for the year.

The members decided to join the "Book of the Month Club" for a period of at least six months. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who are already members, offered them the use of their library.

STANLEY MOORE IS ELECTED EDITOR OF GUILFORD QUAKER

Mildred Kimrey Chosen Managing Editor and Strickland Photographic Manager

HOYLE IS BUSINESS MGR.

No Definite Plans as Yet—Work May Be Given to the Queen City Printing Company

Stanley Moore was chosen editor of the 1929 "Quaker" at a recent meeting of the senior class. The other members of the staff, elected at this time, were Mildred Kimrey, managing editor; Cranford Hoyle, business manager, and Justice Strickland, photographic manager. The action taken by the senior class is the outgrowth of the persistent agitation of several organizations, including the student affairs board, and a group within the class who felt that the publication of an annual was necessary to help clear the existing debt.

As yet no definite plans have been laid nor have any contracts been let. It is expected that the printing will be done by the Queen City Printing Company, of Charlotte, if satisfactory financial arrangements can be made and in all probability Flint's Studio, in Greensboro, will do the photographic work.

Editor Moore has not decided on the theme of the annual but he is planning to rush work on it as soon as the contracts are signed. He is trying to arrange everything so that it will be possible to take all the group and individual pictures before the student body leaves for the Christmas holidays.

Although the annual will be published by the senior class, the other classes will be represented on the staff.

DR. BINFORD ATTENDS SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION

Guilford College Will Present Satisfactory Report of Last Three Years' Progress

HELD FROM DECEMBER 6 TO 7

Nov. 27.—Dr. Raymond Binford is planning to attend the meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which is being held at Fort Worth, Texas, from December fourth to seventh. The North Carolina delegates have characterized a special car on which Dr. Binford will leave on Saturday evening, December 1. Should he not be able to attend, Mr. F. Hill Turner will take his place in representing Guilford College.

This session is to be featured by the tri-annual reports of the colleges. In a sense, the membership of each college in the association is tested every three years. Those colleges who have reports deficient in any way, are reprimanded and are advised to raise those points in which they are failing. Guilford presents this time a very acceptable report.

The various commissions of the association hold their meetings from the fourth to the sixth. The special problem of these commissions this year has been the investigation of the grading systems of colleges and high schools. The secondary schools are rated by the records which their graduates make in the colleges they attend. This fact has brought out the various methods which are used in college grading, and has led to a questionnaire which college teachers were requested to fill out recently. This session of the association will further discuss this topic.
