GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., MAY 21, 1930

NUMBER 16

Monday, June 2, Named Homecoming-Alumni Day

GIVE INVITATIONS

Mr. Hardy Carroll, President of the Guilford College Alumni Ass'n, Writes.

LUNCHEON IS SCHEDULED

All Old Students and Alumni Should Meet on the Campus During the Year of 1930.

As an additional plea for a large representation for Alumni-Homecoming Day, Hardy Carroll sends his plea:

"Members of the Executive Committee and the Reception Committee of the Guilford College Alumni Association working jointly with college authorities have worked out a program for Alumni Day at Commencement this year, which, it is believed, will prove of interest to alumni and old students of Guilford and result in a large gathering of Guilfordians at the college on Monday, June 2, Alumni Day.

After Commencement Exercises on the morning of the above date, the alumni and old students will gather for luncheon, which will be followed by a brief business session of the Association and an address by Hon. Joseph M. Dixon, First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C. It is also probable that Hon. David H. Blair, and other friends of the college will be present to give brief messages.

Several former members of the Guilford faculty and the older members who are still at the college, have been asked to meet their old students in their respective classrooms, and this, several of them have consented to do. This innovation, coming as it will in the afternoon following the luncheon and meeting, will no doubt be of special interest to alumni and old students, and we trust will bring many of them back to the college.

Guilfordians, is it still not a fact as it was when Wordsworth wrote:
"The world is too much with us; late and soon,

PHIL-WEB MEET FOR ANNUAL RECEPTION

Phils Entertain in Enjoyable Program Put on Friday Evening in Men's Center—Good "Eats."

The Philomathean Literary Society held its regular program in Men's Center at Archdale Hall Friday evening, May 16th. Members of the Websterian Literary Society were guests at this meeting.

The society was called to order by the president, Norma Belle Wilson, who apologized for the inside program which had to be substituted on account of the rain, for the intended outdoor program. She welcomed the guests and the following numbers were given:

Prophecy of Senior Webs and Phils, Alice Conrad.

Schooldays, a reading, Ollie McBane. Negro Sermon, Sallie Belle Best.

After miscellaneous business the critic, Louise Melville, gave her report and the guests were directed to the Home Economics Lab where a reception followed. The society and its guests arranged themselves around small tables where they were served punch, a salad course, and cake.

At 9:45 the guests departed, each expressing his appreciation of the enjoyable entertainment.

LETTERS RECEIVED FROM EX-FACULTY

Invitations Extended to Them for Commencement Brings Interesting Replies.

MANY DESIRE TO RETURN

Invitations have been mailed to about 20 former faculty-members requesting their presence at the college on Alumni Day, June 2nd. During the afternoon plans have been made for the alumni to meet the faculty members in class, as of old, and socially.

Several interesting replies have been received from which excerpts have been taken:

Mrs. Robert N. Milam hopes to be present, as do Mr. and Mrs. John Downing. Dr. Binford will be on hand to meet his former students. Although he has not given the subject for discussion, it will probably be on amoebas or dinosaurs. Be prepared for any question in biology or geology.

Mrs. Rusack says "it would indeed be a pleasure for me to return to Guilford for Alumni Day," but it is quite impossible this year.

Dr. Gilbert Pearson says: "I wish I could be with you, as I strongly feel that this is the time when all Guilford

MRS MARTIN, MOTHER OF MRS. HAWORTH, DIES

Mrs. Z. L. Martin, mother of Mrs. Samuel L. Haworth, died at the Haworth home on the Friendly Road last Thursday. Members of the faculty and student body extend to Mrs. Haworth their sincerest sympathy in her bereavement.

For several years Mrs. Martin had made her home here. She was formerly a missionary to Cuba, being stationed in Halquin. Mr. Martin is at present serving in the work on the island.

CENTENNIAL FUNDS GROW AS FRIENDS GLADLY RESPOND

The New York Evening Post Aids Distributor of Campaign News.

DAVIS IS PUBLICITY MAN

Movement Is Launched Among Students—More Than $6,000 Has Been Subscribed.

Indications to date concerning the progress of the Guilford College Centennial Club for raising the college endowment are favorable. The enthusiastic backers of the campaign are well into the spirit of the movement and many worth-while results are anticipated.

The Centennial committee held its first meeting in August, 1927. This committee was appointed from the board of trustees, faculty members, and alumni. But the Centennial Club, for the maintenance of the college during its Centennial endowment and building program, was organized this past winter. A sponsoring committee in New York City has taken the lead in the movement.

The response from the outside has been most gratifying. The interest in Guilford College and its centennial goal has aroused comment among a wide group of outsiders, who seem willing to help the campaign—provided the college does its part. Most of the faculty has already subscribed and the Junior class has shown enthusiasm by setting a mark of one hundred dollars to be contributed before 1937. More than six thousand dollars has already been contributed and the movement is gaining new friends.

Royal J. Davis, of New York City and a former Guilford faculty member, is the publicity manager and he recently submitted an article discussing the club. This has been reprinted in the newspapers of North Carolina in an effort to stimulate more local interest in the plans of the college. He has done much in New York and through the New York Evening Post the club plans are receiving beneficial advertising. Mr. Davis, in speaking of the campaign, said: "It is a deserving cause, if there ever was one."

Mrs. Robert N. Milam hopes to be present, as do Mr. and Mrs. John Downing. Dr. Binford will be on hand to meet his former students. Although he has not given the subject for discussion, it will probably be on amoebas or dinosaurs. Be prepared for any question in biology or geology.

Alumni-Homecoming Day, June 2, 1930

Notice! Alumni Committees

The suggestion has been made that all Alumni Committees plan to meet on Saturday afternoon, May 31. It has been planned to have joint meetings of the committees with corresponding committees of the faculty and trustees on the afternoons before and after the supper. These three groups meeting together may have something to add to the college seven-year.

The A Capella Choir gives its home concert that evening and a number of the committee members will wish to hear the program of Guilford's most outstanding musical organization.

SPEAKERS SELECTED FOR COMMENCEMENT

Dr. Elbert Russell of Duke, and Dr. John R. Jester Will Address Graduates.

ALUMNI DAY BIG FEATURE

Dr. Elbert Russell, Dean of Religious Education, Duke University, and Dr. John R. Jester, pastor of the First Baptist church, Winston-Salem are to deliver the graduating address and baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Guilford College in their commencement exercises, June 1 and 2.

The plans for the commencement exercises are featured by the special day for the alumni home-coming. Formal announcements have not been made about the class exercises and play.

The graduating class: Graham Allen, Sallie Belle Best, Gertrude Blow, Annie Ruth Bullard, Catherine Cox, Lena Farlow, Sumito Fukasawa, Evelyn Hayworth, Ruby Johnson, Mary Ellen Lasister, Eunice Lindley, Lola Monroe, Okel Moore, Leslie Murphy, Annie Kate Neal, Barclay Newlin, Delmas Newlin, Hale Newlin, Norman Osborne, Rembert Patrick, Horace Ragan, Annie Ray, Currie Spivey, Alton Tew, Norma Belle Wilson, and George Yelverton.

Come and Meet Your Friends, June 2!

Arrival of "Quaker" Causes Autographic Riots On Campus

"To those who sacrifice and strive to help us rise, our Mothers, Fathers and Guardians, we dedicate the 1930 Quaker."

That is the dedication of the new Quaker, which came out Tuesday, May 13th. The fine spirit of the class of 1930, together with that of those representing the student body who assisted them in compiling the book, is shown in these words. The thing that is so often pushed into the background, or even forgotten entirely—gratitude and love for those to whom every one owns most—is brought to light and given the place it deserves.

The 1930 Quaker is entirely worthy of its wonderful dedication. As is set forth in the theme, the book has the peculiar quality of combining the quaintness of historical Guilford with the new, fresh, buoyancy of present-day activities. The gold border of each page, together with the division pages, tell plainer than words of the rich past, when Guilford College had its beginning. But on the pages is the modern Guilford—the Guilford of 1930.

The first pages of the book tell, through pictures, the beauty of the campus. Then there is a chance to get acquainted with the faculty members. After that everybody has a picture—that is, almost everybody. It's easy to tell who has and who has not by watching them look at the Quaker for the first time. If they have, they immediately turn to that fortunate section in the book they think it will most likely be located, and with gasps and sighs and shakes of the head, say it's a grand book with good views.

An active Guilford—that is the story the section portraying the part entitled "Organizations" tells. The various clubs and associations keep up the enthusiasm and pep of the student body in things other than school work. Be-

JOSEPH M. DIXON TO BE HONOR GUEST FOR ALUMNI DAY

Ex-Governor of Montana and Wife Expected Here for Commencement.

NOW WITH INTERIOR DEPT.

Left N. C. in Early Years to Live in West: His Sister, Mrs. White, Lives in Guilford Community.

Among the foremost honor guests on Alumni Day will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon. Although Mr. Dixon was born at Snow Camp he has spent most of his life in the West. He studied at Earlham College, but got an A. B. degree at Guilford College in 1889. While at Guilford College he was a member of the Henry Clay Literary Society. In 1892 he was admitted to the bar; from 1907 until 1913 he was a United States Senator; and he served as governor of Montana during the term from 1921 until 1925.

President Hoover made his first important change in the Interior Department in March, 1929, when he appointed Joseph M. Dixon as first assistant secretary to Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur. In making this appointment, the president sought a Westerner thoroughly conversant with conditions in the Rocky Mountain States which are vitally affected by the administration of the Interior Department. Mr. Dixon is an experienced executive with a wide knowledge of western needs.

Mr. Dixon early left North Carolina to live nearly his whole life in Montana, while his sister, Mrs. Alpheus White is a resident of Guilford College community. The presence of Mr. Dixon again on the campus of his Alma Mater is enthusiastically awaited.

EVOLUTION THEORY PROVED BY ZATASIANS

Zays Entertain Clays With Program in Which Old Maids Are Changed to Sweet Young Things.

"In the spring Zatasians' fancies lightly turn to thoughts of receptions." This fancy has become realized, for on Friday night, May 16, 1930, the Zatasian Literary Society entertained the Henry Clay Literary Society at a delightful social.

The regular meeting was held in Memorial hall. In the absence of the president, Annie Ray, Eunice Lindley presided. At the opening, the marshall of the girls' society, Elizabeth Edgerton, escorted the members of the men's society to the hall. The regular procedure was followed and as a special program several girls gave an "Old Maids' Convention." Catherine Cox, in all her dignity, as Sarah Peabody, was president of the organization. Kathryn Johnson, Martha Armfield, Mary Linville, Argyle Elliott and Isabella Jinnette were members of this amusing group of the gay 90's. Isabella Jinnette acted as secretary and was in the act of reading the minutes of the preceding meeting when a small, harmless, innocent little mouse interrupted her with a slight squeal. After much excitement the "girls" became seated again and the program proceeded. While Kathryn Johnson was reading some of her love letters to one of her numerous sweethearts of her younger days, a
