JUST GETTING TOGETHER

In Quaker circles, Westtown Preparatory School is symbolic of the quiet efficiency of scholarly achievement. To hear the students speak of their school is to see the representation of a true loyalty and respect for an alma mater.

This particular example is used only to show what we might have also. We both are founded on the principles of Quakerism.

Our Alumni Association is a comparatively large one, but only a few are active members. Our student body exists on the campus, but few of them live for Guilford College.

Few problems are unsolvable and few conditions are unchangeable, so we make this a plea for a get-together on things. We want the students and alumni closer to each other—and both closer to the college. Do help us get it!

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor:

Time! We all possess it! But how many of us utilize it in a profitable manner? I am certain that all of us want to make the very best use of our time.

For the past weeks there has been quite a bit of discussion concerning this budget. That's as it should be, for we want to understand clearly what it's all about before it is adopted.

Some have expressed the desire to change the free Wednesday afternoon to Monday morning in order that the week-end might be prolonged. I see no need of "putting off the evil day."

We—faculty and students—must realize that the plan, as suggested, is not to be a hard and fast rule. I do think that this budget is a good one and if we adopt it, with possibly a few modifications, we shall have made a big step forward.

Isabella Jinnette, '31.

Dear Editor:

Do you realize how much the success of next year depends on us? Do you realize that next year has to be a success if we want the things we have asked for to be carried out?

We need one who will not do what he or she thinks best, but who will consider the point of view of the student body, the faculty, the trustees, the future, and our Alma Mater.

We should be very careful as to all officers we elect for one person can't do it all alone. That person needs a strong group to work with, a group who will not be prejudiced or who are going to hold little things against you.

When you go to vote, remember that this is a free country—you can vote as you please! If there is a person put up for an office that you think would do better in another position, don't hesitate to scratch the ballot and put in the person whom you think best suited for the position.

I hope all the students will be serious about this thing, for it is a serious occasion. I believe we would do wrong by putting in officers next year who let people "pull the wool over their eyes."

success, and our Christmas gift of 1932 will be a real student body who is capable of solving its problems ALONE!

I don't believe very many of us are proud enough, at present, to go out and brag on our Alma Mater; but if we will all work together to put in our strongest leaders, and then stand by them, and consider everyone, not just our own little selves, we will have something to be proud of.

I'm hoping the students realize that the nominees DO NOT HAVE TO BE ELECTED! Anyone you feel should have the place, put his name in! The names are being posted ahead of time, so if you want anyone else to run, nominate them!

I hope you are not bored with all this, but there is a need for considering this problem, and the future of Guilford depends on next year's officers! Are you concerned over what you have to live by the rest of your time here? Do you want to continue as it is at present?

Sincerely, SOL LEVI.

Quaker Material Ready For Press

Special Photographic Work and Features Distinguish Year Book

At last the copy for the Quaker has been sent in to the printer and the editorial staff is standing by, breathing a sigh of relief, and waiting for the proofs.

Were it not for the fact that the annual was included in the student budget it would have been next to impossible to print a Quaker this year.

As a result, the annual this year will be small. It was not made small through any wish of the editors nor at the expense of excluding necessary material.

Two or three new ideas will make the coming Quaker entirely different from any of its predecessors. There will be a different arrangement of group photographs and the campus views will be presented in an entirely new way.

To give any further information concerning the annual would only serve to do away with any suspense on the part of the students. If they will only not condemn this year's volume because of its brevity and will make an effort to judge it on the basis of merit, the work of the staff and of the Benson Printing company should provide them with a book which will be recognized as one that will serve as a good record for the school year.

Suicide Is Subject Of Mr. Haworth

On Wednesday, March 10, Mr. Samuel Haworth talked to the students on suicide.

"Considering the burdens some men carry and the great principles that others have stood and suffered for, why should not men today face the things they have created?" he asked.

Many magazines and newspapers are taking the attitude of excusing men for this. How much better would it be to live to old age and then meet death with calmness and serenity as in Bryan's "Thanatopsis?"

Claudius Antonius Themistocles Deceased, Goes Into Moralization

Of course I know that cats should never have concerns—least of all, should dead cats have them. But certain matters have been weighing heavily on my conscience, and a clean conscience is about the best thing you can have in cat-heaven, so this is a sort of clearing day.

"When spirits walk" makes a very picturesque beginning for a sermon, and if I were going to preach, I would use that, but since I'm not, I'll use it anyway as the beginning for my conscience cleaner.

When I walked and decided to communicate with the material world, I had just finished seeing the crack exhibition the little, (and big), Quakerettes staged last week. I had seen much evidence of their physical ability during all of my nine lives, but I was quite entranced over seeing it brought out as it was.

Naturally, the colors exposed hurt my eyes, since I've been accustomed only to golden streets and whipped cream. However, if blue insists on being so blue, there is still hope that rompers might demand being crimson and grey sometime.

could teach about climbing ropes. No one in my life time suggested that I was a rhythmic cat, but it doesn't take a critic to note that dancing might improve in beauty if the music were a guide as well as an accomplishment.

Maybe that is one reason the fellows reacted so audibly to parts of the program. Being an angel, I feel that comments are superficial, but with another memory giving my conscience fits, I better get it off my chest. Back in basketball season the student body was penalized a free goal shot for discourtesy to a visiting team.

However my disposition always improved after a carefully aimed whack with a broom, or a particularly violent "Scat!" Anyway, I got all excited about the poor old woman in the shoe and almost lost my balance during the croquet game.

And the great moral to this dissertation is always be conventional and maybe you'll be an immortal cat someday.

And now there is the one that Massey Tonge will use nothing but Carter's Ink. Well, well, well!

That "fortune-teller," "mind reader," or "what have you," that was in the Carolina Theater last week would be a great help to a student on an exam.

Last week we meant to crack about the track team's nice new red silk panties, but forgot it. Anyway, with clothes like that, the team should all get callouses on their chests from breaking tapes.

Now that the girls have gone to such trouble to build up a "Campus Bench Fund" we hope that the benches that are bought are put to proper use; or rather, that it will be possible to put them to proper use.

Which reminds us; isn't there some possible way the boys could raise some money to buy more davenport for Men's Center? On Saturday and Sunday nites you can't buy a seat three minutes after dinner is over.

Which also reminds us that we think a vote should be taken as to what kind of music the "Fairy God-Fathers" should tune in during date hours.

We claim the title of the "World's Worst Tennis Player"—"Pop-eye" Van Noppen beat us three sets.

"Brick" Gouger's a lover!!!

If the same weather prevails Wednesday for the Inter-Class Track Meet that has been in vogue for this week-end, the races will have to be started from a diving board.

Spring is here—Bob Jamieson is writing poetry—and SUCH poetry!

Louis Untermeyer Lectures N.C.C.W.

Louis Untermeyer, one of America's very modern poets, was a recent speaker at the North Carolina College for Women in their lecture course. With studied superficiality he charmed his audience by his clever presentation of his outer self, and the lightness of his moods.

In the gloaming, oh my darling, When the gas is dim and low, That your face is powder painted How am I, sweetheart, to know?

DEAN MILNER SPEAKS ON LOYALTIES AT C. E.

Leaders of Oxford Movement Give Food, Air, Exercise As Spiritual Tonic

Dean Milner spoke to the Christian Endeavor class Sunday night, March 15, on "Our Loyalties and Their Effect on Our Lives."

He defined loyalties as ideals and standards of conduct. According to Josiah Royce, the famous Harvard philosopher, our ideals have a great influence on our lives and should be the centers of our spiritual existence.

The leaders of the Oxford movement have prescribed a spiritual tonic of food, air, and exercise. As food we should devote a few minutes of each day to thought of the reading of the Bible or some other book.
