Program Arranged For Guilford's Homecoming Day November 21

Annual Elon - Guilford Football Game And Faculty Play Features

Whole Campus To Have "Open House" For Alumni And Old Students

DR. HOBBS WILL SPEAK

November 21 has been set aside as Homecoming Day at Guilford College. This is a day when all old students are urged to return and renew acquaintances and view the changes that they may keep in touch with their alma mater. Dr. Binford has sent out letters giving a cordial invitation to all old students to be present. In order that everyone may get as much as possible out of their short stay at Guilford a program of activities for the day has been arranged.

The main event of the day is the Guilford-Elon football game and before supper which is at 6:30, open house will be held all over the college. At this time the old students may visit their former rooms, favorite haunts, and are urged to inspect the new features on the campus, especially the library, the post office, the Dean's office, the new psychological laboratory, Men's Center, the Music Building, and even see the new stoker in the central heating plant.

A program of greetings is planned for 7:30 o'clock. Dean Milner will act as toastmaster with Max Noah as leader of group singing. Dr. L. L. Hobbs will speak on "Yesterday;" "Today" will be featured by Dr. Raymond Binford; and Robert Frazier will prophecy "Tomorrow." This program will end with the Alma Mater led by Mr. Noah. The faculty play will be given at 8:30 p. m. in Memorial Hall, and from all evidence it will be well worth attending. It has been rumored that J. Franklin Davis and Raymond Binford will render solos during the intermission.

Dramatic Council Selects Fall Play

"Darick Clausen," With Dutch Background Presents Humor And Truth

DOUBLE CAST WORKING

Some plays are interesting because of their humor, while others draw large crowds because of some truth they bring out. The Dramatic Council on November the twenty-eighth presents "Darick Clausen," a play which combines both of these qualities. "Darick Clausen," a play whose setting is in a little Dutch settlement in the Catskills, though modern, calls to our minds a picture of colonial Dutch men and women. The people in this sequestered little village take extreme pride in their hand-made brick—Darick Clausen being an ideal representative of the genius of the community. Grace Harding, a modern college girl type, tries to persuade Darick to accept modern methods of making brick by machinery. This shows the sturdy Dutch stand for the product of a soul rather than the product of a machine. Which counts for more? "Darick Clausen" in three stirring acts gives the answer.

Many students have shown an interest in trying out for the play. The students have not been chosen yet, but a double cast is working on the play.

JAPANESE LECTURERS TO VISIT G. C. CAMPUS

Colemans Will Illustrate Life And Arts With Lantern Slides

LIVED THERE 20 YEARS

On November 13th and 14th the college will have the opportunity and privilege of hearing two lecturers who have the power to please, yea to charm.

On Friday, November 13th, Mrs. H. E. Coleman will offer for our consideration a lecture which has grown out of twenty years of living in Japan. Mrs. Coleman has given a series of six lectures at Chautauqua, New York and twice in Chicago. The general topic has been present day events and readable books about Japan. More specific topics are: The Shrine in the Home, The Five Arts of the Home, Art and International Relations, and Modern Japanese Women.

Mr. Coleman will give a lecture at 8:00 P. M., Saturday, November 14th, on "The Gardens of Japan." His lecture is illustrated with slides beautifully colored by Japanese artists.

Mr. Coleman has had a wide acquaintance with Japanese all over the Empire, having been entertained in Japanese homes and hotels and having spoken their own language and read their own literature.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

The following issues of The Friends Messenger are needed to complete our file in the library:

I have recently received a few odd copies of The North Carolina Friend and am very anxious to get a complete file.

Sincerely,
Librarian.

NATIONAL BROADCAST IS SPONSORED BY THE LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES

President Hoover And Others To Speak November 14 9:00 to 9:30 P. M.

LISTEN IN AT WPTF

Two years ago a Liberal Arts Movement was started for the purpose of creating greater interest in the Liberal Arts Colleges of this country. The movement is striving to put before the people the aims and possibilities of individual colleges in their quest for a more even distribution of endowments.

On Saturday night, November 14, between nine and nine-thirty, the Liberal Arts Colleges are sponsoring a national broadcast from coast to coast, gulf to border. It is going to be one of the largest broadcasts ever given over the air in the betterment of education. The outstanding leader of our country will be one of the many speakers on this gigantic hook-up. President Hoover is heartily in favor of the plan and will give a brief, but to the point, address on Liberal Arts Colleges. Dr. Robert Kelly, president of the Association of American Liberal Arts Colleges; Dr. Finley, editor of the New York Times, and many other distinguished leaders will be heard.

It is the plan of the Association to have local broadcasts on the subject in each district. The individual colleges will be heard over the air. Guilford is sponsoring a program to be heard from station WPTF, Greensboro, Saturday night, November 14, nine to nine-thirty. The national broadcast will be heard over station WPTF, Raleigh, at the same time. Tune in and hear something really worth while.

Mr. Zenas L. Martin Dies In Baltimore

Mr. Zenas L. Martin, aged seventy-six, father of Mrs. Samuel Haworth, died in a hospital in Baltimore on October the thirtieth. Mr. Martin was interred in the New Garden cemetery where Mrs. Zenas L. Martin was placed less than fifteen months ago. Mr. Martin had for thirty years been a missionary to Cuba.

Evolution Of Music Building From 'Y' And Men's Dormitory

The music building has a very interesting history and has played many parts in the early life of the college. It was erected about 1895 or '97 under the supervision of Walter Mendenhall who had been a student here. The "Y" offices were on the first floor of the building. The plan had been to put a gymnasium on the second floor, but the floor was found to be too weak, and, as dorm space for men was needed, this floor was made available for rooms. Alva Lindley and Eugene Coltrane first roomed in the Y Building in the front room. Not long after this in the days of Dudley Carroll the Y Building was known as the center of the Brer Rabbit club, an interesting organization, further information upon which can be obtained by applying to our President.

PEACE LEADER

HARRISON INTRODUCES NEW PEACE MOVEMENT

Associate Secretary of National Council For Prevention Of War Speaks

CHALLENGES STUDENTS

Thomas Q. Harrison, representative of the National Council for the Prevention of War, was the chapel speaker here October 26. His challenge was to all college students—the world is challenging college students to think and help solve the problems of the world.

The world today is confronting another war, and the whole political and economic life is facing ruin. This war will be much more disastrous than the last one. If we can hold off the impending war for ten more years, we can hold it off for twenty, then forty and finally it will be possible to outlaw war forever.

We are living in a world of modern science with old concepts and thoughts. Even today we cling to the caveman type of security. Countries show by their many preparations for

YOUTH MUST LEAD WAY

Guilford College had as its guest for October 26 and 27, Thomas Q. Harrison, secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War. Mr. Harrison's college career was interrupted by the last war in which he took an active part. He has been a student at Yale Divinity School, and received his degree from there last spring.

He had quite an interesting plan which he presented first to the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. cabinets, Monday afternoon, October 26 and at an open forum meeting at Memorial Hall Monday night, before putting it before the student body as a whole.

This plan was a world peace movement to be carried on by the youth. The war system is the enemy of all youth, for it raises a curtain of hate between them.

In his talk Tuesday morning, October 27, he gave a few of his experiences with the youth of foreign countries, in order to show their deep concern for world peace. In 1925 he went to Germany to find out if
