

Boom Among High School Papers in North Carolina

HAS ORIGINALITY

Greensboro "High Life" Wins Second Place in National Contest.

MANY FEATURE COLUMNS

Great Enthusiasm for Life Is Shown by High School Minds.

In this time of depression it is encouraging to note that there is a great boom on among the high school papers of North Carolina, which are up and coming with a rush. Great originality is shown in news articles, but even more in editorial features.

The George Washington Bicentennial has furnished several enterprising editors with ideas for feature columns. For some time the Greensboro High School paper, "High Life," published essays on aspects of Washington's life and character. "Pine Whispers," of Winston-Salem, has printed Washington's rules of conduct, as has the Mocksville "Mocksonian." The "Boone Herald" prints compositions on Washington and Lincoln from time to time.

The Greensboro "High Life" has won second prize in the national high school press association contest. The news articles of this paper concern not only events in the high school, but also, the present public school situation, the state high school press, and similar subjects. On the editorial page is usually an interesting cartoon, a column of poetry, nonsense or otherwise "The Owl's Nest," a column whose subject would be hard to determine, and "Mephistophelian Macaroni," of the same genre, as well as a lengthy open forum and several short editorials.

"Our Own Dictionary" is an interesting and original feature of "Pine Whispers," of the R. J. Reynolds High School, in which we find the following definition: "Pony—called by book store managers 'Handy Translation'; a book devised to save wear and tear on vocabularies. Also a small animal probably of the species horse." "Pine Whispers" prints an alumni column as a regular

MRS. BINFORD SPEAKS ON "LIVING LIVES" TO Y

Powers of Leadership Can Be Developed by Every one.

At a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held on Thursday, April 14, Mrs. Raymond Binford spoke on "Living Lives."

Mrs. Binford brought before the meeting the necessity of preparing leaders. She pointed out that while not everyone can be a leader we should all develop those powers of leadership which we do have.

The first important thing is to live to one's own ideals. To do this it is necessary to know ourselves. We must learn to remove our weaknesses, and to develop our strong points. Never think that you are fully developed but remember that there is always room for growth. We should constantly add to those things in life which will make us worthwhile.

The speaker cited an example of a beautiful thing developed from a worthless object. Our lives are like that. Once marred they can be rebuilt and made more beautiful than before.

SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS ARE MADE

Pleasant Surroundings Offer Standard Work and Recreational Opportunities.

SPECIAL TRAINING GIVEN

Vocational guidance and personnel are to be emphasized in Guilford's fifteenth summer session which begins May 31 and continues through August 2, 1932. Guilford is perhaps as well qualified as any other Southern institution for this phase of instruction. The services of Dean Clyde A. Milner, Mrs. Ernestine C. Milner, and F. Carlyle Shepherd have been enlisted. High school teachers who find it their particular privilege to counsel youth will find this instruction very valuable.

Other aims of this session are first, to afford college students an opportunity to continue and supplement their Liberal Arts college course, for the work done in the summer session is standard work in a standard college and the credit received is standard credit; and second to give to teachers courses that lead to certification.

Scientific courses that are to be given will include introductory biology, hygiene, chemistry, physics, and mathematics. Physical education offers tennis, swimming, baseball, and archery.

GUILFORD STUDENT FATALLY INJURED

About 12:30 on April 16, on Asheboro road about 11 miles from High Point, Bobbie Wilson, one of our Guilford students, was fatally injured in an automobile crash. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vassie Wilson, a prominent family of High Point. An explanation as to how and why the accident occurred is not available. Alva Prevost, Wilson's companion was driving the car when it crashed into a concrete bridge. In a few minutes after the two boys were rushed to the High Point hospital, Bobbie died.

He entered as a freshman at the end of the first semester. He received college preparatory work at Woodbury Forest.

GUILFORD FACULTY ENGAGES IN MANY ABROAD ACTIVITIES

CHOIR IS TAKEN ON TRIP

A Capella Choir, Under Max Noah's Direction, Has Given 25 Concerts This Season.

A recent investigation shows that members of the Guilford College faculty, besides performing their regular duties at the college, have been quite active in outside work pertaining to education.

Dean Clyde A. Milner has taken part in conferences of national and international import, besides speaking before numerous groups in this section. At the International Boys' Work conference held in Toronto, Canada, last year, Dean Milner was the platform speaker for the United States, having as his subject "The Trends and Problems of Youth in America." At the international Y. M. C. A. conference held in Cleveland, Ohio, Dean Milner was chairman of the sub-committee on the family and sex relations. Besides delivering the sermon every third Sunday at the New Garden Friends' church, once a month during the past fall Dean Milner gave a leadership course to club leaders at the Cone Memorial Y. M. C. A. in Greensboro. During the past year Dean Milner has made about fifty addresses before various organizations, including conferences, service clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s, school and college chapels, and churches.

Mrs. Milner recently delivered an address before the college section of the National Association of Deans of

TWO OUTSIDE SPEAKERS IN CHAPEL ASSEMBLY

Rev. Tom Sykes, of High Point, and Mrs. Mary Grace Canfield Give Talks Before Student Body.

SUMMARY OF YEAR'S CHAPELS

Rev. Tom Sykes, of High Point, as exuberant and pleasing as ever, spoke in chapel on Tuesday, April 5. "In these times it is easy to be sarcastic and cynical toward the church," he said. "And it isn't long before we get cynical toward everything that has any idealism in it." In this time of "the slimmest boom we have ever known," as Will Rogers terms the present state of world affairs, it is well for us to consider the inspiring examples set by great men. Our own forefathers of the post-Civil War days were valiant strugglers in a worse situation than that which we are facing.

Inspired by the lives of great men, Mr. Sykes continued, let us strive toward a progressive life by keeping the values of yesterday and adding those of today, all the while checking ourselves by the realization that 'man's greatest utterance is himself.'

Mrs. Mary Grace Canfield, of Woodstock, Vermont, and Greensboro, a very unique and charming speaker, addressed the chapel group on Friday, April 8. Mrs. Canfield is very well

Choir Members Return From Extended Tour

J. ELWOOD COX

Beloved Chairman of Board of Trustees passed at his home in High Point.

J. ELWOOD COX PASSES AT HOME

Twenty-nine Years Chairman of Board of Trustees of Guilford College.

LEADER IN HIGH POINT

Jonathan Elwood Cox, who was for thirty-eight years a member of the board of trustees of Guilford College and its chairman for twenty-nine years, died at his home in High Point, on March 29th.

His parents, Jonathan E. Cox and Elizabeth Cox, came to Guilford in 1859 to take charge of the boarding school just before and during the Civil war. Mr. Cox spent his childhood and youth on the campus, becoming closely associated with Guilford College, never breaking the close relationship until his death seventy-two years later.

Elwood Cox faithfully executed several offices in connection with Guilford College. On August 11, 1894 he was elected a member of the Board of Trustees and in September of the same year he became director of the endowment. He was commended for his efficiency and economy in directing the building of Memorial Hall and in 1903 was elected chairman of the Board of Trustees. He willingly solicited great funds for Guilford and at the same time gave large donations himself. Elwood Cox scarcely ever was not among those who

"Billy," Six-Weeks-Old Member Of Choir, Appears in Costume

"Billy" Noah appeared in his first public voice recital on Saturday afternoon, April 12, at 4 o'clock. The Guilford College choir made up the audience and his first appearance was pronounced a screaming success by the choir group. "Billy," the six-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Noah, of the music department, was dressed for the ceremony, in a miniature choir robe of black and white in honor of the return of the choir from its northern tour. The tiny white blouse was cut along the identical lines of the college choir robes

VISIT GARDENS

Visited Richmond, Washington, Atlantic City, and New York.

WILMINGTON IS PLEASED

Forty-One of Old and New Members Spend Week Singing and Seeing.

We, the members of the "A Capella Choir," have just returned from our northern tour. The tour extended from Saturday, March 26, to the following Saturday, April 2. We gave concerts in Richmond, Virginia; Washington, D. C.; Mount Airy, Maryland; Wilmington, Delaware; Atlantic City, and Pleasant Valley, near Poughkeepsie, New York.

Mount Vernon was the first interesting point which we visited. Washington's picturesque mansion on the Potomac is the site of many, many excursions. In Washington, D. C. we were impressed by the Lincoln Memorial and Washington Monument.

The Longwood Gardens, just a few miles out of Wilmington, are truly an earthly Paradise. They are fashioned after the famous Gardens of Versailles. Flowers are growing everywhere, and their fragrance fills the air. Just as words cannot describe them, even so time will not take the memory of them away from us. We were delighted, also, to hear the largest pipe organ in the United States, which is in the DuPont Conservatory at Longwood Gardens.

But even a greater treat was in store for us when we were privileged to appear in a joint concert with Mr. Swinnen, at the University of Delaware. Mr. Swinnen, the organist of the DuPont Conservatory, is a master musician who really carries his audience wherever he wills.

Atlantic City could not be called a high spot in elevation, but we considered it one. We stayed at Haddon Hall, a large hotel; it was there that we gave our concert. Lovers of the ocean could gaze at it to their hearts content. It was a windy day, and the breakers rolling in from the vast expanse of water gave one a feeling of exaltation.

New York City was really a "high light." We who have stiff necks from attempting to see the top of the Empire State building are sure of that. We drove down Fifth avenue and Broadway, and saw a little of the great city. We had a beautiful drive along the Hudson to Poughkeepsie. We went through Sleepy Hollow and crossed the bridge where Ichabod Crane saw the ghost.

We don't have time to tell you about our trip, for that would fill up the whole "Guilfordian," but we do hope we have convinced you that our trip was worth while.
