PLAN TO CELEBRATE COLLEGE CHARTER DAY JANUARY 13

Two Committees Working in Preparation for Program at Present.

DOCUMENT GIVEN IN 1834

President Binford and Professor Shephard in Charge of Preparation for Hundredth Observance.

Plans for some sort of a celebration for Charter Day are being made. Charter Day will fall on January 13, 1934, one hundred years from the time Guilford College was granted its first charter as a boarding school. At that time it was New Garden Boarding School.

There are many interesting sidelights to the story of the obtaining of the charter. One of these is that it did not mention the fact of being a Quaker school. This was done for political reasons.

A committee made up of Miss Dorothy Gilbert, Miss Franklin Davis, Prof. A. I. Newlin, and Dr. Elwood Perisho is collecting historical data about this and also about what has happened at Guilford College since then. They are preparing a short history of Guilford College.

The board of trustees also appointed a committee. On this are Mr. J. D. Cox, Dr. D. D. Carol, Dr. Raymond Binford, Professor F. C. Shepard. They have been making plans for a program on that day. Although they have already had one meeting and made tentative plans for the program of the day, it could not be divulged. Another meeting will be held within a week.

Charter Day does not mark the opening of school, but the granting of a charter by the legislature of North Carolina. It was not until three years later that school began. There will be a much bigger celebration at the centennial of the opening of school, which occurs in 1937.

PLAN DRINKING FOUNTAINS FOR GUILFORD CAMPUS

College Club Sees to Installation of Needed Conveniences Soon; Mrs.
Davis is President.

FACULTY MEMBERS GIVE PLAY

Drinking fountains may soon be provided for students of Guilford College, according to members of the Guilford College Club, which met at Founder's Homecoming day.

Plans have not been finished for the project as yet, but the club has appointed a special committee to work with the advisory committee of the college. One fountain will probably be installed in Memorial hall and possibly another one or two will be placed somewhere on the campus.

Mrs. Franklin Davis, of the Guilford community, was elected president of the club at its meeting Saturday. Other officers elected were: Miss Laura Worth, secretary, and Mrs. Samuel Hawthorth, treasurer.

The club has planned other projects. One of these is a faculty play to be given in the near future. Another is the finishing of a signature quilt, which was started some time ago.

The club has reduced its dues from $2.00 to $1.00 in the hope of getting several new members.

Membership in the club is based on interest in Guilford College. Its purpose is to interest new students and others in the college, and to be of any possible benefit to the college.

Guilford Students Working Their Way

According to the office figures, over one-third of the Guilford student body is helping to pay its expenses through school.

The occupations vary widely, running all the way from sweeping floors to selling shoes. Around 85 students, mostly men, are employed by the college. They sweep the floors, work on the campus, do stenographic work, wait on tables, wash dishes or do anything else that might turn up.

Other occupations include agencies for shoes, pressing and photographic work, tennis racket restringing, and running cars for day students.

MEETINGS PRESENT VARIED PROGRAMS

Class Chapels During Past Two Weeks.

FACULTY MEMBERS HELP

Many interesting programs are being given in class meetings this year.

Thursday, October 5, the Senior class was called to order by the president, Elwood Cox. Mr. Furnas gave a talk on "Doggie Doings," in which he told of his experience with dogs. Then the class adjourned. October 11, the president called the class to order and since there was no business and Dr. Binford was to have presented a problem to the class, but was unable to get there, the class adjourned.

The Junior class met October 5, but there was no business nor any program planned, so they adjourned until October 11. The president, Martha Taylor, called the class to order. It was entirely a business meeting. A program committee and a social committee were decided upon, and the chairman of each committee is to give a report at the next meeting. This being decided upon, the class adjourned.

The Sophomore class met October 5. The president, James Fulp, called the class to order. Billie Osborne was elected secretary, and Colum Schenk was elected vice-president. Dorothy Sturdivant entertained with a number of ukelele selections, then the class adjourned until October 11. The class was called to order by the president, and Holt Knight was elected to be on the debating council. Miss Gilbert told a story, "Uncle Benny and the Bird-Dogs."

The Freshman class met October 5. The class was called to order by the president, William Capella. Irma Lee Graves then read some poems that she had composed in high school. The class then adjourned until October 11. The president called the class to order, the minutes were read and the roll was taken. Charles Sharp then read one of his own poems and a story, "Stray Dogs," and "Possum Hunting."

SUNDAY SCHOOL PLANS NEW TYPE OF PROGRAM

A new committee with new plans has undertaken the management of the Sunday school this year.

The meeting is to have student instructors usually who will be a combination of speaker, teacher, and leader of a discussion. After the speech made by the leader, there will be an open forum. The first student to lead will be John Bradshaw.

Those on the committee are Mary Edith Woody, Frances Alexander and George Parker. There will be more than one committee during the year.

CATAWBA TILT BIG ATTRACTION HERE HOME-COMING DAY

Seventy-eight of Former Students Return for Alumni Program.

SOCIETIES GIVE SOCIAL

Celebration of Guilford's Football Victory Big Feature of Program; Kindle Bonfire.

From all reports, the Guilford Homecoming last Saturday was quite a success. There were 78 alumni registered, besides a number of other visitors.

The most outstanding event of the day was at 2:30 o'clock when the Guilford Quakers met the Catawba Indians on Hobbs field for their annual battle. Guilford's 6-to-0 victory over Catawba was the first in several years.

Immediately following the game, various alumni committees met. These included the Executive Committee, the Publicity Committee, the Campus Committee, and the Athletic Committee.

The Executive Committee discussed plans for organizing the classes from 1920 to 1927, which are to have their reunions this year.

Publication of the Alumni Bulletin was the chief topic of discussion at the Publicity Committee meeting.

The Campus Committee discussed plans for the improvement of the campus. These plans have not been completed, but will be within the next few weeks.

The 25th anniversary of the Philomathean and Zatasian literary societies was celebrated by a program in Memorial Hall followed by a reception in Founder's Hall. The program consisted of piano solos by Misses Betsy Lucke and Annie Lee Fitzgerald, the reading of the history of the Zatasian Society compiled by Blanche Silver but read by Mrs. Jessie Cannon Lindley, and a vocal solo by Jewel Conrad.

The reception was shortened considerably by the ringing of the bell for the bonfire which celebrated the victory over Catawba. The meeting around the bonfire consisted of songs, talks from faculty, alumni, and members of the squad.

Haworth Presents Full Chapel Card

Sept. 25—The choir sang "Sanctus," by Gurnad. James Applewhite sang the solo.

Oct. 3—Professor A. I. Newlin spoke on armaments.

Oct. 6—Dean Purdom explained the regulations about absences. Coach Anderson and Captain Jern Burgwyn of football asked the student body to cheer the team on to victory. Burgwyn made the promise that the team would win if it were given the proper support, and kept it the next day.

Oct. 9—Professor William Suiter spoke about the NRA. He gave the history of the depression and pointed out the difficulties that would probably arise in carrying it out.

Oct. 10—Mr. Pancoast expressed the appreciation of the Homecoming Committee for the co-operation of all those who helped make the home-coming a success. Tom Sykes, the outside speaker, suggested that instead of accepting any new philosophy, we should follow Jesus Christ.

Oct. 13—Linsey, a colored man, played several musical instruments.

PRESIDENT BINFORD ATTENDS CENTENNIAL

President Raymond Binford spent the past week at Haverford, taking part in the Pennsylvania Quaker college's centennial celebration. The northern school was founded four years before Guilford was.

Guilford graduates doing advanced work at Haverford on year's Haverford scholarships are David Parsons, James Mathew Bridger and William Hire.

President Binford was one of about a hundred college presidents taking part in the observance.

JUNIOR MARSHALS RANKING STUDENTS

Three of the Six Have Honor Roll Standing; Present Envious Record.

LEADERS ON THE CAMPUS

The marshals selected at the last faculty meeting were: George Silver, Camden, N. J.; Bill Edgerton and Priscilla White, Greensboro; George Parker, Woodland, N. C.; Julia Blair Hodgkin, Guilford College, and Martha Taylor, High Point, N. C.

Their duty is to perform at all public entertainments in the capacity of ushers.

George Silver is chief marshal. He is a biology major and a member of the Student Affairs Board and has played in dramatic productions.

Bill Edgerton, an English major, is an honor roll student and a correspondent of the News Service.

Julia Blair Hodgkin, a psychology major, is an honor roll student, a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, Student Affairs board, Social committee, Philomathean club, and Dramatic council.

George Parker is vice-president of the Monogram club. He is active in basketball, football, and baseball. The Robert Van Der Voort Chemistry Scholarship was awarded to him in 1932.

Martha Taylor, a music major, is a member of the choir, a member of the Student Affairs board, and president of the Junior class.

Priscilla White, majoring in chemistry, is an Honor Roll student and president of the Women's Student Government; on the social committee and active in basketball, hockey, and tennis. She has been a student council representative since she entered Guilford.

DAY STUDENTS STAGE WEINER ROAST PARTY

Girls Invite Boys to Affair Held in Lindley's Pasture Last Wednesday Evening.

A number of day girls entertained at a weiner roast Wednesday night in Lindley pasture.

The program was impromptu. Weiners and marshmallows were roasted and a few games were played. The guests then departed after having had a very enjoyable time.

Those present were: Margaret Barnes, Kate Grady, Margaret Fields, Ruth Fuquay, Ida Mae Higgins, Irma Lee Graves, Martha Gray White, Millicent Teague, Frances Wiley, Lucille Jones, Nelson Jones, James Lovings, George Jones, Ray Higgins, Nathan Reynolds, David Reynolds, Warren Benzanson, Horace Stinson, Frazier Sauls, and Billy Cromwell.

COUNCIL CHOOSES AS TENTATIVE FALL PLAY 'THE FOOL'

Try-Outs Held Early Part of Week; Second Work of Pollock Given Here.

TRY-OUTS ARE FOR ALL

Furnas Directs Production by Dramatic Council; Number of Cast From Last Year Back Again.

The fall play to be presented at Guilford by the dramatic council will be "The Fool," by Channing Pollock, Professor Phillip Furnas, faculty adviser of dramatics, announced Thursday.

This play was chosen by the council for its dramatic value and general interest. Their choice may be reconsidered later, Professor Furnas says, if it is deemed advisable.

General try-outs open to the student body will be held the early part of next week. These try-outs are designed to test voices and stage presence of those students who are interested in taking part. Professor Furnas is interested in getting in touch with any students who wish to participate as members of the cast or as stage assistants.

The play given last fall, student-directed, was also by Channing Pollock, "The Enemy," in which Rose Askew was particularly impressive in the leading dramatic role. Others taking part were George Silver, Daryl Kent, Margaret Perkins, William Hire, David Parsons, Harris Moore, Harry Brown and Jewell Conrad.

The spring production, a comedy, "You and I," by Barry, was directed by Mr. Furnas, who will also direct the coming play. Rose Askew and George Silver played the leading roles opposite one another. Also in this play were Frances Alexander, Julia Blair Hodgkin, Plin Mears and Bob Galliger.

LIBRARY BUYS NUMBER NEW BOOKS THIS FALL

Miss Ricks Announces Purchase of 179
Volumes Since Opening of School.

LIST INCLUDES FICTION WORKS

Since college opened this fall, the library has bought 179 new books, according to Miss Katherine Ricks.

The Carnegie Corporation supplied most of the money with which the books were bought. Also, it was through this organization that Miss Ricks was able to buy a large number of these books from the Yale Press at half price.

Among the new books are 18 of latest fiction, to be kept out only one week, and a set of 15 volumes on reserve entitled "The Pageant of America." This set of books is edited by Ralph Henry Gabriel and is printed by the Yale Press.

Besides having new books, the users of the library have the benefit of a re-arranged reading room. The tables have been moved around, according to Miss Ricks, to make it easier and quieter for the students using the library.

New Orchestra Performs

The first orchestra of any size or importance that Guilford College has ever had made its initial appearance Saturday night, October 7, when it played during the alumni dinner. Mr. Noah and the audience expressed themselves as being well pleased.
