Quakers Engage E. C. T. C. On Hobbs Field This P. M.

FAVORED TO WIN

More Opposition Than Last Year Looked for in Today's Game.

SUBS WILL SEE ACTION

Regulars to Be Benched Part of the Game; Coach Pointing for Lenoir-Rhyne Game.

This afternoon Guilford territory will be invaded by the Eastern Carolina Teachers' College football team. Last year the Quakers ran away with the Teachers 79-0, but more opposition is expected today.

The home squad goes into action with a 37-7 defeat at the hands of William and Mary still stinging. With this game behind them the Quakers intend to make the rest of the season successful. Little trouble is expected today. E. C. T. C. has gone up against the Wake Forest Freshmen and State Freshmen teams this year and was trounced 27-0 and 18-0, respectively, while Guilford has made a good showing against much stronger teams.

With the Lenoir-Rhyne game scheduled for next week some of the regulars will be given a rest and Coach Anderson will probably use a number of substitutes.

Last year the opening kick-off was run back by Jamieson for a touchdown. Little opposition was shown during the game, but in the final quarter E. C. T. C. put on an aerial attack which threatened the Guilford goal, but were unable to score.

As this is only the second year of football at E. C. T. C., Coach Ken Beatty, who was formerly a Guilford man, deserves credit for the team he is making from the inexperienced material he has to work with.

SHAKESPEARE ACQUIRES PLACE ON SPORTS PAGE

Famous Dramatist of Long, Long Ago Found Gamboling Around Football Gridiron.

RENOUNCES STAGE FOR PIGSKIN

For over three centuries William Shakespeare has been well known in schools and colleges the world over. His great ability as a dramatist has dimmed another ability which is much dearer to Bill. His great ambition has been to achieve fame as a football star.

Poor Bill has had difficulty in being recognized in this field. Way back yonder in the days of whoever lived three hundred years ago Bill matriculated at his Alma Mammy just like all you dumb freshmen did this year. His first week is very busy in his memory but of course he went through everything you rats did, probably having a big football star with a lot of gab like Mears slap him on the back and tell him why he should play football for dear old Whoozis. He acquired a monkey suit and went out to strut his stuff, but his enthusiasm did not make up for his greenness, so Bill sat down and took it out on Hamlet and a lot of other bums.

Now, three hundred odd or even years later, we find Bill attaining his great ambition, for this year's lineup at Ohio State boasts a William Shakespeare—and he is now only a junior. There's still hope for some of us.

Quakes

A few of the W. & M. incidents in case you haven't heard them—

The battle of the apple cores. Cappella was too slow and Burkgnw was too good a target.

The annual "nuthouse" excursion. Coach checked up before the team left to be sure he had the same number in the bus.

Shaen broke his record of bench-warming and showed a few people how it could be done.

W. & M. entertained the team Saturday night with a dance—C'm up and see us some time—oh, yeah!

It's not the practice of this column to be always kicking about something but there is a prevailing attitude on the campus which might stand a little airing. It's about this football schedule we play. There is a group of students and players that feel it's too stiff. Guilford puts out teams for the size of its student body which are a credit to its name, but these teams are put up against opposition which is generally out of their class.

Is it better to play these set-up games as the under-dog and put up a good fight and win a moral victory or to have the majority of these games with teams which are on even terms with us and have the students backing the team like they did at the Catawba game? And then, too, there is the idea that when a team loses a string of games it's hard to get out of the habit.

Playing these more well-known teams puts Guilford on the football map and increases the athletic association funds. Should we sacrifice our school spirit and a successful season for this? Think it over!

Some of the boys took advantage of the practice uniforms which were available Friday and put on a game of their own.

Emory and Henry, Guilford's first opponent this year, and Hampton-Sydney have been making a good showing this season. That E. & H. outfit looked good enough the first of the season to be Va. champs.

Wilbur Braxton, number one tennis player of two years ago, was on the campus last week-end. He engaged in a friendly match while here and showed he's still plenty good.

These pep meetings could be better organized and scheduled for a better time. Attendance isn't what it should be as it is.

CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM MAY BE BUSY TODAY

Second Meet of Year Will Be Run Over Guilford Course in Conjunction With Game.

Coach Shepard has been trying this past week to schedule a cross-country meet with Greensboro high school to be held on the Guilford course this afternoon, between halves of the Guilford-E. C. T. C. football game.

The meet, if held today, will find the Quaker runners in tip-top shape. Bowers, Meibohm and Neave are Guilford's crack runners and should have little difficulty in leading the pack across the finish line. They came in first, second and third, in that order, in the first cross-country meet this fall.

This will be the second run of the year for the harriers, the first having been won, 27-31, from the Winston-Salem all-stars.

GUILFORD INVADES BEAR TERRITORY ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Second Conference Game Will Tax Ability of the Quakers.

LOOP TITLE IS INVOLVED

Anderson's Club Out to Avenge Last Season's 18-6 Defeat by Lenoir-Rhyne Outfit.

With the same fighting spirit that beat Catawba, Guilford is all set for her annual encounter with Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, N. C., on Saturday, November 4. Each team has played an equal number of games, although Lenoir-Rhyne has more victories chalked up for her. The "Red Raiders" had an 18-6 defeat pinned on them last year, but are confident that the Bears will not repeat their last year's stunt. However, it is conceded here that Lenoir-Rhyne has a decided advantage in reserve strength.

The Bears' most dangerous men are Captain Hemphill and Stasavitch, all-conference stars. The Bears have endless backfield reserves, and the longer the game goes without adverse scoring the better their chances will be. Fifteen or sixteen men will have to carry the burden for Guilford. Reserve material is scarce, particularly in the line. Finch is a great asset for the back-field.

This game is an important one in the development of the conference championship, and if the skids are put under the Bears it may take more than Elon has to stop the Quakers from becoming conference champs.

The greatest improvement that the Guilford eleven has shown in the past few weeks has been their aerial attacks. The varsity eleven has a sweet passing combination in Turner and Norman, with Turner on the receiving end. If these two put on a good stunt at Lenoir-Rhyne, the team will have chalked up its second conference victory.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT FOR CO-EDS TO START SOON

Margaret Perkins, Runner-up in Last Year's Tourney, Strong Contender for Title.

FRESHMAN MAY BECOME CHAMP

This year's tennis tournament for the co-eds has been delayed due to the changing weather and the fact that the courts have not been in shape. It will open in the near future.

The runner-up in the tourney last year, Margaret Perkins, will probably lead the contenders this time, but most of the other entries are of unknown ability. The title was won last year and the year before by Julia Parker, not in school this year.

The championship may pass into freshman hands since that portion of the student body has been more active in practice matches.

The entries to date are as follows: Naomi Binford, Margaret Perkins, Priscilla White, Ruth Payne, Jane Clegg, Betsy Bulla, Mary Alma Coltrane, Dorothy Sturdivant, Frances Johnson, Betsy Luck, Frances Alexander, and Annie Lee Fitzgerald.

Guilford is Doped Better Than U.N.C.

Did you ever stop to figure this out? Guilford beat Catawba 6-0. State beat Catawba 7-0, making them one point better than we are. State tied Florida, which gives them a one-point advantage also, and then Florida put the skids under Carolina, 9-0. All this only goes to prove—on paper—that Guilford is 8 points better than Carolina.

GUILFORD DEFEATED AT WILLIAMSBURG BY W. & M. INDIANS

Red Team Shows Plenty of Fight But Out-classed by Virginians.

TURNER SCORES ON PASS

Last Half Ovensive Work Puts Ball in Pay Territory a Number of Times.

A strong William and Mary team defeated the Guilford College Quakers at Williamsburg, Va., last Saturday. The score, 37-7.

The Indians scored in every period, and by the end of the half had piled up a lead of 25-0. To do this a slow-starting varsity had to be replaced with a second-string detachment.

The Quakers failed to tally before William and Mary rolled up 31 points. In the third period three first downs carried Guilford to the William and Mary six-yard line where they were finally held for downs. The Indian punt was blocked and recovered by Turner on the 12-yard line. Turner then reeled off five yards, Newman made three, and then a pass, Newman to Turner, scored the touchdown. The same passing combination made the extra point.

William and Mary's first count came late in the first period. Yerkes scored after a series of fumbles. In the second period the Indians piled on three more touchdowns with Yerkes scoring one and Smith two. Another was added by Bergin in the third and the last was in the fourth quarter when Blaker took a 12-yard pass and ran 40 yards to the goal.

Guilford threatened several times in the last quarter, but lacked the final punch to put the ball across. Taking to the air in the last few minutes of play, the Quakers made several nice gains. The game ended as Finch ran 40 yards to the William and Mary seven-yard line.

LAST TWO GUILFORD FOES ARE STRONG

Both Elon and Langley Field Have Fair Record for This Season.

QUAKERS POINT FOR ELON

Guilford will end up their season this year with two teams of approximately their own strength. Langley Field and Elon have so far shown that Guilford will have a good fight on their hands when these teams are met.

Langley Field will be represented by a heavy team this year. The Aviators have allowed only 13 points to be scored against them, but have been unable to win a game. The Langley Field-Loyola game ended in a scoreless tie and Davis Elkins managed to get a six-points lead and won 6-0. In the Elon game the Virginia team was nosed out after a stiff battle by the score of 7 to 6.

Elon, Guilford's big rival in the sports program, has two victories chalked up for them out of five starts. The Christians traveled to Ashland and handed the Randolph-Macon team a 26-0 drubbing the week after Guilford lost to this team 14-6. In their first game Elon held Davidson to a love score. Emory Henry rolled up 24 points without allowing the Christians to cross their goal line and the following week Roanoke won over the Elon team, 21-6.

With this record Elon holds a slight advantage over the Quakers and has made a better offensive showing. To the followers of the Guilford-Elon battles this means that a bang-up game can be expected this year. As in all rival games, both teams will be playing their best football and therefore the outcome cannot be predicted by a comparison of scores.
