FALL PLAY CHOSEN; "TONS OF MONEY" IS SOON TO BE GIVEN

John Bradshaw and Bill Neave
Elected to Dramatic Council at Last Meeting.

PRESENTATION IS COMEDY

A New and Fairer Type of Tryout is to
Be Given Those Who Wish to Participate This Year.

"Tons of Money," by Evans and Valentine was chosen tentatively as the annual fall play by the Dramatic Council of the college at its first meeting last Tuesday.

The play is an English comedy of three acts. This rollicking farce tells how a young Englishman inherits money and how he plans to keep the money by pretending to die, then coming back to life as his cousin. The play is full of adventure and fun to the end. There are four women and ten men in the cast.

The members are initiating a new plan of tryouts this year. Typewritten sheets will be handed to all those wishing to try out so that they may practice their parts beforehand, thus enabling them to perform more efficiently.

Two new members were chosen to the Council: John Bradshaw and William Neave. Esther Stilson was selected as a representative to the Students Affairs Board.

In view of the fact that the $50.00 allotted the Council by the Affairs Board was insufficient for their needs, the Council decided to ask the Board for a more substantial amount.

The Dramatic Council presented two very successful plays last year.

New Jersey holds a substantial lead over the other states named in this department with 19 representatives, of which 11 are new students. Next in line comes the neighboring state of Virginia with four old members and three new, making a total of seven.

New England makes a bid for honors by having four of its group clinch third place and tie for fourth and fifth. Maine and Rhode Island each have three natives in the student body with two of Maine's and one of Rhode Island's being newcomers. Connecticut follows its sister states closely with two members, tying Kentucky for fifth place. One of Connecticut's members is new, while both of the students from the Blue Grass country are new.
