GUILFORD LIBRARY TO CHARGE FINES ON LATE RETURNS

New Ruling to Go into Effect the First of November.

DELAYS CAUSE DECISION

Overdue Books from General Circulation Shelves Bar Borrowers from Library Until Their Return.

The college library committee, together with Miss Katherine Ricks, the librarian, announces that beginning November 1 there will be a fine of 25 cents on all reserve books kept out for the first hour after 8:15 and after 7 or any portion of that hour; 10 cents per hour for the next succeeding hours or portions of these hours.

This drastic action was decided upon by the library committee because of the inconvenience caused by late returning of reserved books.

Miss Ricks wishes to announce further that since the library is open during lunch hour except on Saturday, reserved books will not be signed out. Also, whenever a person has a book from general circulation which is overdue, that person loses his privilege of withdrawing books from the library until overdue books are returned. Books must be brought to the desk to be renewed.

The money collected from reserve book fines will be used for the book fund of the library.

LIBRARIANS CONVENE IN ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Miss Ricks, Member of Guilford Faculty, Attends and Acts as Secretary.

VISIT NASHVILLE LIBRARY

Attended by Miss Katherine C. Ricks, of Guilford College, the North Carolina Library Association observed its biennial meeting for 1934-1935 in the Battery Park hotel at Asheville last week.

Following an address of welcome by Mr. George Wright at the opening session on Thursday, October 10, two prominent speakers were heard on the subject of "The Citizens' Library Movement." The Friday session, with President Charles H. Stone, of Williamsburg, Va., presiding, was characterized by several talks and group meetings. Miss Marjorie Beal, head of the library commission, reported that the library circulation in North Carolina during the last two years had been increased by 324,668 volumes. An outstanding speaker of the final meeting on Saturday was Miss Mary Rothrock, who gave an interesting talk on libraries in connection with the TVA work.

One of the features of the three-day conference for which Miss Ricks ably served as secretary was the outline of work being done for librarians through federal aid. A resolution was unanimously passed favoring the continuation of federal aid for libraries. An outstanding event of the meeting was the visit to the recently opened Sandley Reference Library in Nashville.

CLASS AND CHAPEL ABSENCES HAVE SAME REGULATIONS

Students Warned to Watch Their Chapel Absences and Class Cuts

RULES MUST BE OBEYED

It Would Be Wise for Each Student to Read and Know These Rules and Regulations.

A statement issued last week by Miss Era Lasley, Guilford's registrar, warns Guilfordians that there are very definite regulations covering absences from class and chapel. These rules are posted in prominent places about the campus.

Unavoidable absences must be excused by the dean of women or the dean of men.

Students will be excused from class to represent the school, subject to the approval of the faculty adviser or faculty manager of the organization involved.

Four unexcused absences in any one class means exclusion from the class and failure in the course.

All students are required to attend chapel unless excused by the personnel committee.

Sixteen chapel absences on the part of any one student automatically requires that student to carry one extra hour of academic credit in order to graduate. (Those 16 absences are for the four-year period of the student's stay at Guilford.)

Tardiness will be counted as absence unless satisfactorily explained by the offending student to the teacher involved immediately at the close of the class to which the student was tardy.

Ten absences (excused or unexcused) from any one class will bring a recommendation from the dean that the absentee lessen the number of hours carried by him.

A student not passing nine hours is allowed no unexcused absences.

No unexcused absences will be permitted during the week preceding and the week following vacations.

CHARLES BLAIR ELECTED CHIEF OF MARSHALS

Six Members of Junior Class Chosen Each Year—Three Greensboro Students on List.

The marshals for the junior class were chosen on Monday, September 7, by the faculty. To be eligible for marshal, one must have junior class standing. Six are chosen each year for this office, one out of the six acting as chief marshal.

Charles Blair, from Archdale, is chief marshal. Jasper Seabolt, Ruth Hollis, and Margaret Barnes, from Greensboro; Eleanor Webster, of New Jersey; and Fair Swaim were elected.

Faculty Picnic at Odell Club Occasion of Mirth and Gaiety

The faculty picnic held at the Odell clubhouse Monday night, October 14, was from all reports an occasion of great mirth and gaiety. After a delicious repast on the menu of which such delicacies as fried chicken appeared, Dr. Purdon as master of ceremonies initiated the new members of the faculty. A delightful rendering of "Solomon Levi" was done with Dr. Pope as soloist. Dr. Weis as humming accompanist, and Mrs. Postlethwaite as director. Mr. Suiter's "louder and funnier" was an added impetus to the excellence of the song. Miss Kirch, Mrs. Weis, and Mrs. Pope struck up a few lines of a song. The young Pope trio sang "Clementine" with great gusto.

After supper the men played baseball, while Mr. Suiter and his dish washing committee did their stuff.

Home-Coming Soon

UMSTEAD AND SYKES ADDRESS STUDENT BODY AT CHAPEL

Representative Airs Views on Legislation of Congressional Session Just Past.

HIGH POINT PARSON HERE

These Two Men Are Becoming Well Known to Students on Guilford College Campus.

Two of the best-known men in North Carolina, Representative William B. Umstead and Reverend Tom Sykes, spoke at Guilford during the past week, Sykes on the 14th and Umstead on the 15th.

This marked the second time that the congressman has spoken here, while Sykes is rapidly becoming a familiar figure about the campus.

The subject of the Hon. Mr. Umstead's speech was the recent social legislation dealt with by Congress during the last session. He described the social security act, the old age pension plan, and the unemployment insurance idea. He stated that these things were very desirable and urged the student body to carry on the good work of the pioneers of today when, as, and if they reach the head of things.

Mr. Umstead is a graduate of U. N. C., at which school he met Guilford's F. Carlyle Shepard, through whose co-operation both of the representative's speeches at Guilford were arranged. This is his second consecutive term at the nation's capital as the voice of North Carolina's sixth district. He is a resident of Durham.

Sykes, although a native of High Point, is a prominent figure on the eastern seaboard, styled by some as "Little Father Coughlin." His speech took the form of an impassioned appeal for "spiritual preparedness," and was very well received by the student body.

C.'s French club on the evening of Thursday, October 17. This visit was the first move in an intensive campaign for a bigger and better Cercle Francais at Guilford this year.

This trip was made possible by the co-operation of M. Rene Hardre, of the W. C. U. N. C. faculty, and Elizabeth Barineau, president of the Women's College French club, and may help to cement relations between the foreign language groups of the two schools.

Those who accompanied Dr. Pope were Wilda Stack, Julian Cannon, Bill Hines, Milton Anderson, and Gloria Leslie.

Beatrice Rohr was elected president of the group and "old-timers," people who had formerly taken these languages, were declared eligible for membership in the club. Miss Huth stated that programs would consist in part of pictures and lectures.

COLLEGE STUDENTS HEAR WILLIAM B. UMSTEAD

The chapel program of the past two weeks featured a speech by Representative William B. Umstead on the philosophy and the legislative significance of the social legislation now before Congress. Mr. Umstead, who represents North Carolina's fifth district in Congress, is no stranger to Guilford.

The other chapel programs included a talk by Superintendent Guy B. Phillips, of the Greensboro schools, whose topic was, "What Are You Worth Above the Ears?", a test on general knowledge of music given by Musicmaster Wels, a speech on "Spiritual Preparedness" by Rev. Tom Sykes, of High Point, and a discussion of the Ethiopian situation by Professor Newlin.

Oreornelia Matlock played variations on a theme by Beethoven on the piano, and Naomi Binford played "Intermezzo," by Brahms.
