GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., MAY 17, 1937

NUMBER 12

A. E. Morgan, TVA Head, Will Speak at Exercises

FINAL CEREMONY

Engineer-College President to Deliver Commencement Address to Centennial Class.

FLOOD CONTROL EXPERT

In Addition to Academic Distinctions, Is Fellow of AAAS, Member of AAPSS.

Dr. Arthur Ernest Morgan, administrative head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, will address the Centennial graduating class and other friends of the college at the commencement exercises on Monday, May 24. This ceremony, which terminates the college careers of some sixty prospective bachelors, is also the closing item on the program of the Centennial celebration.

Dr. Morgan has had a varied career as engineer and college president. Since 1915 he has been president of the Dayton-Morgan Engineering company, and from 1920 to 1936 he was president of Antioch College. Since 1933 he has held his present position as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Handling water was no new thing to Dr. Morgan in 1933, however. From 1907 to 1909 he was supervising engineer of the government drainage and reclamation project in the South; in 1913 he became chief engineer of the Miami Conservancy District, which was formed with the idea of preventing a recurrence of the Dayton flood; in 1921 he was named chief engineer of the Pueblo Conservancy District. He has planned and supervised the construction of 75 water control projects.

In addition to these professional activities, he has been active in the work of furthering man's knowledge. He has degrees from the University of Colorado and from Case School of Applied Science; and he is an active member of American Academy of Political and Social Science, as well as being a fellow of the AAAS.

He is also the author of several books, two of which—"What Is College For?" and "Antioch Notes"—concern college life.

D. H. PARSONS TO DIRECT DRAMATIC COUNCIL PLAYS

Secretary of College to Act as Coach in Absence of Professor Furnas Next Year.

GROUP ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the Dramatic Council held May 12, 1937. Charlotte Parker was elected president; Betty Trotter, secretary; Mary Priscilla Blouch, treasurer; and Tom Taylor, representative to the Student Affairs board.

The report was made that David Parsons, Centennial secretary of the college, has consented to act as faculty adviser to the Council and coach of the plays to be put on next year, since the regular adviser, Mr. P. W. Furnas, will be away on a leave of absence. Mr. Parsons, it was felt, is well suited for such a task, having been prominent in the casts of plays all during his college career, and having staged and directed in co-operation with Harris-Moore a play called "The Enemy," by Channing-Pollock. Approval was also voted to Miss Dorothy Woodward's being presented with a book on "make-up" in appreciation of her work as assistant director of the Spring play, "The Road to Yesterday."

Ex-Superintendent to Return

George N. Hartley, principal of New Garden Boarding School from 1871 to 1879, will return to this campus for the Guilford Centennial celebration this month. Mr. Hartley is 92 years of age and will see his old institution decked out in brilliant array for its 100th birthday. This eldest of Guilford's faculty members has watched the institution grow from its New Garden Boarding School era into the present-day enviable position which it holds throughout the South. Recommended by Joseph Moore, president of Earlham College, Mr. Hartley came to Guilford the first year after his graduation from that college. During his years here he industrially worked in behalf of the old Boarding School.

Will Deliver Address

Dr. A. E. Morgan, TVA Director and past president of Antioch College, who will address the Centennial graduating class.

DR. GILBERT PEARSON TO ADDRESS SOCIETY

Guilford Scholarship Society Will Install Three Honorary Members.

FEATURE OF ALUMNI DAY

Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, '97, president emeritus of the National Audubon Society, will address the Guilford Scholarship Society at its first annual reunion on Alumni Day, May 22, at 3 p. m. in Memorial Hall. Installation of three honorary members, Dr. Pearson, Dr. Clyde A. Milner, and Dorothy L. Gilbert, into the newly formed society will also occur during the meeting.

Called "the greatest bird conservator of this generation," Dr. Gilbert is not only a graduate of Guilford but also a former biology professor here. His first studies in college were made possible by an exchange of his valuable Florida bird collection for two years of Guilford. In recent years he has devoted his time to intensive campaigns for "Citizen Bird." For the past two years Dr. Pearson has written and lectured in behalf of international bird protection, has worked with officials and naturalists in many countries on the problems of wild life conservation, and has recently published the book, "Adventures in Bird Protection." Dr. Pearson will return from a trip in the West Indies in order to be present at Guilford's first centennial celebration, and to take his place in the membership of the Guilford Scholarship Society.

EDUCATION BOARD TO MEET ON CAMPUS TO PLAN FUTURE

Mary Hartley of the Ackworth School, England, Will Be One of Speakers.

DR. BINFORD IS CHAIRMAN

Delegates to Attend from Twelve Yearly Meetings; Seven Quaker Colleges to Be Represented.

The Board of Education of the Five Years' Meeting of Friends will hold an open meeting at Guilford on Friday, May 21. Dr. Raymond Binford, chairman of the board, stated that the program will include discussions on the general subject of Quaker Education and on plans for future research and cooperation.

The twelve Yearly Meetings of the Society of Friends that make the Five Years' Meeting include the Canadian Yearly Meeting. Seven of the Quaker colleges are under the Five Years' Meeting. They are Guilford, Wilmington, Earlham, William Penn, Friends' University, Nebraska Central, and Whittier. Representatives from nearly all these colleges will attend the conference.

The program of the board meeting will open with reports on research in Quaker education. This meeting is to be held at 10 o'clock. Each representative planning to attend the conference has been asked to report briefly on any research of which he knows.

The second part of the program will be a discussion of the objective of the Quaker institutions. The objective which has been stated by Dr. Binford is "to lead the student to become a scholar in some field of knowledge; to coordinate the life processes; to give professional or technical training; to produce Quakers or to produce a Quaker atmosphere."

The programs will also include a discussion of the methods of cultivating the reality of a spiritual life, the respect for personality and individual conscience on the campus, and establishing convictions as to social obligations based on a faith in the divine in each individual.

The last part of the program will be a consideration of research projects that might be taken up and organization for future cooperation.

The members of the Board of Education include the presidents of the seven colleges and ten others. The college presidents attending are David M. Edwards, Friends University; W. O. Mendenhall, Whittier College; W. C. Dennis, Earlham College; O. W. Carroll, Nebraska Central University; C. A. Milner, Guilford College. Mary Hartley, of England, who for 30 years has been head mistress of Ackworth School, will be one of the prominent visitors. Other visitors include John A. Lester, executive secretary of the Friends' Council of Education in Philadelphia; Edith Newlin, supervisor of Friends' schools around Philadelphia; Harlow Lindley, of Columbus, Ohio; Amy Marvel, Prof. and Mrs. E. P. Trueblood, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Jay, of Richmond, Indiana;

Weekend Centennial Program Will Conclude School Year

Presidents to Attend Centennial

Presidents Frank Graham, of the University of North Carolina, and W. P. Few, of Duke University, who will attend the Centennial Celebration and be honored guests at the Commencement exercises, May 24.

LEADERS OF STATE SPEAK ON CAMPUS

Governor Hoey, President Graham, President Few to Be Heard.

WILL EXTEND GREETINGS

The list of speakers for the Centennial program on Monday morning, May 24, includes the names of prominent educators and leading citizens of North Carolina for the past decade of the present century. They are: Clyde Roark Hoey, Governor of the State of North Carolina; Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Frank Porter Graham, president of the consolidated University of North Carolina; William Preston Few, president of Duke University; and William Louis Potcat, president emeritus of Wake Forest College. Each of these has established his position as a leading figure in providing public education in the state, which this year observes, as does Guilford College itself, a century of educational progress.

These five men will represent their respective fields in extending greetings to Guilford for its centenary celebration: Governor Hoey represents the state, Superintendent Erwin the Department of Public Instruction, Dr. Graham the State University, and Dr. Few and Dr. Potcat, denominational institutions.

Following the academic procession on Monday morning, the first greeting will be given by Superintendent Erwin, who will be remembered for his appearance on the college convocations here. He served under Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus's administration in the last term, and was re-elected to the position in the latest elections.

Dr. William Louis Potcat, president emeritus of Wake Forest College, will be perhaps the first representative in point of age, having reached his 81st birthday this year. He has taught at the Baptist college since 1878, and was professor of biology from 1883, becoming president for a period of 22 years, from 1905 to 1927. He has lectured on important foundations for many years, and has written five books of note. Dr. William Preston Few is one of the best known contemporary figures in the academic world, as witnessed by the fact that he has received no less than eight degrees from about as many institutions. He was professor of English and dean at Trinity College, which preceded Duke, and has been joint editor of the South Atlantic Quarterly. As a Methodist he has contributed enormously to the religious development of the last quarter-century; as a citizen, he is honored for his continued devotion to the cause of educational and social progress. His frequent writings and speeches have exhibited the same intelligent attitude and valuable advice which have been largely responsible for his popularity.

Few audiences are apt to be unacquainted with Frank Porter Graham, head of the North Carolina State University. A former teacher of English and history, Dr. Graham became president of the University in 1930, and has become a leading exponent of liberal education in his first seven years as administrative head of the oldest state university in the South. He has been

ALUMNI TO HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET AT FOUNDERS

Mr. George Hartley, Dr. Ed. Wilson to Make Talks; Special Guests to Be Honored.

DR. T. GILBERT PEARSON SPEAKS

A large crowd is expected to attend the Alumni Banquet to be held May 22 in the college dining hall. The alumni committee is to make reservations for those who expect to attend the banquet.

The alumni reception committee, which has charge of all details of the affair, will meet Sunday afternoon, May 16, at 3 o'clock. The chairman is Mrs. Paul Edgerton, of Greensboro.

Short talks will be given by Mr. George Hartley, former superintendent of New Garden Boarding School; Dr. Ed Wilson, of Haverford College, and Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, President C. A. Milner will review the accomplishments of the recent Centennial program. Special guests who will be honored because of their accomplishments and value to the Alumni association include the following:

Miss Era Lasley, who has compiled and published a complete directory of the personnel of New Garden Boarding School and Guilford College from 1837 to 1937; Miss Maude L. Gainey, who is completing her 36th year of service to the college; Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, past president of the International Association of Audubon Societies and recent author of "Adventures in Bird Protection"; and Miss Dorothy Lloyd Gilbert, whose book, "Guilford: A Quaker College," has recently come from the press.

Miss Davie Chenault, dietitian of the college, will have charge of the dinner, and Miss Effie Cox, Mrs. David J. White, Miss Clara Coble, and Mrs. Francis Lindley will have charge of the decorations.

After dinner the group will go to Memorial Hall, where Dr. Russell Pope will act as master of ceremonies at a program of Schubert's music. He will be assisted by Mrs. H. A. Ljung, Dr. Paul Reynolds, and Dr. Eva G. Campbell.

"MISS LOUISE" APPEARS IN OILS FOR CENTENNIAL

Class of 1913 Has Picture of Beloved Matron Copied by Rudd in Greensboro.

A large oil painting of Miss Louise Osborne, the beloved governess of Guilford College from 1892 to 1926, will be presented to the college on Centennial Day as the project of the class of '13.

Mrs. J. Russell Wood, of Wilmington, North Carolina, is the chairman of the committee, who has gone to a great deal of trouble to procure this fine portrait of one of the most beloved personalities that has ever been at Guilford.

The picture was taken from a small one published in the Year Book of 1917, a picture which presents Miss Louise just as the class of 1913 remembers her. The painting is being done by Mr. Harry Rudd, of Greensboro.

GOVERNOR HOEY TO BE PRESENT; CHOIR WILL SING

Alumni Day to Be Held Saturday; T. G. Pearson to Speak at Banquet.

JONES TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Mendenhall to Give Address at Sunday Vesper; Many Other Colleges to Send Official Representatives.

For three days beginning Saturday, May 22, Guilford College will celebrate her centennial—her first centennial—with an elaborate and dignified program that will be climaxed on Monday, May 24, by the Centennial Convocation and the commencement of the Centennial class. With an enviable record of a century of education behind it, Guilford has planned a celebration next week that includes Alumni Day, Baccalaureate services, and Centennial and Graduation exercises. Governor Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina; Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University; Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, Superintendent of Public Instruction for North Carolina; and Dr. Rufus M. Jones, of Haverford, an outstanding exponent of mysticism, are a few of the noted personages who will take part in the vast program.

Registration of incoming alumni for Alumni Day will take place from 7 to 10 o'clock in the morning of May 22 at two special booths. One booth will be in Founder's Hall and the other one will be at the center entrance to the campus. Miss Era Lasley, '13, is in charge of registration and will be assisted by members of the Alumni association and students.

At 10 o'clock a. m. the various class groups will gather for a brief business session. At 10:30 these groups will proceed to the Memorial Hall auditorium where President W. W. Blair, '24, of the Executive Council of the Alumni association will preside as representatives of each class announce their centennial gifts. In addition to previously announced gifts many classes and local groups are planning short histories and accounts of alumni meetings which will be placed in the vaults of the college for future reference. Dr. Clyde A. Milner, President of Guilford College, will accept the presentations for the college.

At 1 o'clock the alumni will be served a luncheon in Founder's hall, and at 2:30 special games of baseball and tennis, starring Guilfordians of the past and present, will be held on Hobbs' Field and the college tennis courts. Bob Doak, '19; Stan Moore, '29; and Algie Newlin, '21, have charge of the sports program.

The president's reception will begin at 4:30 p. m. and close at 6 p. m. at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Milner. This reception is an annual occurrence and through it the president honors Guilford students and visitors. At the same time a Choir Guild tea will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. F. Weis.

Alumni from coast to coast are showing a particular interest in the tea which will be held at 4:30 in Founder's hall by the reception committee of the Alumni association. In charge of the arrangements is Katharine C. Ricks, '04.

At 6:30 the Alumni banquet will be served in the Founder's dining hall. Tickets are required for admittance to this gathering. Among other Guilfordians who will speak at this time is Dr. Gilbert Pearson, '97, famous international bird conservationist and recent author of "Adventures in Bird Protection." Dr. Pearson is expected to fascinate his audience with tales of Guilford and its alumni in retrospect. At the close of the banquet the new association president for 1937 and 1938 will be introduced. Ballooning for officers in the association will be in progress throughout the day at the registration headquarters in Founder's hall.

At sunset a gala musical festival will be held out in the open. The "sing," with the college A Capella Choir taking part, is to be an entirely informal affair. After the music the group will return indoors for a program of alumni talent and a tableau from Guilford's history. A feature of this entertainment will be "Impressions of Schubert."
