

Students Stage Rally Supporting $87,350 Construction Campaign

Atkinson Heads Campus Supporting Program; Drive Monday, Tuesday

A student rally in the auditorium Friday noon set the stage for a campus campaign in support of Guilford's approaching $87,350 building program, and was climaxed with the announcement that every member of the student body will be afforded an opportunity to contribute to the success of the effort during Monday and Tuesday of next week. It was also definitely suggested that the students accept the responsibility for financing three specific campus projects included in this program, the proposed girls' playing field, and the men's and women's lounge rooms in the new gymnasium.

Speakers at the rally were W. H. Sullivan, of Greensboro, who is general chairman of the campaign; Miss Christine Foster, director of physical education for women; Charles D. (Block) Smith, coach and director of physical education; and Paul Lentz, '40, president of men's student government. Leslie Atkinson, president of the senior class and chairman of the campus campaign, presided.

Meibohm Made Recipient Of Overman Scholarship

Winfred Meibohm, junior from Greensboro and president of his class, has been awarded the William F. Overman scholarship by vote of the undergraduate classes and the faculty. Meibohm was chosen for the important honor from among the juniors with an average of B who did not possess the Marvin Hardin scholarship.

Mary Laura McArthur won the award last year. Robert Register was the recipient of the Marvin Hardin scholarship.

The winner of the Overman award is chosen as one who has made the greatest contribution to the college life; who has done the best piece of constructive work in improving some department of college activity; who has helped most in maintaining a fine cooperation between faculty and students; who has done most to create a fine college spirit. Meibohm will receive the benefits from the scholarship during his senior year.

Irving Will Deliver Baccalaureate Talk

Dr. George Irving, at present a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, has been chosen to give the baccalaureate sermon Sunday, June 2, in the Meeting house, it has been announced. Dr. Irving, who has unusual ability as a speaker, was formerly secretary of the spiritual emphasis work carried on by the national council of the American Y. M. C. A., and during that time became well known throughout America. He is the author of several books: "Experiences in Witnessing for Christ," "Master of Money—A. A. Hyde," and "Present Day Points of Emphasis."

Alumni day will be held June 1, at which time the cornerstone of the new gymnasium will be laid; Dr. Newlin and Miss Ricks form the committee which is supervising the day.

The speaker for graduation exercises, which will be held Monday, June 3, has not been chosen yet.

Big Concert Tonight By A Capella Choir

Orchestra Concluded Season With Program of Classics Last Night

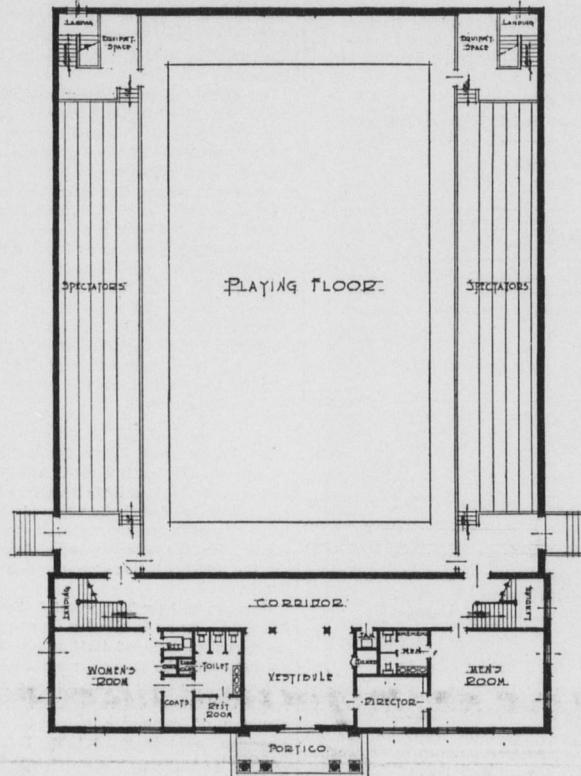

Tonight at 8 in the auditorium the Choir will entertain with its next-to-last program this year. The program will start with The Heavens Are Telling, from Haydn's "Creation," with solos by Eileen Dornseif, Michael Caffey, and Joseph Parker. Next, Evelyn Powell and Jonaleen Hodgkin will take solos in Mendelssohn's I Waited for the Lord, "Hymns of Praise."

The musical arrangements of Longfellow's As Torrents in Summer, by Edward Elgar, and of Shakespeare's Blow, Blow Thou Winter Wind, by Nobel Cain, will then be followed by Bron and Wright's new setting of Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, for which Barbara Clark will sing the solo. The Pilgrim's Chorus from Wagner's "Tannhauser" will conclude the first part of the program. In the second half the choir will sing Grieg's Olaf Trygvason with Ruth Lockwood, Jonaleen Hodgkin, Betty Locke, Michael Caffey, and Joseph Parker taking the leading roles.

Last night, Dr. E. H. F. Weis conducted the Chamber orchestra through a varied concert of classics which

Gymnasium Cornerstone To Be Laid on Alumni Day

Here is the ground floor plan of Guilford's new gymnasium, the corner stone of which will be laid on Alumni day.

Past Athletic Coaches And Guilford Athletes Return for Ceremony

The cornerstone of Guilford college's new gymnasium will be laid on Alumni day, June 1, at 4 o'clock. To participate in the ceremonies the college has invited the former coaches and directors of physical education at Guilford, both men and women. They, in turn, will invite the outstanding athletes who played under them while at Guilford.

The campaign for building is being conducted by the American City Bureau. Designed by Alfred Busselle of New York and Albert C. Woodruff of Greensboro. The completion of the gymnasium is expected by the middle of August, in time for the fall semester of 1940.

The coaches invited are: John P. Anderson, 1929-1936; Elizabeth H. Anderson, 1933-1936; Bertha Andrews, 1927-1931; James Grover Carroll, 1918-1919; Mildred Crabb, 1920-1921; Clifford R. Crawford, 1927-1928; Charles G. Doak, 1911-1914; Robert S. Doak, 1916-1918, 1919-1927; A. Wilson Hobbs,

Awards for Achievement At Annual Spring Banquet

Guilford students were awarded honors at the annual spring achievement banquet held on May 11. Dr. E. Garness Purdom was toastmaster for the occasion. Awards were made to those making outstanding contributions in extra-curricular activities.

Chief among these were Mary Laura McArthur and Paul Lentz. Mary Laura received the highest award to be achieved in the field of dramatics. Paul Lentz was chosen by the Monogram club as having contributed most as a student and athlete to Guilford.

Awards were made by Mary Kimrey for W. A. A.; David Parsons for tennis; Coach "Block" Smith for basketball and baseball; Coach "Jim" McDonald for track; Dr. P. W. Furnas for Dramatic Council; and Leslie Atkinson for the Monogram club. Awards have been made for choir members.

Beauty and Brains Combine In Philosophy Class Choice

By ROSALEEN LESLIE

Of the dozens of inquiries which come to Mrs. Milner yearly from all parts of the country, an interesting request was received a few weeks ago from some Texas graduate students writing a thesis on the correlation of beauty and brains in American women. The request asked for a list of our 15 more beautiful co-eds. The pre-supposition is that college women must possess some brains and a further inquiry as to the escort amount is expected in the near future.

Mrs. Milner has been tutoring a representative group of 68 students in the appreciation of beauty, since January (Philosophy 24) and gave this class the job of making the choices.

The 15 girls selected are, in the order of selection: Maxine Teague, Elea-

These girls rank in intelligence form second to forty-eighth in their respective classes, with an average class rating of twenty-third. The median quality average is 1.66 or a little above C plus with individual differences from .93, or C-, to the honor roll work of a 2.6 or A-.

No definite conclusion have been arrived at as yet, but there is no doubt that when they have determined the amount of curl in one's hair that it takes to be intelligent, they will start evaluating the boys' athletic ability by the color of their eyes.

Chapel Schedule

Senior Chapel Week:

Monday, May 20—Dr. Weis presides. Speakers, John Tate, Mary Laura McArthur, Dr. Pope.

Tuesday, May 21—Dr. Newlin presides. Speakers, Maurice Ayars, Bernard Foster, Dr. Binford.

There will be no chapel for the rest of the week.

Four Members of Faculty Add to Construction Plans

Four members of the Guilford faculty—Dr. and Mrs. Milner, Dr. Purdom, and Miss Gilbert—have recently made plans for building new homes, and Dr. Purdom's is already finished. The homes, ranging in size from five to thirteen rooms, have all been contracted by C. M. Cecil of Greensboro.

Dr. and Mrs. Milner's house will be in Georgian colonial style and will be constructed of brick veneer; its location will be east of the watertank, facing southward. It will have eleven major rooms: a game room in the basement for informal entertaining, a living room for formal entertaining, small study, powder room, dining room, kitchen, maid's room, master bedroom, dressing room, three more bedrooms and a library and study. The house was designed by Alfred Busselle, New York city architect for the college, especially for the functions of the Milners as he has observed them during

Bowman, Educator Addresses Guilfordians

Leroy E. Bowman, educator and lecturer, spoke to the chapel audience on Friday, May 24. He was also heard in Sociology 12 and other classes meeting on that day.

In the field of forum and discussion, he has "organized and led forums of representative citizens and college groups in every part of Vermont and South Carolina." He directed the training of leaders in the discussion groups of the United Parents associations, and led institutes for several universities, and Y. W. C. A. national headquarters.

Senior Theses Are Results Of Comprehensive Studies

By MICHAEL PORTER

When I realized that a senior thesis should show the benefits of about sixteen years of education I became distinctly nervous about even approaching some of the Guilford seniors. I found that I had no difficulty getting information; nevertheless, I am still wondering if I have been tricked. I am wondering if the principle they go on is that it is better to tell me everything and then make me promise not to say anything about certain items. Most of them seem very interested in their subjects, especially the science majors. The "it has to be done" attitude was found mainly among the English majors.

Taking somewhat the same attitude myself I crept up to James Parker's room. Before I knew where I was I had a page of notes on Mr. Stephen Crane, "one of the first writers of free verse," and "considered the first realist in American literature." Mr. Parker feels that he has enough material on Crane to go right ahead with a master's thesis.

Most of the information from the girls was obtained in whispered interviews in the library. I noticed that Kathleen Leslie was receiving guests around 2:30 last Wednesday so I dropped into a seat next to her to learn that she is writing about the Countess of Pembroke who was Sir Philip Sidney's sister. Kathleen's research has been enlivened by the discovery of some "pretty juicy material" which,
