

Nine Guilford Seniors Recognized By 'Who's Who' Curtain Goes Up On 'High Tor' Eight o'Clock Tonight

Beittel, Monsees, Register, Meibohm, Mills, Binford, Wilson, Estes, Lewis

Nine Guilford students have received invitations to be in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," a national annual publication for the recognition of students outstanding in character, leadership, scholarship and potentialities.

They are, all seniors: Grace Beittel, Frederick Binford, Armstead Estes, Charlotte Lewis, Winfred Meibohm, Teddy Mills, Hazel Monsees, Robert Register, and Bob Wilson.

Miss Beittel, now vice-president of the Woman's Student Government and president of the Y. W. C. A., as well as representative to the committee on convocations, has been, besides, chairman of the social committee, a member of the Student Affairs board, a member of the Scholarship society, and has been on the honor roll since her freshman year.

Binford has been a choir member, an honor roll student in his first and second years, a member of the Y cabinet, and a S. A. B. member. He is now a worker with the conscientious objector group and is assisting in a movement to bring about the formation of an International Relations club on campus.

Estes' activities have been quite varied, including both athletics and

Mrs. Binford's Picture Given by College Club

The Guilford college club, composed of women interested in seeing the college grow, presented to Guilford Saturday, November 2, Homecoming day, an oil painting of Mrs. Raymond Binford, adding another to the collection of portraits of eminent Friends.

Painted by Henry Rood, Jr., noted Greensboro artist, it has been hung, with that of Dr. Binford, in the auditorium, where are also the portraits of Dr. Lewis Lyndon Hobbs, Mary Mendenhall Hobbs, and J. Franklin Davis.

The portrait was presented to Dr. Milner, representing the college, by Mrs. Phillip W. Furnas, president of the club, speaking in place of Miss Mary Petty, only woman trustee of the college and scheduled speaker for the program.

Reading Miss Petty's speech, Mrs. Furnas praised Mrs. Binford for her word with the college, with the church, and with the nation.

Planks to Palisades: Story Of 'High Tor' Back-Stage

To one long plank add half a dozen splintery laths, an armful of old chicken wire, two dozen rusty nails, a shirt-tail length of unbleached cloth, a bucket of goopy plaster, and gobs of myriad colored paint. Throw in a handful of hammered fingers, a wash-tub full of be-splattered clothes, and a back-full of aches and creaks. The result is a passable palisade.

Milner and Parsons Leave on Annual Trip

Plan to Visit Alumni Groups and Friends' Preparatory Schools

President Clyde A. Milner and Mr. David Parsons left Guilford on November 8 to begin their annual round of visits to alumni centers on the Atlantic coast. They plan to be away until November 27.

There are approximately thirty eastern alumni groups, each holding a yearly meeting; according to Mr. Parsons, this fall is the annual meeting time of most of the organized chapters.

A second purpose of the trip is to visit several Friends' preparatory schools, a few of which are: Sidwell school, Washington, D. C.; Wilmington Friends school; Baltimore Friends school; Westtown; George school; Friends Select; Germantown Friends; N. Y. Friends Seminary; Brooklyn Friends school; and Oakwood.

While in New York they will also visit the Rockefeller foundation and other educational institutions.

Sunday afternoon, November 10, our representatives plan to be in Washington, D. C.; November 12, Wilmington, Delaware; November 15, New York; November 20, Hartford, Connecticut; November 22, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; November 26, Franklin, Virginia.

"High Tor" will doubtless be impressed with the unusualness of the set. They will, however, be blissfully unaware of the evolutionary development of the scraggly cliffs and the life-size steamshovel which will constitute the bulk of the stage scenery for the action along the lower banks of the Hudson river.

The palisades through which the sailor ghosts troop down to the river have taken form—laboriously and slowly—for two weeks back-stage.

Veterans and Novices Vie for Stage Honors In Unique Fall Play

Curtain going up! Maxwell Anderson's Broadway success, "High Tor," an unusually entertaining comic-fantasy with a brilliant cast of 15, will be presented this evening at eight o'clock in Memorial hall auditorium by the Dramatic council.

The council's most ambitious production in years, "High Tor" will bring to the Guilford boards actors who have become old favorites, a galaxy of promising newcomers, and a unique stage setting. Dave Parker, uncovered last year in "Kind Lady," will carry the male lead as Van Van Dorn. He will play opposite two newcomers, Eleanor Clinchy, in her first Dramatic council performance, will carry the role of a 200 year old and intriguing Dutch beauty, Lise. Nancy Graves will make her debut as Judith, Van's businesslike sweetheart.

Robert Register, most veteran actor in the cast, will continue his line of character roles by carrying the strong supporting part of DeWitt, a ghostly Dutch braggart. The principal comic roles will be handled by L. M. Gideon

Freshman Tea Dance

A tea dance will be given on Thanksgiving day, November 28, in Founder's hall from four to six o'clock p. m.

The affair is to be sponsored by the freshman class.

Members of the committee in charge are: Jean Calderwood, chairman; Margaret Ellison, Barbara Anthony, and Buddy Gabriel.

Pope House and Pines New Dormitory Units

Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Pope To Serve As House Matrons for Girls

Originally planned as faculty homes, the Pope house and The Pines are now being used to accommodate girls who can no longer be housed in Mary Hobbs or at Founders.

These girls are subject to the same social regulations as those staying at either of the regular dormitories. A station wagon will bring them to campus before breakfast in the morning, before dinner at night, and will take them home from Founders at 10 p. m. The girls may date in Mary Hobbs or Founders parlors, or in parlors at their own houses. They may not be accompanied from the library at night to their houses, but can be escorted to Founders.

Under the direction of Mrs. Pope, Elsie Kerlee, Bette Bailey, Anne Schneider, Ruth Owen, Jane Marshall,

Friedrich Prints Articles In Two October Periodicals

Equipped with a "Diplom" degree in library science, Gerhard Friedrich, now a student at Guilford, has published two articles in American periodicals for the month of October.

One, discussing the naturalization of the first settlers of Germantown, Pennsylvania, among whom was Francis Pastorius, is entitled "Pastorius' Naturalization Paper" and may be found in the "American-German Review" in the library.

The second, entitled "A New Supplement to Seidensticker's American-German Bibliography," was published in the "Pennsylvania History," official organ of the Pennsylvania Historical association.

Group from Friends' Committee on Campus

Are Making Tour of Friends' Centers All Over North Carolina

Several outstanding Friends were present on Guilford's campus during the past week:

Mr. John Harvey, head of the finance committee of the American Friends' Service committee, and his wife were guests of Founders hall and spoke with the Y cabinets at Dr. Beittel's home. Hannah Clothier Hull, whose husband was professor at Swarthmore and whose interests are mainly in women's movements toward peace, stayed with the Binfords.

The Haworths were hosts to Leslie Schaeffer of Philadelphia, secretary of the American Friends' Service committee and instrumental in the Greater Quaker fellowship. Mr. Schaeffer spoke in chapel last Monday.

Mrs. Janet Payne Whitney, biographer, of Swarthmore, Pa., (last Wednesday's chapel speaker) was here seek-

Fink Begins Creative Club

Mr. Fink has initiated the Arts and Crafts club, for those who are interested in creative work.

Meeting every Tuesday and Wednesday, during the first afternoon period in the gymnasium, the group has made plans for their work this year.

Metal work and leathercraft will be done. Some will work in clay. Later on there will be sketching.

Mr. Fink is adviser to the group which now consists of about ten members.

Staff Members are Active In Varied Creative Works

Faculty Engaged Currently In Writing, Speaking, And Editing Projects

The activities of the Guilford college faculty this fall along creative and cultural lines have been many and varied. A great many have been writing, are writing, or plan to write; others have been giving lectures; still others, chiefly those in the science departments, have been carrying on research projects or cooperating with students in carrying on original work for theses.

Dr. and Mrs. Milner have been giving lectures this fall, the former at a church in Charlotte and at various Lions and Rotary clubs; the latter, at Hampton institute, before the American Association of University Women,

College Is Beneficiary In California Man's Will

Guilford college was recently named a beneficiary for one-fourteenth of the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cole of California.

It is to be held in trust by the California Trust company for 20 years. During this period the college will receive one-fourteenth of the earned income, and at the end of the 20 year period it is to receive one-fourteenth of the total amount.

The estate at present is largely in real property in California and, therefore, there is now no accurate estimate of its value.

College officials could not explain the inclusion of Guilford among the beneficiaries.
