Six Students Join Scholarship Society

T. Ungar, Amon, Ashcraft, G. Ungar, Stanfield, Jordan, George P. Wilson Speaks

Six new members were inducted into the Guilford Scholarship Society in chapel on February 17. Mrs. Milner presented the students in the order of their standing: Tony Ungar, president; Santa Amon, vice-president; Virginia Ashcraft, secretary; Gerda Ungar, David Stanfield, and Mary Ellen Jordan. These students had achieved a quality average of 2.5 or more in five or more semesters of work. Miss Gilbert then introduced the main speakers, Professor George P. Wilson, of Woman's College, who spoke on "Pronunciations." He formerly taught at Guilford, is interested in Southern dialects, has contributed to a pronouncing dictionary, and has written a book, "A Guide to Better English."

The Scholarship Society was first established in 1937 by Dr. Russell Pope. Eleven faculty members have been admitted: Dr. Clyde Milner, Mrs. Ernestine Milner, Dr. Raymond Binford, Dr. Eva Campbell, Dr. Harvey Ljung, Dr. E. Testimony of Mary Hobbs On Bardwell Success Course

By CORNELIA KNIGHT

Mary Hobbs has had her face lifted. The Home Economics girls have been getting some practical training right here on campus; namely, redecorating Mary Hobbs. This is, as anyone can see, a mighty task, but they are taking it room by room, and what an improvement has been made!

There's an old saying somewhere about starting at the foot of the ladder and starting up, but the class, under Mrs. Bardwell's capable direction, started on third floor and worked down. A study was fixed out of some dilapidated furniture, and a wide open space, Miss

A. William Hire has recently been added to the Guilford faculty for the second semester as assistant professor of Psychology and Philosophy, and succeeds Dr. Milner as Dean of Men.

He is a native of Winston-Salem and attended Guilford College, graduating in 1933. Since then he has studied at the University of North Carolina, and at Hartford Theological Seminary, where he received a B.D. degree in 1936. In 1938 he received an M.A. degree at the University of Hawaii. He plans to return to Harvard at the end of the semester to complete his work toward a doctorate.

In Hawaii he became very much interested in Hawaiian music and plans to give a lecture on that subject soon. He is interested in other kinds of music too, having made orchestral arrangements and having played in an orchestra at Harvard.

Dee Waring Smith Plans Another Musical Production

Dee Waring Smith is planning another musical program similar to the one produced last fall. It will be presented in conjunction with the party to be given by the Senior class some time soon. The gym will become a night club for that evening, with Dee Waring directing the floor show.

Anne Perkins and David Evans will be at the piano; Polly Korn and Eddie Hirabayashi will do a dance sequence. Vocalists will be Linda Pell, Frank "Sinatra" Miles, Sue Shelton, Peggy Taylor, and Barbara Anderson, who will bring to the night clubbers such hits as "My Ideal," "Blue Rain," "Speak Low," and "Shoo Shoo Baby."

Una Seal Jeffries Will Present Senior Recital March 3rd

Betty Anne Anderson Will Accompany Her; Program To Be Classical, Modern

Una Seal Jeffries, soprano, will present her senior musical recital on Friday evening, March 3, at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. She will be accompanied by Betty Anne Anderson.

Her program will open with a group of early classic numbers: Chanson by Rommeau, Carselva by Handel, and My Heart Ever Faithful from Bach's Christmas Oratorio. She will continue with the operatic aria, O Don Fatal by Verdi.

The third group includes a group of numbers from the romantic period. They will be: In the Forest by Schumann, My Phantom Double by Schubert, At the Brookside by Grieg, and The Asra by Rubenstein. She will conclude her program with a group of modern songs including selections by Novello and De-Koven.

T. Gilbert Pearson Bird Club Organized on Campus

The T. Gilbert Pearson Bird Club was recently established in memory of Gilbert Pearson, whose early interest in birds developed into a life work. Thirty-seven members, mostly from the college and Guilford community, joined the club on January 13, Charter Day. Dr. Algine Newlin and Esther Demeo were appointed to write a constitution for the club.

With Dr. Campbell's guidance, the members will study the birds found in this vicinity and will learn what basic things to look for when on a bird hike, in addition to boosting campus interest in bird life. The club will sponsor bird hikes, movies, and other programs. It is affiliated with the National Audubon Society.

The main purpose of Dr. Mendenhall's work is to form closer ties between the colleges and meetings and to give new inspiration to future Quaker leaders.

Guilford Reflects Interest Of Edgerton and Stuart

By ALLYN PETERS

A notice of the deaths of Elbridge Amos Stuart and J. Milford Edgerton probably will not strike a responsive chord in most students' minds. Yet these men were interested in Guilford College for many years and made their contributions to the general welfare of the students with little fanfare and without arousing attention. Much that they had been able to contribute was done anonymously and cannot be mentioned here.

Elbridge Stuart died in Los Angeles on January 15, 1944, at the age of 85. He was the founder of the Carnation Milk Company and was always interested in Guilford.

Ashcraft and Ungar Make Straight A's For First Semester

Five Students Make All A's But One; Seventeen Students Earn A's and B's

Two students made all A's in their work last semester and five made all A's but one, according to grades which were released by Miss Era Lasley, registrar.

Those making all A's are Toni Ungar and Virginia Ashcraft, while those making all A's but one are Grace Siler, Santa Amon, Helen Stabler, Edith Swisher and Jack Wright.

Seventeen students made A's and B's. They are Betty Anne Anderson, Mary Ellen Jordan, David Stanfield, Cynthia Hyneman, Ruth Bab, Phyllis Farlow, Helena Haines, Marjorie Hoffman, Suzu Koriyama, Jean Lindley, Patricia Lockwood, Nancy Nunn, Blanche Oertel, Anne Schneider, Christine Stanfield, Gerda Ungar and Ray Wood.

Forty-one students passed less than nine hours with a C average and twenty-seven did not pass nine hours. There were eight who passed only one subject, however this number will decrease since several people were unable to take exams because of illness. Two students failed to pass any courses.

Choir to Present Cantata 'The Seven Last Words'

The Guilford College Choir has begun rehearsals for the Easter Cantata, The Seven Last Words, by Dubois. This cantata contains the last words of Jesus before His death on the Cross. Beside the choir voices, the cantata requires three soloists, a soprano, tenor, and baritone. These roles will be filled at an early date.

Dr. Weis would like a larger group at rehearsals as this cantata can be done well only by a large chorus. The date of the performance will be announced later.

Turner Moon Donates Books

Turner Moon, of Philadelphia, has donated to the Guilford College Library twenty-three books, the majority of which are on Quakerism. This donation is in memory of his father, Oscar Moon. Turner Moon is a graduate of Guilford in the class of '28.

There have been many other books added to the library including fiction, books of economics, politics, vocations, religion and science.

Guilford Reflects Interest Of Edgerton and Stuart

He was born in the Deep River community near High Point. At 24 he began his career by helping construct a Santa Fe railroad grade in New Mexico; a year later he opened a general mercantile business which started out in a tent, but in 13 years developed into El Paso's largest mercantile establishment.

Six years later he bought a little canned milk plant that had gone bankrupt. Confronted by a can manufacturer's monopoly, he started making cans by hand at Kent, Washington. Finally, with three thousand cans of milk packed and no name for the label, he noticed a box of cigars in a Seattle
