New Era in Guilford Athletics Foreseen As Doc Newton Signs

Starts Work Immediately As Coach and Director of Men's Physical Education

By JOHN HAWORTH

Williams (Doc) Newton, coach of Southern Conference circles, signed Thursday as director of physical education and as head coach of intercollegiate athletics at Guilford, his contract to begin March 1.

Succeeding Lt. Charles D. Smith, whose untimely death while serving in the Army at Fort Taylor left the Guilford coaching job open, Newton brings with him to Guilford an outstanding record as coach and athletic director at Davidson, N. C. State, Howard, Tennessee, and South Carolina.

He is expected to begin at once a program of physical education, although the Quaker institution will yield no baseball team this spring, it was learned through President Milner's office.

Doc Newton attended the University of South Carolina before the last war, served in the army, where he climbed to the rank of infantry captain, and finished his education at Howard and at Birmingham-Southern.

Upon finishing college, he went into professional baseball as pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, and participated in the Little World Series the next year. He coached Gastonia's American Legion Juniors to a national championship in 1935.

His coaching career began at Howard, where he was assistant in the line for five years, and in 1931 he moved to Tennessee as line coach under Major (now General) Bob Neyland.

He moved to North Carolina in 1932, and in five seasons at Davidson chalked up 25 wins against 17 losses in football, his specialty sport, and it was at Davidson that he first established himself as a topflight mentor.

In 1937, he took over the reins at State College, leaving that institution last spring to coach football last fall

'Brave Men', 'Leave Her to Heaven' Are New Additions

The college library has recently obtained many books from varied sources. Following are the summaries of two of the most popular books.

Ernie Pyle's latest book, Brave Men describes the events which took place when American doughboys landed in Sicily. Mr. Pyle, in his customary human approach to the war tells what the men in service overseas eat, how they sleep and all the other little details which add to the reader's interest. He is with the soldiers as they march through Italy and he also tells of the grim days on the Anzio beachhead. The book ends with the liberation of Paris.

Leave Her to Heaven by Ben Ames Williams is the story of a woman who did not see the wrong of cheating. Ellen, judge and executioner, knew how to keep from the penalties that befell others. A man's inward honesty is placed against this inward force of a jealous woman. It is the struggle between two traits that naturally oppose each other but are drawn together by the attraction of equal forces.

Among the other books are Carnegie's Corporation and Collection by Thomas Barcus, The Netherlands by Hendrik Riemens, Twenty-Five Short Stories by Stephen Benett, The Bible and the Common Reader by Mary Ellen Chase, Great Son by Edna Ferber, and Long, Long Ago by Alen Woolcott.

Student Body Campaign Drive for Improvement Funds Opens Next Week

The Guilford college improvement drive will be brought directly to the students' attention when the drive for contributions from the students begins next week.

At a recent meeting with Mr. J. Douglas Foster of the Student Advisory Council, plans were made to conduct the campaign on a dormitory basis. Betty Anne Brown and John Haworth were selected as chairman and co-chairman for the student drive. They have selected the following dorm chairmen to work under them: for Mary Hobbs, Roberta Reid, Mary Lee Macon; for Founders, Dottie Shute, Polly Fuller; for Archdale, Dot Nece, Marie Elliott; for Cox, Ray Wood, Dec Waring Smith, Ben Brown; and for day students, Royce Cox, Madge Conrad.

At a meeting last night, these chairmen selected the students who will work with them in canvassing the student body. The campus drive will begin immediately after pep rallies held during the chapel period on March 6. The drive will be short, lasting from March 6 to 8. The chairmen are urging 100% cooperation by the students, however small the contribution. The pledge can be paid now or at anytime during the next two and a half years.

Gilbert Paper to Be Published Next Year

"Quakers on the Western Waters" Is Study of North Carolina Quaker Migration

Miss Durothy Gilbert's "Quakers on the Western Waters," a study of the emigration of North Carolina families from New Garden, Deep River, Center, and Cane Creek, to Lost Creek and New Hope in Tennessee in 1786, is being published in The Eastern Tennessee Historical Publications next year.

An interesting detail about these Quakers who moved to Tennessee was that their home meetings disowned them because they did not buy their land from the Indians. The reason for the "squattling," it turned out later, was that there were no clear titles to the land. As soon as the government bought the land, the settlers paid for their property and so redeemed themselves in the eyes of their hometown.

This research article was suggested to Miss Gilbert by W. W. Hinshaw, author of Encyclopaedia of American Quaker Genealogy.

Mrs. Binford Writes Article

In the latest issue of the American Friend, there is an article about Deep River Meeting, written by Mrs. Helen T. Binford.

It includes a description of the meetinghouse and its location. She tells of the Friends who live and have lived in that section and the various activities.

Pre-Easter Religious Courses Held Weekly

Class Is Making Careful Study of International Sunday School Lessons

The short course for Sunday School teachers and leaders is being held every Tuesday evening for four weeks, from 7:45 until 9:45 p.m. in the Music building on campus. These meetings, held February 27, March 6, March 13, and March 20, are open to all Sunday School teachers who wish to add to their knowledge and teaching. The purpose of the course is to explain the International Sunday School Material which gives a rapid review of the entire Bible.

Each meeting is divided into three parts. First, the lecture on the Sunday School lesson, presented by a representative from each of the prominent denominations. Then there follows a devotional period. Finally, a lecture by Mr. A. S. Arnold on how the Arnold Biblical Collection can be used in connection with the lesson.

One meeting has already taken place under the leadership of Mr. Charlie Phillips, from the Methodist Church. The others, on succeeding Tuesdays, are open to all those who are interested and wish to come.
