SCA Holds Discussion On the College Spirit

Problems Concerning Social Activities, Friday Night Lectures Were Main Topics

Does knitting in chapel disconcert the speaker or does knitting in chapel not bother him? Why was there nothing planned for on-campus activity on the night of November 24? What is lacking on the campus—interest, elbow grease, or just plain momentum?

These and other questions vital to the preservation of the campus spirit were discussed under the leadership of Eddie Hirabayashi, president of the Student Christian Association, at the meeting of the SCA in the hut on Monday night,

The initial query - "Is there too much socializing on campus?"—was met with an enthusiastic "No!" The general consensus, however, seemed to be that the few social activities were not well organized or advertised suf-

That a good place to loaf is vital to every campus and lacking at Guil-ford, was stated. It was felt that this defect could be removed with a little initiative plus some ingenuity on the part of the students. Suggestions were the hut, the old Newlin house, or a structure, at the expense of the students.

The Friday night lectures were dis cussed as a major concern. Lectures attended by a dozen or 30 listeners are embarrassing to speaker, audience, and the one responsible for inviting the speaker. When individuals endeavor to obtain a college education, and do not take the opportunity of benefiting from one of the least diffi-cult aspects of education, namely, the lecture, then it was felt that there is omething wrong with the spirit.

The social committee expressed an inability to get cooperation from the student body. They said that when they plan and try to execute activitoo much responsibility falls on ew. It was suggested that more organizations, including the various classes, the men's and women's A. A., should take care of the initiative of carrying out activities.

The group felt that the final analysis rests with the individual.

The discussion was attended by 35 students and five faculty members.

Legendary Professor Comes Back to Guilford (Continued from Page One)

cause in the middle of a logarithm

explanation. And the students who have never had him have been curious as to what this much discussed profes sor was like.

Now he is here—and Guilford's faculty, students, and alumni unite in welcoming him back again.

PRAGO-GUYES

Greensboro's Leading Store for

Quality Fashions

Prago * Guyes

109-11 So. ELM ST.

Those participating in the USO entertainment are, left to right, Iris Beville, Linda Pell, Mary Corbin, Beth Frederick, Sue Shelton, and Amoret Butler.

Dr. Hayes Reports On South American Venture

(Continued from Page One)

meet at least three-fourths of their classes, but attendance is left in the hands of the professor, and there is no central office to which he is obliged to report absences or other acts of students.

Due to this lack of records, the graduate's diploma is often his surest means of showing what work he accomplished while at the university. The usual procedure of conferring di-plomas was reversed for Dr. Hayes, when he was presented diplomas by the students of two of his classes.

A great difference between the students of North and South America may be seen in the interest South American students take in politics. The students of Bolivia won by actual revolution university independence from government control about 30 years ago, and fight to maintain their freedom today. One very effective weapon the students use is the strike. During Dr. Hayes' stay in Sucre the students of Bolivia staged two strikes, one of which lasted three weeks. One of these was occasioned by the government's seizure and imprisonment, on an island in the middle of Lake Titi-caca, of some of the best citizens of Sucre. Twice during Dr. Hayes' stay the editor of the university newspaper was imprisoned because the students are continuously fighting dictatorship and other government policies through their paper.

The meeting place for students, as well as for the entire town, is the central Plaza. Here, in the middle of day or in the evening, one may often see groups of goys and groups of girls, walking in opposite directions, while individuals in the opposite groups carry on a flirtation, in the interests of something other than academic study.

To Guilford students who are despairing of ever learning the intrica-cies of the Spanish language, Dr. Hayes offers encouragement by noting ome of the mistakes his English stu-

Choir To Present Handel's "Messiah" on December 16 (Continued from Page One)

ugh he made some changes in this work, he left it as a whole unchanged, both vocally and instrumentally, showing that in spite of its limitations, first conception of the work was the enduring one.

The Guilford College chorus which will sing The Messiah is composed of will sing The Messiah is composed of students, choir members, and people from the community. This is the 11th consecutive year Dr. Weis has direct-ed this production.

dents at Sucre made in their use of English. History books notwithstanding, one of the students stated that "The Pilgrims came over on the Marywer." Another informed Dr. Hayes at "There are barbershops where we can get well-shaved and hygeni-cally haircutted." Still another stu-dent had a friend who "appeared in his bed uniform," rather than paja

While flying to and from Bolivia. While Hying to and from Bohyia, Dr. Hayes made the acquaintance of a young steward and hostess of the Panagra Airlines, which operates be-tween Miami and Panama. If any students are interested in this type of airline work, Dr. Hayes will be glad to give full information about it. It is pleasant work, requires intelligence and pays well.

The future of "I give" is "you take."

THE LOTUS RESTAURANT

Chinese and American Dishes

> 105 S. Greene St. GREENSBORO, N. C.

Freshmen to Seniors Enjoy Eating at the

Brooklyn Spaghetti House

Compliments of Saslow's, Inc.
Greensboro's Largest Credit Jewelers

Younts-DeBoe Co.

Sweaters for the College Student

COLORS

Blue, yellow, red, beige, green, white, brown

Guilford Co-eds Entertain G. I.'s at Greensboro USO

Koo Makes Addresses On Guilford Campus

(Continued from Page One)

Dr. Koo played his flute. One piece was a modern one, he explained. It was only 50 years old. Another one was 1600 years old.

Dr. Koo received his early education in a "family school," there being no public school system at that time, and was tutored until he reached the age of a college freshman. In 1905, he entered St. John's University, a mission school.

In 1921, he made his first trip to the United States, passing through on his way to Holland to attend a Student Christian Federation after the last World War. When he returned to China, he became associated with the Student Christian Movement. He has been active in both religious and political affairs, having served as ciate general secretary of the national committee of the YMCA. In 1942 he was a member of the second world opium conference, Since Pearl Harbor, opulm conference. Since Pearl Harbor, he has been trapped in Shanghai. He came to America in October, 1944, after walking 850 miles across China to reach a place from which he could fly to the United States. He was an advisor to the Chinese delegation to the San Francisco conference.

Mrs. Koo and the two younger children are still in Shanghai. His oldest daughter is in New York, studying violin at a school of music. His son, who graduated from Cornell with a degree in agriculture, is now a Marine stationed in China as a language specialist.

Brooks-Wilson Co.

119 S. Greene St.
School Clothes for the College Girl $\begin{array}{c} \text{SUITS} - \text{COATS} - \text{DRESSES} \\ \text{MILLINERY} \end{array}$

A group of Guilford's most talented co-eds presented a musical program for the servicemen at the Greensboro USO on Sunday, November program was planned by M. J. Martin and the participants were Sue Shelton, Iris Beville, Linda Pell, Beth Frederick, Amoret Butler, and Mary Corbin.

Iris was the mistress of ceremonies and made quite a sensation with her witty remarks and fluttering eyelashes. Amoret and Mary were able accompanists of the program.

Sue opened the show by singing three blues songs as only she can sing them in her deep, sultry voice. Her choices were: "Stormy Weather," "Embraceable You," and "St. Louis Blues."

Mary Corbin then gave a rendition "Stardust" on the piano. Beth did one of her comic numbers, with heavy "Brooklyneese" and proper gesticulations. The title was Daisy." "Chain Store

To conclude the program Linda sang "There You Are" and "Always."

Seburn's Jewelry Co.

Jewelers

CHINA—GLASS—SILVER FINE DIAMONDS AND COSTUME JEWELRY

Clothing for Men and Boys

VANSTORY CLOTHING CO.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

132 South Elm Street 169 South Main Street

Greensboro High Point

Our Favorite Little "Beau" Beanie 1.98

College girls love it for its casual adaptability. Business girls choose it for its practical wear-to-work comfort. Get yours here—tomorrow—in Black or your most becoming color.