On the Girls Side

By DORIS LOESGES

The varsity hockey team is shaping up extremely well according to the latest reports from Miss Hutchinson. She is particularly pleased with the consistently large turnout, enough for two complete teams. After the dorm or class games, at least two games with W. C. will be played. Possibly a Play Day will be arranged with W. C., Greensboro College, and Guilford participating. Those reporting to hockey practice regularly are Ann Young, Elizabeth Barney, Betty Nunn, Jean Presnell, Jane Pringle, Betty Blair, Mary Strang, Charlotte Flanders, Jackie Williams, Sara Farlowe, Marianne Victorius, Caroline Stanley, Joan Davis, Phyllis Stevens, Elizabeth Ann Jordan, Johnny Ornstein, Doris Wormser, Teenie Raiford, Roxie Roberson, Jenny Jordan, Carolina Stanfield, Nancy Hyatt, Emma Jean Hodgins, Marie Elliott, Julia White, Lucile Oliver, B. J. Thompson, Dorry Loesges, and Quetta Raiford, manager.

On the ninth of November the W. A. A. plans to sponsor a social function of some sort. As yet, plans are incomplete.

To serve those girls who are, for physical reasons, unable to participate in the regular Phys. Ed. classes, Miss Hutchinson has formulated programs to fit their needs. Such activities as badminton and bike riding are offered.

Work has been started again on the unfinished rooms over in the gym. Also the W. A. A. has bought new hockey sticks, balls, and badminton equipment.

This afternoon the W. A. A. will give a tea from 2:15 to 3:15 in Founders Hall. All students are urged to attend and help toward making the alumni feel at home during their stay on Guilford College campus.

Cigars Are in Order . . .

Coach Lentz and Missus have a new member in their family. An 8½ lb. baby girl arrived yesterday morning—name, Mary Lancaster.

State, Carolina, and Guilford are the three undefeated elevens remaining in the state after four or five initial rounds of play, and this column, naturally, will be devoted exclusively to the Quaker club.

Since the Guilfordian last came off the press, Doc Newton's charges have preserved intact their unbeaten, untied, and unscored on record at expense of Randolph-Macon and Wofford, teams which absorbed 25-0 and 36-0, respectively, losses at the hands of the rejuvenated local grid-ders.

In amassing this impressive record, two members of the team have come into their own in the race for North State conference scoring honors. Flash Gordon and Billy Powell hot having racked up 24 points to tie Eddie Adelman of Appalachian for second place in the race.

Up front are Tony Georgiana of Catawba and Gene Miller of Lenoir-Rhyne, both of whom the Quaker touchdown duo will get a crack at when Guilford hits its conference schedule. The two leaders are a touchdown ahead with 30 points each.

Powell featured the Randolph-Macon contests, which was marked by long runs, turning in the longest of all, an 80 yard scoring jaunt. Gordon ripped off 24 himself on a reverse, and Powell scored again from three yards out.

It was up to Wally Mauldsby, however, to turn the trick no other Guilford back has been able to do. He took a Randolph-Macon punt, started to the right behind two blockers, cut back into the middle, and raced wide open 70 yards to the double marker. Oddly enough, the Thomasville boy hasn't since run from scrimmage.

Against Wofford, Gordon and Powell reversed, the former this time notching two scores to one. Powell's lone marker came on a line plunge good for five yards.

Gordon also hit the line, taking a shovel pass from Faircloth to go over hurdling the outstretched arms of Wofford defenders. Again a pass from Faircloth, this time good for 15, did the trick.

Most spectacular play of the Wofford game came when Bob Kinch, sensing a pass, dropped back from his end position to intercept a Terrier aerial, and showed his heels to the field on a 50 yard run. Kinch scored one of Guilford's two touchdowns last season, that against Appalachian.

Bill Powell Leading Team Ground Gainer

The conventional belief may be that figures do not lie; however, figures do not always tell the complete story, as shown in the following table of statistics concerning the abilities of various Guilford football players. Wallace Mauldsby, for instance, has a statistical rating of 4.0. It is well remembered, however, that Mr. Mauldsby traveled some 70 yards for a Guilford touchdown against Randolph-Macon.

Billy Powell, who stands second in the table of figures, is actually the Quaker's number one ground gainer. Powell has carried the ball 29 times for a total of 261 yards and an average of 9.0 yards per try.

Joe Winner, although away down the list, comes just after Powell in ground yardage gained. Winner has carried the ball 27 times for a total gain of 164.7 and an average of 6.1.

In reading these statistics it must be remembered that kickoff returns, punt returns and pass interceptions are not recorded as official rushes and consequently do not figure into the averages:

Quakers Attempt To Retain Position As Only Unscored-On College Team

Quaker Cagers Begin First Practice Periods

The Guilford College basketball team initiated their first practice drills of the oncoming season last week, when over thirty candidates reported for the first trials. Coach Paul W. Lentz hopes to construct a smooth functioning team from the remaining members of last year's squad, along with returning service men who saw action in other seasons, and from the many newcomers.

The large turnout in numbers has guaranteed the formation of a promising Junior Varsity organization which will play its own schedule aside from that of the senior aggregation. Through this system the Guilford policy of participation in sports for everyone so desiring to be carried out in the true sense of the word.

Among last year's quintet to return again to the hardwood for the Quakers are Captain "Bunk" Leonard, Bruce Hansard, Roy Christiansen, Jack Arzonico, and Jack Chatham.

The returning military men who played in years previous to their going into service, and are back again for the first time are Bill Byatt, Herb Schoellkopf, George Short, "Form" Presnell, Wes Collins, and Roy Cuneo.

Billy Cleaver, Quince Caviness, Jerry Watson, and Dick Hall are among the freshman and transfer students to appear and who showed much sign of promise.

The closing of the football season after Thanksgiving should bring to light many other aspirants for the team. Soon after that, hard regular practice will begin in anticipation of a tough season. Although the first game as yet scheduled with the McCray Eagles for the 15th of December, other games may be booked to be played in the first two weeks of that month.

This season other colleges and universities will have home-coming events. But no other group of American home-comers will see its Alma Mater's football team as an undefeated, untied and unscored upon gridiron team—no other group save the Guilford alumni for such is the record of the current Quakers. Tonight at eight o'clock in Greensboro Memorial stadium Coach Doc Newton will offer the Milligan College Buffaloes a chance to break this perfect record.

Advance notice from Guilford's scouts have the boys from Milligan as a strong outfit with a hard running ground attack. In view of the fact that the fellows from Tennessee will be knocking hard at Quaker line, Coach Newton has stressed defence in the past week's workouts. The Guilford forwards, and especially the second string, played against Wofford in such a manner as not to please the coaching staff.

With the exception of Max Trull, a consistent back from Greensboro, the Guilford men will be in first rate condition for tonight's game. Curly Dickerson, another Greensboro back who served under Coach Newton at State College, is expected to be in tonight's battle, after missing the past two games.

Coach Newton is fortunate in that he has a host of backs to carry the attack. Joe Winner, threat at running and kicking, has shown improvement over his already outstanding work. Art Faircloth, rated as one of the top passers in the conference, will, should the Quakers take to the air, lead the flight with his tossing. Bill Phipps and Bob Gordon have received praise for their running abilities.

Harpo Withers will be back at his regular center position after trying out at guard. Big Lody Glenn, who has been combining his tackle with snapping the ball, will do full time tackle duty.
