

The Guilfordian

VOLUME XXXIV

GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., SEPTEMBER 26, 1947

NUMBER 1

THE 1947 QUAKER FOOTBALL SQUAD

Front Row (left to right): Jones, Roberts, Watson, Teague, Schopp, Sholar, Maultsby, O'Brien, McCormick, P. Feeney, Nantz.
Second Row: Lawhorn, Sherrill, Hanzel, Crawford, Dempsey, Leonard, LeGwin, Gordon, Powell, Winner, Withers, Riddle, Glenn.
Third Row: Bray, Scott, Breedon, Cox, Kerr, Johns, Turner, Hargrove, Haworth, W. Feeney, Wright, Scrum, Kinch.
Back Row: Doggett, Murray, Small, Bodenheimer, Moon, Kilpatrick, Baker, Wallace, Marlette, Scott, Garrison, Mitchell, Lanford.

Faculty Is Increased By 10 To Cope With Large Enrollment

This year, as every year, brings changes to Guilford College. This being no exception and considering the new countenances which confront us as we go about the campus on our various duties and to classes, we think the time appropriate to roll out the welcome mat to the new members of the faculty and staff to better acquaint and to promote a closer bond between the newcomers and the students.

Probably the newest face on campus in that of Dr. Mona Wilhelm, Assistant Professor of Spanish and French. She comes here from France where she has been teaching languages since 1933. Prior to her teaching, she studied French, English, and Philosophy at the Universities of Geneva, Munich, Paris, and Giessen. She received her doctor's degree from Giessen in 1932. Dr. Wilhelm is married; her husband, an artist of international repute.

Already known to most of us is W. Ivan Hoy, Assistant professor of Bible. He received his A.B. degree at Hampton Sidny College in Virginia. Then he taught and directed athletics at Monterrey High School in Virginia. From Monterrey he accepted the position of Assistant principal at Virginia High School, also in Virginia after which he resumed his schooling, this time at the Union Theological Seminary of Richmond where he got his B. D. degree. Following this he served as a Navy Chaplain, achieving the rank of Lieutenant Commander. After his time in the Navy he taught at Presbyterian Junior College as assistant professor of Bible. He then served as pastor for three months at Dillon, South Carolina before coming to Guilford. Mr. Hoy has already completed his arrangements to study for his doctorate at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. The evident high mentality of Mr. Hoy is seemingly handed down to his daughter who has already started to college at the tender age of nine months. Her presence in Founders Hall has added a homey touch uncommon to most college dorms.

Betty Jo Miller is the assistant librarian. Her home is in West Minister and she is a graduate of Limestone College of Gaffney, S. C., where she worked in the library last year. She comes to us from Emory University of Atlanta where she took work in library science this past summer.

Dr. Elfrieda Frank has joined the college faculty as assistant professor of classical languages and German. She has taught in American colleges for six years. She holds her doctor's degree from the University of Milan, Italy, and her masters degree from Bryn Mawr where she plans to receive her second doctorate soon.

(Continued on Page Four)

Concerts Announced

Miss Riels wants to bring to the attention of everyone the music programs given in the Library. These concerts are held every Sunday night starting at 6:45 p.m., lasting one hour. The Carnegie collection of about 4000 records will be used.

A committee of five students: Remi Gonzalez, Marie Eljima, Marianne Victorius, Lucille Olives, and Marie Orvies are now in charge of planning the programs. They would like to be joined by three more students interested in planning these programs.

The programs for Sunday, September 28 will include three very good selections. Fantasia Chromatic fugue by Johann Back, Symphony No. 6 in F major (Pastoral) by Ludvig von Beethoven, and Preludes (1-6) (7-14) by Chopin. This program really deserves the interest and support of all.

Two Students Travel Nearly 10,000 Miles To Enroll for the 111th Year of Guilford

By ADRIAN BRODEUR

Some students complain when they have to go two or three miles to school, but two Guilford College students have come 9,500 miles to attend the 111th year of the Quaker college.

The two foreign students, Miss Gertrude "Tuddie" Schwachtgen, of Luxembourg, and Adli A. Alliss, of Bireh, Ramallah, Palestine, expressed little concern over the distance traveled to attend Guilford. It was the first ocean voyage for both, although Alliss's father had been to America several times.

Miss Schwachtgen heard about Guilford College through her sister's American fiancé. Interested in chemistry and the sciences, she plans to return to Luxembourg and teach school. She has already had one year of college training in that city.

Vastness Amazes Her

When asked what impressed her the most on her arrival in the States, she replied, "It certainly wasn't the Statue of Liberty; but rather the skyline of Manhattan." She said that in Europe all the villages are grouped together, while here in America everything is spread out. "The vastness of your country amazes me," she stated.

In contrast to Alliss, who had never seen or felt the devastating effects of the war, Miss Schwachtgen was in the middle of it. Her eyes were filled with tears when she said the people of Luxembourg have adopted the graves of American dead buried in that city. "Each Sunday," she said, "we go to the American cemetery and place flowers on the graves of soldiers we have adopted. It is a very small deed for the price paid by those men in giving Luxembourg its freedom."

Alliss had his first glimpses of the effects of war when he visited Athens on his way to America.

Short in stature and dark in features, Alliss has already expressed the desire to join the campus international relations club with his foreign companion. Alliss is majoring in physics with the intention of becoming a mechanical engineer and working for the Palestinian Government.

J. Floyd Moore, Guilford's public relations director, now teaching at the Friends School in Ramallah, told Alliss about Guilford and aided him in making the necessary arrangements. Alliss graduated and taught at this same school where Moore and his wife are now working.

Alliss, oldest of four children, said the farther south he went from New York the friendlier the people became. "Greenstoro and Guilford College people have been most kind and helpful to me—especially when I get lost," he said.

Democracy Is Theme Of I. R. C. Meeting

"Democracy is a method of government, and a method only," asserted Mr. Carroll Feagins as he attempted to bring out the distinction between democracy and a unit of government when he addressed the first meeting of the International Relations Club which was held last Friday night in the hut.

Mr. Feagins assured his listeners that a carefully constructed definition of democracy would augment their activities throughout the year. In connection with this he pointed out that, "willingness to abide by the consent of the majority" is a tremendous factor in democratic proceedings. A failure to do this is apparent in world affairs as they stand today. While explaining his definition of democracy Mr. Feagins conceded that the ideas about which many people believe in are wrong because democracy itself is constantly changing those ideas. In the course of his talk Mr. Feagins challenged his listeners to be democratic with other peoples of the world, not democratic with the governments of those people. In furtherance of this idea he said, "democracy holds peoples together, not governments."

Upon the culmination of his talk Mr. Feagins left the question: "Do you believe in democracy?" to be pondered over the members of the IRC. Later a heated debate over the activities of democracy was enacted and Mr. Feagins again took the floor.

At the beginning of the first meeting of the IRC, President David Hadley quickly disposed of all business. Marianne Victorius, vice-president of the club was chosen to serve as chairman of the publicity committee. It was decided that several other matters of lesser importance would be left until the next meeting which will be held Friday, October.

In a short address, Hadley announced that the IRC is a relatively new organization, but he expressed his desire to make it a more effective one. He invited new members to take an active part and aid in this.

NOTICE

Veterans studying full time in colleges and universities under the GI Bill will no longer have to make periodic reports of earnings. The estimate made at the time of registration will be effective for the full period of enrollment.

Students have volunteered to let the faculty be first in line to all meals. Faculty members are requested to be in line before the doors open; they may go in however, and be seated before the doors are opened. Co-operation of students and faculty is requested.

Registration Hits New All-Time Record

Guilford's enrollment continued on its post-war high as 589 students registered for cases first semester. Miss Era Lasley's bureau of vital statistics says that there are 181 freshmen, and 31 transfer students. Good news for the girls in the news that the ratio of men to women stands at almost 4 to 1, in round numbers 436 men and 153 women.

To speed up the process of registration, the college made use of a new system this year. Upperclassmen who had been invited back to help with Freshmen Week reported back the day before the freshmen were scheduled to arrive to receive their instructions. When the freshmen arrived, the upperclassmen were there to help them get settled, explain the whys and wherefores of college life to those who wanted to know, and put all new students in their proper sections, according to their abilities.

When the upperclassmen arrived several days later, the freshmen were settled, and beginning to feel at home. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors registered for their classes with their major professor in the gym. This year, for the first time, they were subject to the fancies of a man with a camera, before proceeding to the formal process of class registration. After deciding on the course of study for the coming semester, a matriculation card was sent over to Mem Hall. The student went over to Mem, collected his card from the enormous pile there and stood in line to pay the treasurer. This completed, he was registered as a student at Guilford College.

The whole process of registration and matriculation took only an hour. While this appeared to be a long

(Continued on Page Three)

Quakers Lose Opener To Appalachian Team

The rains came in the fourth quarter of the Quakers 1947 football debut against the Appalachian Mountaineers at Bowman Gray Stadium last Saturday. The showers not only dampened Guilford roosters, but also brought with them a torrent of Appalachian points, which were enough to drown the Quaker's initial start of the season to the tune of 23-13. It was also the opener of the season for the victorious Apps.

Up until the last period the Guilfordians were doing fairly well for themselves. After the second play of the game, which saw Bob Gordon romp a sensational 82 yards off tackle for a touchdown, it appeared as if the Quakers were going on to an easy victory; however events were to prove otherwise. Still in the first quarter, the Mountaineers cashed in on a fumble by Joe Winner, which was caused by a high pass from the center. Buddy Brooks pounced on the loose ball for Appalachian on the Quaker 30. Six plays later Marlon Hoffman drove over the first touchdown for the Black and Gold from the three yard line, thereby tying it at 6-6, the score remaining that way when the conversion was good.

The next two quarters were nip and tuck all the way, with both teams threatening several times only to fail in the crucial moments. In the last stanza the boys from Boone suddenly took the initiative, and forged ahead by placing a much disputed field goal between the uprights from the 17 yard line. This made it temporarily 9-6. Another six points was added to the visitor's score a few minutes later, when Pete Mills, apparently trapped by a host of red jerseys cleverly maneuvered himself into the open, and ran back a Guilford punt 71 yards. The score now stood at 16-6 as the conversion was good.

The Apps continued to roll as they recovered a Quaker fumble on the kick off. Taking the ball on the 35 yard line they drove to another tally a few minutes later and made it 23-6 when the extra try was good.

The Guilfordians proved they had not given up hope, when Al Johns hit Bob Gordon with a 41 yard chuck in the closing minutes of play to score the final T. D. of the game, and made the score 23-13 when Bill Teague successfully split the uprights with his extra point attempt.

This week will find the Quakers looking to bounce into the win column for this year as they tangle with Emory and Henry in the latter's own back yard at Bristol, Virginia.