"THE WORST IS YET TO COME!" Just in case you slept through it all, here is a partial pictorial review of what happens to a lowly freshman when he forgets his job of shining shoes! Here, we see a freshman being led to "Court," part of the procession to serenade the girls, with one of the Judges helping lead, and even a shot of the girls on Hobbs' porch, enjoying the show. Somebody said it rained that night! Funny most folks would tell you that the stars were shining brightly!—(Photo by Cox).

have things really jumping for a change. BUT . . .

Drunks . . .

BUT then we come to the drunks. To be drunk is to "be excited or exhilarated under the influence of some alcoholic beverage." Therefore anyone who has had enough to be "feeling high" or "good" (as the more colloquial terminology would have it) is, in my estimation, drunk—not "dead drunk," mind you—just plain drunk! Last year we had some who got drunk once or twice and sang and went boisterously around—and not many thought much of it. However, so far this year I know for a fact of three such instances—and suspect several more. A couple of times these young "exhilarated" gentlemen were so gracious as to serenade the other sleeping(?) gentlemen at one or two in the wee hours. Now, a sermon on the evils of drink will not follow. Such an argument would get us nowhere. And I definitely don't want to be a kill-joy or a "party-pooper"—but the fact remains that I'm "agin it!" And that's where I'll drop it.

There are also many other signs of our new attitude toward things which I won't go into.

"Don't tell me!"

At this point it would be too illogical for you to say to yourself, "Now don't tell me that you led me over all of that stuff just to say that some guys have been drinking a lot and disturbing the peace, and that you're 'agin it!'" If you say that and let it drop there, you will be missing the whole point. The "drunk" subject is not the thing to which everything else was leading up. It is only part of all the rest of it, and the entire thing is to be taken as a whole (Gestalt, you know!)

There are other things of similar nature which show changes in our behavior. I believe it advisable that we think this whole thing over and then examine carefully ourselves to see whether we've slipped and if so what can be done about it.

This is not a condemnation or a piece to be read and then forgotten. It is a study of a situation. I hope this sets in motion some gears in our heads 'cause this is one thing I'm not joshin' about.

Dr. Binford Dies

ham College and graduated from there in 1901. He spent from 1901 to 1914 at Guilford as a biologist. He then went back to Earlham where he was professor of zoology until 1918.

In June, 1918, Dr. Binford was called to the presidency of Guilford. This time is recognized as one of the crucial periods of the college's history. He continued as the very able leader of this institution until his retirement in 1934. From that time on Dr. Binford led a continued active life teaching, and working with the American Friends Service Committee, and the Friends Fellowship Council.

Besides his work in biology, Dr. Binford was renowned for his leadership in developing at Guilford what has been recognized in the educational world as a model curriculum for the liberal arts college. This curriculum has since gained international attention.

The body of this distinguished educator and friend of Guilford was cremated.

Soda Shop Seeks Change In SC Dance Location

The Soda Shop will put in a bid with the Social Committee to have the site of the weeknight dances moved from the gym to the Soda Shop's Lounge. Bob Wall, chairman of the committee, said that he would favor such a move, but that the entire committee would have to pass on it.

Miss Mildred Marlette, faculty adviser for the committee, said that the only difficulty that existed as far as she knew was the question of whether there would be enough space in the lounge. She also stated that it would mean moving the record player from the gym each night there is dancing, as it must be kept locked up. She continued that she would not oppose the move, however, if those conditions could be worked out.

JMA and JPA Civil Service Exams To Open Soon

Two federal civil-service examinations designed for the outstanding college man and woman will be announced during the third week of October, the Civil Service Commission said today.

The Junior Management Assistant examination will be open to students with training or experience in the social sciences, business or public administration, who show leadership and management ability. The positions pay entrance salaries of $3,100 and $3,825 a year. Students may also apply if their major study is in government, economics, international relations, industrial engineering, sociology, psychology, anthropology, geography, or history.

The Junior Professional Assistant examination, which will be used for filling positions paying $3,100 a year, will be open to students in the fields of bacteriology, economics, geography, geophysics, social science, and statistics.

Persons who wish to do so may apply for both examinations. The JMA examination will be used to fill positions in Washington, D. C., and throughout the country in social science and administrative fields where the need is for high potential for executive and administrative development. The JPA positions to be filled are located in Washington, D. C., and vicinity, with the exception of geophysicist positions which are located throughout the country. These positions will require a high type of professional competence and the duties will involve professional research.

Applications for both examinations must pass a written test, in addition to having had college training in the appropriate fields of work. Students who plan to complete work on their bachelor's or master's degrees by June 30, 1952, if they qualify, they may be of-may apply for these examinations, deferred appointments before graduation and go on full-time duty immediately after becoming available.

In announcing these examinations, the Commission is hoping for a high quality, rather than a greatly increased number of applicants. The examinations are for the purpose of bringing into the service promising young people, who are experienced or trained in specific fields of work, who wish to begin a career with the Government.
