DRUG FOR EFFICIENT STUDY AVAILABLE

The GUILFORDIAN has information concerning a new drug that should be of interest to all Guilford students who have just concluded another periodic bout with exams. The school nurse, Ruth Simpson, reports that the drug is not available just yet, but the manufacturer promises that the drug will be on the market within a few weeks.

This drug, neuro-agimine, is reported to be extremely effective in increasing ability to assimilate material for study. Many experiments indicate that study efficiency may be increased as much as 50-60 per cent. Reports indicate, however, that neuro-agimine has a tendency to affect the nervous system, much in the manner of caffeine or benzedrine. It has been questioned by some students to find out if the adverse affects of this drug are sufficient to offset its beneficial effects. An enthusiastic student said in reply: "If the drug will help to master fifty per cent more material, I, for one, say, 'Who cares about the shakes? Bring on the neuro-agimine!'"

S. A. M. Activities

The Society for Advancement of Management, the recognized national professional organization of management in industry, commerce, government and education, and the pioneer in management philosophy has been dedicated to the promotion and advancement of the art and science of management ever since the original Taylor Society was established in 1912.

Through the 95 University Chapters in leading colleges and universities, the Society endeavors to strengthen and make more realistic management education. The program has been designed for students preparing for careers in the many functional areas of business and industry in which the practice of good management that makes for greater efficiency in the utilization of men, materials, machines, and money is essential and fundamental.

Seminars, clinics, conferences, lectures, research projects and plant visits with business executives give students an insight into the practice of the management profession and make more realistic and effective their preparation for life and, in addition, impart to them a sound attitude toward and full appreciation of industry.

The basic objectives of the University Program are: (1) to bring closer together executives in business and students preparing to go into business; (2) to serve as an effective medium for the exchange and distribution of information on the problems, policies, and methods of industry and management; (3) to provide students with the opportunity to participate in the organizing, planning, direction, and controlling of the activities of an

Revelers Present Shaw's "Arms and the Man"

"Arms and the Man," G. B. Shaw's lively comedy, will be presented next Thursday and Friday, November 29 and 30, at 8:30 in Memorial Hall.

The eight members of the cast include: Raina, Eileen Murray; Catherine, Beth Eastwood; Louka, Mary Ella Clark; Bluntchli, Dave Hardin; Sergius, Bill Campbell; Petkoff, Craven Mackie; Nicola, Dale Embich; and the officer, Alvin Jaffee.

The play is under the direction of Mr. Donald Deagon, professor of English, as are the various committees concerned with the play: Dale Embich, Technical Group; Lyndall McFarland, Lighting Group; Eileen Murray, Costume Committee; Mary Ella Clark, Makeup; John Hewlett, Properties Committee; and Susan Walter, Publicity.

English 27, a course in play production under Mr. Deagon, is doing much work on the building of the sets of the play which were designed by Craven Mackie. Work on the sets is being done every afternoon and any volunteering willing hands will always be welcome.

The plot of the play centers around the attractions of two young men for a young daughter and a maid, during a war between Bulgarians and Serbs in Bulgaria. Toward the end there is a surprising change in their affections but all ends well and happily. This play was chosen by the Revelers Club to commemorate Shaw's 100th Anniversary as are a few productions currently on Broadway.

Tickets are available from Eileen Murray, Leona Schmid, Craven Mackie, and Susan Walter; they may also be bought on the nights of production. The price of admission is fifty cents and Guilford students are admitted free of charge.

organization dedicated solely to the promotion and advancement of the art and science of management.

The Guilford College chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management is composed of fifty-four economics majors with Dr. J. Curt Victorius as the faculty adviser. Penn Truitt is the president; Henry Mitchell is vice-president; Thomas Causey, secretary; and Bob Gordon, treasurer.

At the first meeting of the year Mr. Patrick Comer, assistant professor of psychology, spoke on his "Society for the Advancement of Man." Outside speakers who have addressed S.A.M. meetings have included Mr. Bill Lenord from Cone Mills, who spoke on supervisory training in industry, and Mr. J. J. Walsh of Western Electric, who spoke on production planning. In the near future the S.A.M. will hear a talk on time and motion study by a gentleman from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Tentative plans have been drawn up to invite other interesting speakers during the year and also to have motion pictures on different phases of industry.

Included in this year's program

Guilford Represented at S. S. L.; Students Introduce Two Bills

Assembled in Raleigh on Thursday, November 15, to Saturday, November 17, twenty-three colleges participated in the fifth annual North Carolina State Student Legislature. The purpose of this annual convention is to give students a chance to express opinions on any per♦tinent governmental topics and to accord to these undergraduates the actual situations that they will encounter in the future.

Milner, Hendricks To Visit Alumni

President Milner and Mr. Charles Hendricks are making a trip north to address alumni groups and to attend to business concerning the college. The meetings are scheduled from November 13-November 20.

The purpose of visiting the alumni is to promote fellowship and interest in the college. The two will show color slides of the additions and improvements on the Guilford campus. They will also have choir records. In addition to these alumni meetings Dr. Milner will preach at the Friends Meeting House in Lynn, Mass. and will attend conferences in New York on college business. Mr. Hendricks will attempt to visit as many Friends' schools as possible and will also interview prospective students.

This trip is a yearly event. The following alumni meetings have been scheduled:

Nov. 13	.....	Baltimore, Maryland
Nov. 14	.....	Philadelphia, Penn.
Nov. 15	.....	Southern New Jersey
Nov. 16	.....	New York
Nov. 17	.....	New England
Nov. 20	.....	Washington, D. C.

Hough Is Popular Campus Speaker

On Thursday, November 15, the campus was honored to have Joseph Hough as guest speaker in chapel and in the International Relations Club.

Mr. Hough is a graduate of Star High School in Star, North Carolina, and of Wake Forest College, and is at present studying at Southeastern Seminary.

Last summer Mr. Hough was a Rotary Scholar studying in Edinburgh, Scotland. For his chapel talk he related some of his personal experiences while he was in Europe. He was primarily interested in the people of the countries although he said also that he saw some magnificent sights.

He saw in every country the friendly spirit of the people and believes that if more people could have the opportunity he had, world understanding would be farther on its way.

At the International Relations Club meeting, he continued with more of his personal experiences, stressing the fact that problems and crises that exist in the U. S. which are considered by many people as

One of the most controversial bills that appeared was presented by the University of North Carolina. They proposed to abolish the Pearsall Plan. It is interesting to note that this plan was favored by seventy-five per cent of the voting population of this state; yet, this collegiate congress voted, by a large majority, to repeal this law.

Other ebullient bills presented included one from North Carolina State. They delivered a bill that, if initiated, would unite all the "dry" counties with the "wet" counties into a uniform state, that would be governed by a uniform law, that would set up an Alcoholic Beverage Control Board in every county.

Governor Hodges gave a short address to the body on Friday afternoon and expressed his delight at seeing so many students who were interested in their country's future—interested enough to gain experience now so as to be of aid in later life.

purely local are by no means such, for the world is watching and is interested in how the U. S. will meet its problems. If we are to continue as a leader among nations we must exercise wise judgments.

Mr. Hough was very well received by the student body as was demonstrated by their applause in chapel and by their comments afterwards.
