

FRESHMAN CHAPEL COMMITTEE IS CONSCIENTIOUS AND BUSY TEAM

People here at Guilford, like people everywhere else, take a lot for granted. We know certain things will happen, and they always do. But why do these things happen? —because some group of hard-working individuals has been at work. Many of these people have given much of their time, talent, and effort without even being noticed or thanked.

Such people are those serving on the Freshman Chapel Committee, a group about which most of us know little, except that it exists. Dean Davis is chairman of this committee. Members are John Hewlett, Bob Windsor, Marylyn Nielander, Thomas Butt, and Marjorie Haworth. Faculty members are Dr. Lovejoy, Mrs. Feagons, and Mr. Deagon.

These people work together, gathering ideas from the student body as to the kind of programs the students would like or feel need of. They then work to arrange for these programs. There are two main considerations, not to mention money. Will this program appeal to the students? Is it in keeping with the policy of the school?

As one committee member said, "It is not easy to get programs that do not cost anything (the committee is given only a small allocation for movies, etc.). We have to beg people to speak, and it seems as though they all want to speak on the same day."

This member also pointed out that if a program did not turn out to be as good as the chapel committee had anticipated the blame was often given them. In these cases, the chapel committee is disappointed. Actually, their concern is as great, if not greater, than that of the students.

However, there have been few such programs this year. There have been several interesting speakers, programs taken charge of by the student organizations, films, and others.

Perhaps the most interesting program of the year was the Freshman Talent Show. This was the first time this had ever been attempted as a chapel program here at Guilford. Another first was the polling of the chapel to find out what kind of programs students liked best.

Yes, the Freshman Chapel Committee works hard getting ideas from the students and planning for over 60 programs a year. It is true that we may hardly notice that they are on the job, but it is quite certain that we would notice it if they were not.

Retreat Planned at Quaker Lake

A weekend of fun and fellowship is planned at Quaker Lake, April 26-28. This lake retreat area is being used for the North Carolina State Conference for Y.M.C.A.'s, Y.W.C.A.'s and S.C.A.'s.

The theme is "True Worship and the Academic Life," and the platform topic is "What is the relation of our worship to our academic life?" With such a pertinent topic as this and such leaders as Dr. Malcolm McAfee, Department of Sociology, Davidson College, and Dr. Donald J. Selby, Department of Religion, Catawba College, and such an atmosphere as there is at Quaker Lake, the weekend should be a big success. There will be songs, recreation, discussion groups, worship services, and a movie.

The retreat begins Friday at 4:00 p.m. and ends at 3:00 p.m. Sunday. Delegates from Guilford are being sent by the S.C.A.

N. C. Symphony to Present Program

Guilford College students may secure student membership for a nearby concert by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra. The 60-piece orchestra, directed by Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, will play an adult concert at Greensboro on Wednesday night, May 8, at 8:30 o'clock in Aycock Auditorium of Woman's College. Walter Carringer, tenor, of Murphy and New York, will be guest artist at the concert.

Harris, will be played by James Palmer, and his wife, Millie, by Eileen Murray. The school boy, John Taplow, who helps bring about the transformation, will be played by Craven Mackie. Frank Hunter, Millie Crocker-Harris' lover, will be portrayed by Jim Williams. John Hewlett will take the part of the headmaster, Dr. Frobisher. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, the couple that replace the Crocker-Harris's in the school, will be played by Phal Hodgkin and Pat Estes.

Those working backstage are Dale Embich, stage manager, Suzie Walter, assistant stage manager; Mary Ella Clark, costumes; Virginia Honea, make-up; John Hewlett, properties; Bob Winsor, lighting; and Lyn MacFarland, sets.

Admission for Guilford students is free; others may purchase tickets for 50¢ at the door.

The prospective juror asked the court to be excused. "I owe a man ten dollars," he explained, "and as he is leaving town today for some years, I want to catch him and pay him the money."

"You are excused," announced the judge in a very cold voice, "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like you."

Workshop on Human Relations Planned

A workshop on human relations when the pertinent question of school integration will be considered is to be held next weekend at Quaker Lake. This conference has been planned by faculty and students from five colleges in this area. Local campus sponsors are the Y.M.C.A.'s, Y.W.C.A.'s, and S.C.A.'s. The purposes of the workshop are:

1. To promote communication between students of different races.
2. Acquaint students with the problems in the area of race.
3. Develop plans by which students may deal constructively with questions involving race relations.

The workshop will begin on Friday evening, May 3, and will last until 12:30 p.m. Sunday, May 5.

A number of outstanding authorities in the field of race relations will be at the conference to serve as speakers and advisors.

Trustees Approve Plans

Guilford College and $111,000.00 to the Greensboro Division.

At a morning conference, which was open to alumni, representatives of the North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends, the Greensboro Advisory Board, Faculty and students, Dr. Milner pointed out that in the period from 1952 to 1957, new campus construction included Shore and English dormitories, a new dining room-kitchen unit, 28 homes for married students and faculty, and a Student Union building. He also listed other campus improvements, particularly new roads, walkways and parking areas, and renovation projects completed.

Among those appearing at the morning conference was William A. Wolff, Alumni President, who reported alumni organization plans as they related to the College's development program. Dr. F. R. Crownfield, Dr. E. Daryl Kent, Seth Hinshaw and W. Evan Cecil discussed Guilford's relationship with the North Carolina Yearly Meeting. Grady E. Love, C. C. Fordham, Jr., and Carl O. Jeffries presented a summary of progress at the Greensboro Division, of which Love is Director.

COLLEGE COSTS STILL RISING

In a recent survey, the U. S. Office of Education found that it costs an average of $1,000 a year for an undergraduate to attend a public college, whereas, in 1939, the average cost was $747. For a private college, the average today is $2,000, compared with $1,000 in 1939.

According to prediction, college costs in ten years, estimated to be six times as great, will take care of the present worry of being overcrowded.—The Atlanta Journal.

Yates Appointed

Senior Class, the Men's Athletic Association and the Student Affairs Board. Yates was included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Since his graduation he has taught at Guilford High School and at Thomasville High School and has been Personnel Clerk in the Adjutant General's Section of 7th Army Headquarters, United States Army, Stuttgart, Germany.

During the summers of 1952, 1953, and 1956 he was head counselor at Camp Hemlock, where he worked not only with the campers but also with the college men who were counselors.

During this academic year Bill has been studying at the University of North Carolina, where he has majored in Educational Administration and minored in Guidance. He has made a special study of Guilford College's curriculum in reference to modern educational philosophy and has investigated college student guidance, giving careful consideration to the type of problems upon which Guilford students need assistance. Because of his excellence in his academic work he has been elected to Phi Delta Kappa, professional organization for men in education.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Dr. David M. Hume, an outstanding man in his field, was speaker here at the meeting of the Central North Carolina Section meeting of the American Chemical Society held here on Tuesday, April 18, at 8:00 p.m. This April meeting is held annually on the Guilford College campus.

Dr. Hume, whose address dealt with analytical chemistry, was born in Canada in 1917. However, in 1927 his family moved to California. It was in the public schools of this state that he received his early education. He attended Los Angeles City College and the University of California where he received his B.A. in 1939 and his M.A. in 1940. From there he went to the University of Minnesota where he received his Ph.D. in 1943.

After receiving his Ph.D., Dr. Hume went to work on the Manhattan Atomic Project, working first at the University of Chicago and then at Oak Ridge. At Oak Ridge he was for a time group leader and finally chief of the analytical section.

After the war Dr. Hume became assistant professor of chemistry at the University of Kansas; here he was in charge of analytical courses. In 1947 Dr. Hume left the University of Kansas to take a position at M.I.T., where he is now Associate Professor of Chemistry.
