

Christmas Dance Is Planned By Monogram Club for Dec. 14

On December 14 the Monogram Club is sponsoring the annual semi-formal Christmas Dance. It will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the gymnasium. Admission is $2.00 per couple. This will be a no-flower dance.

The "Rhythm Vets" from A & T College in Greensboro will furnish music for the evening. This is the same band that played for the homecoming dance.

Decorations will follow a typical outdoor Christmas scene with trees lining the inside of the gym. Adding even more to the decorations will be silhouettes of all the members of the Monogram Club.

Highlights of the evening will come during the intermission entertainment. A queen of the dance, voted on secretly by the Monogram Club, will be presented. No one will know who the queen is until that moment of introduction, not even the queen herself. Also during intermission, the seniors in the Monogram Club will be honored in a special figure.

In summing up this dance, Snooky Bendito says, "It's the biggest and best dance of the year."

Dr. Milner, Hendricks Return From Trip

Dr. Milner and Mr. Charles Hendricks left Tuesday, November 12, for Boston, Massachusetts on a fifteen-day trip for the purpose of visiting several preparatory schools and alumni groups. While there they visited eight alumni groups, whose attendance varied from eight to thirty-five persons every meeting, and seventeen preparatory schools, interviewing forty to fifty students interested in attending college. Dr. Milner also had the pleasure to speak at two Friends Meetings. On their return trip, the two visited some former faculty members of Guilford College. Their journey came to an end on Wednesday, November 27.

Poems of Guilford Students Published

The National Poetry Association located in Los Angeles, California, has recently announced that two poems written by Guilford College students have been accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry. The two poetic pieces are "Angel," by Bill Baldwin, and "Sound," by Marilyn Maticic.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written and submitted by men and women students from America's colleges and universities in every section of the country. Selections are made from thousands of poems sent in.

Both Bill and Marilyn are sophomores and major in English. Bill is from Asheboro, N. C., and Marilyn's home is in Vienna, Virginia.

F.T.A. Combines Supper and Meeting

The Future Teachers of America held a meeting and supper Friday, the 29th. The speaker, Miss Heea Halder, from Calcutta, highlighted some of the aspects of education in India today. She emphasized that under India's present democratic system great strides have been made toward educating the public. Both boys and girls have an equal opportunity for education. The literacy rate has risen a great deal since India gained its independence in 1947, at which time the total literate population was less than one per cent. The rate of literacy is still low but improving yearly. One of the major difficulties encountered in the educational system is that India used 14 different languages and many dialects. An attempt is being made to standardize the language to Hindi, now the official language of India, in order to unify the means of education on a national basis. Miss Halder stressed that the rural areas where ninety per cent of the population are located have the poorest facilities for education and need much improvement.

Choir Will Present Handel's Messiah

The Guilford a Cappella Choir is to present Handel's Messiah on December 15, at 4:00 in the afternoon in the New Garden Meeting House. Guest soloists are to be Mrs. Grace Kilkelly, soprano; Mrs. Mary McIver, alto; Ray Young, tenor; and William Head, bass; all of whom are from Greensboro.

Six Guilfordians Are Attending The United Nations Seminar in New York

Six Guilford College Students have been accepted by the American Friends Service Committee to attend a United Nations Seminar in New York from December 5th to the 7th.

The six attending are Graham Allen, Jo Ann Hundley, Clara Montgomery, Lyndal McFarland, Gertrude Murrow and Bill Raiford. They left Wednesday afternoon to arrive in New York on Thursday for the first session at 4 p.m. They will return on Sunday.

The Seminar is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. It sponsors many such seminars each year. This particular Seminar will include mostly college students from the South-East.

Talking over plans for attending the UN Seminar are (l. to r.) Jo Ann Hundley, Clara Montgomery, Lyndal McFarland, Bill Raiford, Gertrude Murrow and Graham Allen.

The problem concerned and being studied is East-West Relations and Disarmament. One of the objectives for this seminar is to give the college student an opportunity to gain an insight into the problems confronting the world especially on the moral basis of the East-West conflict, and to present the Quaker point of view on the basic principles on which solutions are to be made.

The preliminary schedule for the Seminar on Thursday includes a tour of the United Nations, the presentation of the problem by Sydney Bailey, a member of the Quaker team at the United Nations.

On Friday, the agenda includes meeting with members of the UN Disarmament Commission, attendance at UN meetings, delegation visits with U. S. A., Poland, Japan, U. S. S. R., Canada, and India, discussion with George Mohlenhoff who was the American Friends Service Committee National College Program observer at the Youth Festival in Moscow in 1957.

On Saturday, Raymond Wilson will meet with the group. He is Executive Secretary of the Friends Committee on National Legislation and in 1956-57 was a Quaker International Affairs Representative in Japan. The session will close with discussion and arriving at some conclusion.

NEWS BRIEFS

Tonight the MSG is presenting a production called "Winter Wonderland." This talent show begins at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium. Admission will be $.35.

On December 10, the Divisions of Physical Therapy and Occupational Therapy will hold a joint Open House to demonstrate various procedures employed in the treatment of patients. Tours of the department will begin at 2:00 p.m. There will be an opportunity for students to talk with physical and occupational therapists.

Sunday night in the Student Union there will be a repeat showing of the Martin Luther films seen in this week's chapels.

Nine members of the Guilfordian staff are leaving early tomorrow morning to attend a Press Conference at Catawba College.

"Winter Wonderland" Begins Tonight At 8:00 P.M.

By GRAHAM ALLEN

He mounted the steps, opened the massive wooden door and stepped into the dimly lit lobby. People were milling about in the small area, taking off their coats and jabbering excitedly about the night's coming entertainment. The girl at the desk spoke to him and said, "Thirty-five cents, please." He dug into his pocket and pulled out a quarter and a dime, handed them to the girl and started up the stairs leading to the second floor. An old couple in front of him was moving slowly as elderly people do, and he listened as they talked.

"Isn't this production a fine thing for the Men's Student Government to present, John? All the proceeds will go to finance a men's student project."

"Yes, Martha."

He reached the first landing and quickly mounted the second flight of stairs. The usher handed him a program as he entered the auditorium. He found a seat near the front and settled back to wait for the curtain to open.

He glanced at his program. It read "Winter Wonderland," a production—Friday, December 6, at 8:00 p.m.

At the top of the second page was the title of the theme: "Winter Wonderland"—the hope for the coming of Santa Claus.

Below this he read: "As the hopeful elves who are anticipating the coming of Santa are: Sue Drake, Carol McBane, Lester Parker and Lee Andrews."

Three attractive girls giggled by. As they passed he heard one say:

"Ruth Rollins told me she would sing tonight."

"Yes, and that hilarious pair, Ray Albright and Janet Glover are going to do a humor bit by Dave Morrah."

"Speaking of humor, don't forget Craven Mackie and his act for tonight," the third one enjoined.

He unglued his eyes from the retreating posteriors and refocused on his program. After scanning the sheet, he could be heard mumbling in an unbelieving tone:

"Bob Marsh—do a serious black face routine? Must be a misprint!"

"Hm, a vocal by Caroline Primm and Tom Sisk. That should be good. I have always enjoyed Caroline's soft, throaty voice."

He folded his program, unbuttoned his ivy coat and stuffed the paper into his inside pocket. The mental image of one of the posters that he had seen about the campus flashed into his mind. "M. S. G. Sponsors a Program of Humor, Music, Song, and Dance." "Should be a fine program," he thought.

The house lights began to dim and the crowd ceased their jabbering. The curtain rippled and then squeaked open. The spots flashed on and a wondrous gasp from the audience as the dazzling scenery burst into view. The M. S. G.'s "Winter Wonderland" was on the boards.
