Guilfordian Staff Meeting Is Set For Monday Night

On Monday night, September 15, at 7:00, the first GUILFORDIAN meeting of the year will be held in the Quaker-Guilfordian office at the Student Union to organize a staff for the year.

Anyone interested in journalism or creative writing is welcome to attend. Reporters interested in news, sports, and feature writing are very

Recreation Area Ready For Use

Freshmen—be pleased, for you have come to Guilford just after it has added a new area to its recreational facilities.

An additional recreation area, just completed this summer, has been built adjacent to the tennis courts. It is lighted and its smooth finished concrete is expected to accommodate basketball, volleyball, or badminton games. Lines for shuffleboard have also been marked off. According to Mr. Morrah, director of public relations here at the college, the area will probably be used to a large extent for outside games and dancing.

The majority of recreational events planned for this week will take place there. Until this year there has been no area for such outside activities.

College Reception Will Be In Gym Friday Evening

The annual college reception for all new students will be held in the gymnasium Friday night at 7:30. Included in the receiving line will be all faculty members and members of the social committee.

At the reception there will be music for dancing until approximately 10:00 p.m. A band is to be obtained by the social committee.

Girls will be accompanied by their "big sisters." This affair is not formal. Cocktail dresses for the girls and suits and ties for the boys will be acceptable.

This is the first school sponsored event of the year.

Frosh Orientation Week Plans Involve Schedule Filled With Various Activities

With the registration of 183 freshmen, Orientation Week has begun with a full calendar of events lasting today through Thursday. During the summer months plans for this week have been developing under the student leadership of Graham Allen and Carol McBane, presidents of the MSG and WSG respectively.

A new approach to freshman orientation is student leaders. Each new student has been assigned to one of these leaders, whose job it is to acquaint the members of his group with life at Guilford. They will accompany their groups to the first meals and to several meetings and social functions. Also, they will be on hand to answer questions and to guide new students over the campus.

For the first few days of Orientation Week all meals will be served at Founders. Mary Hobbs girls will not set up their work schedules until the upperclassmen arrive.

Most convocations and tests will take place in the auditorium of Memorial Hall. This is the building overlooking the circle. A complete schedule of events can be found in the booklet entitled "The First 9 Days."

During the free time when nothing is scheduled on the program, students can find several recreational areas. These include the lake, tennis courts, ball fields, and new recreation area. The Student Union and several of the dorms boast the ownership of a Television set.

The above freshmen, chatting about their coming year at Guilford as they look through the 1958 edition of The Quaker, are, seated, Melinda Goble, Dwight Thomas, and standing, Tommy Kempt, Donald Lineberry, all of Ashboro, N. C. Dwight will serve as the Guilfordian photographer this year.

Magazine Young Writer's Contest Closes October 1

In the last issue of the '57-'58 GUILFORDIAN an article was printed which may interest several incoming students. That article is reprinted here.

The magazine, The New Republic, is extending an invitation for young writers, members of both the student body and the faculty, to submit essays in its present "Competition for Young Writers." One thousand dollars in awards for the best essays on the state of American fiction—considered in general terms or in terms of a single younger novelist, and for the best essays on any aspect of present-day television—viewed as a medium for enlightenment or entertainment will be given.

The awards will be distributed as ten awards of one hundred dollars each—five in each category. Any writer under twenty-seven years of age is eligible for competition. Essays should be fifteen hundred to three thousand words in length. The manuscripts will be judged by the editors of The New Republic, and should be submitted by October 1, 1958 to: Awards Dept., The New Republic, 1244 Nineteenth Street, NW., Washington, D. C.

Open House Set For 8:30 p.m. Tuesday

On Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m. members of the New Garden Friends Meeting will honor the freshmen with an Open House held in the basement of the meeting house.

All freshmen will be accompanied by their student leaders. Various members of the meeting will be there to welcome the guests.

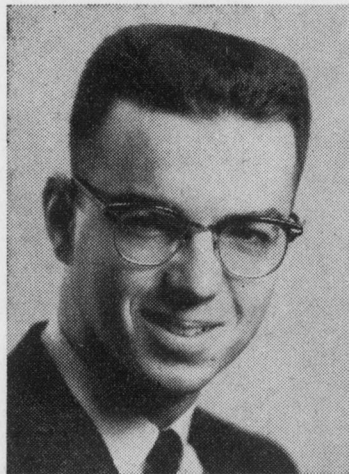

Temporary Leaders To Be Chosen Soon

Wednesday evening at 3:30 a campaign will begin for the election of temporary class leaders. These leaders include a class chairman, song leader, cheerleader, project chairman, and a committee of five.

The chairman's job will be to organize the class. All singing in freshman chapel will be the responsibility of the song leader, and the cheerleader will have the job of teaching the college cheers to the class and of building up interest for each ball game.

These temporary leaders will serve until the members of the class know each other well enough to make a wise selection of class officers. They will include a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and committee. An election for the officers will take place either the last of October or first of November.

Voting for freshmen leaders will be between 5:00 and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday evening and the winners will be announced that night.

Allen

McBane

Crofton

The three student leaders pictured above have been in charge of organizing Orientation Week. If any problem arises concerning this week, they will be the ones to help solve it. Left to right they are Graham Allen, president of the Men's Student Government; Carol McBane, president of the Women's Student Government; and Bill Crofton, president of the Student Affairs Committee.
