

NSCPA Will Meet Here Tomorrow

Mr. Morrah To Be Featured Speaker At Press Meeting

Featured speaker for tomorrow's press conference will be Mr. David Morrah, Guilford's own director of public relations. Mr. Morrah is noted for his humorous tales written in mock German dialect.

Mr. Morrah's writing career actually started during the time he attended North Carolina State College, where he was editor of the humor magazine, "The Wataugan." After graduating as an Architectural Engineer, Mr. Morrah's writing career ended for a while.

Previous to 1946 he had been drawing cartoons for Collier's and American Magazine, but after his discharge from the army as a captain, he started writing novelty humor stories for the Saturday Evening Post. In 1947 Mr. Morrah began to write books of his collected humor. He also writes a humor column for the Greensboro Daily News.

Between 1947 and 1955 while continuing his writing, he was vice-president and art director of Bradham & Co., a Greensboro Advertising Agency. This is Mr. Morrah's second year as Guilford's Public Relations director.

Mr. Kwok Visiting On Campus Today

David Kwok, the famous master of Chinese art and planning, is a visitor on the Guilford campus today.

Mr. Kwok's lecture, "An Introduction to Chinese Painting," will begin at 8:00 tonight in the College Union. Several of his original paintings will be on exhibition there.

Mr. Kwok, born at Peiping in 1919, came from an artist family in Shantung. He became interested in painting at an early age and was a pupil of the great teacher, Ohi Paiage, in the school of traditional Chinese painting.

After graduating from the National Institute of Fine Arts in Nanking, Mr. Kwok taught for three years; then for five years he was professor of Chinese painting at the Kiangsi Provincial Institute of Fine Arts. In the spring of 1954 the United States Government awarded David Kwok a scholarship for the study of Occidental art, first at Iowa State University and later at Columbia University.

Mr. Kwok spoke in chapel this morning.

The Christmas Dance Is Set For Next Saturday Night

The annual Christmas Dance will be held in the college gymnasium next Saturday, December 13, from 8:30 until 11:30 p.m. This dance, which is one of the biggest of the year, is sponsored by the Monogram Club. Harold Gale and his orchestra will provide music for dancing. The Monogram Club members, assisted by Sue Drake, are doing the decorations for the theme, which is "The Night Before Christmas."

The main attractions of the evening will be the crowning of the Christmas Queen, who is elected by the Monogram Club, and the presentation of the senior members and their dates.

A no-flower dance, the price of the tickets is $2.00. They may be purchased from any club member, and will also be on sale at the door the night of the dance.

The Monogram Club extends an invitation to all campus students and especially to the day students to come to the dance for an evening of entertainment.

String Quartet To Play In Chapel

Dr. Curt Victorius, Don Hansen, Jo Plum Hansen, and Sylvia Bodie will present a program of chamber music in chapels on December 11, 12. Don Hansen will play the first violin, Jo Plum Hansen will play the viola, Sylvia Bodie will play the second violin, and Dr. Victorius will play the cello.

They will present The Equestrian or Horseman Quartet by Joseph Haydn. This is one of the most famous string quartets. It suggests people riding horseback, and it is written in four movements: allegro, largo, minuet, and vivac. This is one of the last and one of the most mature of Haydn's eighty-three string quartets. The playing time for the program will be approximately twenty minutes.

SCA, WSG Planning Party for Children

To celebrate the Christmas season the SCA and the WSG have planned to go in together and sponsor a party for the underprivileged children of the Guilford Community. It is hoped that they can treat the children to supper, games, and presents, plus favors to remember the party by. Transportation will be provided to and from the college by the students and those who take part in the program will end the evening by going Christmas caroling.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the plans for the party can do so by contacting Jo Ann Hundley. A similar party was given to the children last year.

Guilfordian To Play Host For Press Conference

Guilford will act as host for eight other North State colleges, all members of the North State Conference Press Association, when they meet here tomorrow for their fall press conference. Guilford's representative to the conference will be Margaret Haworth, Lillian Burrow, Andrea Rogin, Bill Smith, Miles Frost, Sid Hart, Anne Taylor, and Carolyn Nimitz.

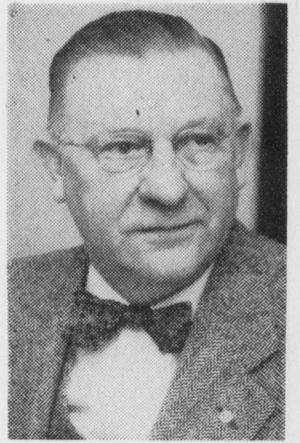

Registration will begin at 9:00 tomorrow morning, and Appalachian, Atlantic Christian, Catawba, East Carolina, Elon, Guilford, High Point, Lenoir Rhyne, and Western Carolina will all be represented.

Mr. David Morrah, director of Promotions here at Guilford and Greensboro Daily News writer and humorist, will be the featured speaker for the main session in the morning. He will give a critical analysis of a paper from each school. Immediately following the main session the assembly will divide up into discussion-workshop groups which will meet at the College Union and at the library. Mr. Miles Wolff, Mr. Lane Kerr, and Mr. Irwin Smallwood, from the Greensboro Daily News will speak to several of these discussion groups. These workshops will concern the problems of editors, business management, layout, advertising, news reporting, and editorial writing.

Lunch will be served in Founders dining hall preceding the business meeting at 1:30. There will be a brief social period in the College Union right before the press conference breaks up for the day.

A similar conference will be held at Guilford in the Spring. At this meeting newspapers will be judged and a prize given to the best.

Margaret Haworth, editor of THE GUILFORDIAN, will be co-ordinator of this year's conferences.
