Dr. Polhemus To Speak On Christmas Traditions Tonight

Nearly all the people in the Western Hemisphere have celebrated a holiday around the latter part of December even prior to our present Christmas. On December 18 for the Friday Night Lecture, Dr. Oscar Polhemus will elaborate on this topic in his talk on "Christmas Traditions and Customs."

Dr. Polhemus, professor of political science and history at Guilford, will discuss the various customs that come from different countries and also the Christian significance that developed from these. Some of the customs are well known ones, such as Santa Claus, Christmas cards, carols, seals, and nativity scenes. Others less familiar include Christmas foods, Christmas greens, and particular celebrations. There will also be certain interesting stories concerning the Christmas spirit.

Dr. Polhemus chose this subject for his lecture because of his long-time interest in Christmas traditions. He holds degrees from both Indiana University and Boston University and lived in New England a number of years before coming to Guilford College.

Seniors Are Requested To Pick Up Check Sheets In Office

Seniors receiving degrees or planning to receive degrees in June, 1960, are requested to pick up their check sheets and the spring schedule of classes at the Registrar's Office as soon as possible. These sheets have to be taken to the respective advisors and worked out in a final conference regarding the student's spring schedule of classes.

An alphabetical schedule has been posted on bulletin boards around the campus regarding the time for receiving these sheets from the office. Last Friday, December 11, A-G would supposedly have received theirs, Saturday, December 12, H-L, and Monday, December 14, A-L was again scheduled.

After Christmas vacation, the remainder of the schedule has been set up as follows: Monday, January 4, Mc-P, Tuesday, January 5, R-Z, and Wednesday, January 6, Mc-2 again. During these days, the office will be open from 9:00 A. M. through noon, and from 1:00 P. M. through 5:00 P. M.

Students will return one check sheet to the office of the registrar according to the directions which will be announced and posted at a later date. However, they are urged to see their advisors as soon as possible.

Annoyed customer: "I can't eat this oxtail soup. The tail is still wagging."

Waiter: "Of course, our tails come from contented oxen."

CHRISTMAS, 1959!

Christmas cheer illuminates the Guilford campus—Mary Hobbs Hall is decorated for the holiday

....NEWS BRIEFS

Christmas vacation begins after classes tomorrow. It will end Monday morning, January 4. That means that classes begin at 8:30 on that day.

In the Tuesday night following the end of the Christmas vacation, January 5, the basketball team will meet Pfeiffer College in a contest in the Quaker gymnasium.

The Junior Class has set a date for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance. It will be held on May 15, a Saturday night. The Juniors are planning a supper sometime in February as one of the money-raising projects for the event.

Don't forget that tomorrow, and the three days immediately following the end of Christmas vacation are non-cut days.

English comprehensive examinations for all transfer students and any students that are not taking English 11 at the present time will be given Monday, January 11 at 4:00 P. M. in King Hall, Room 212.

All seniors that are planning to graduate in June, 1960, should remember that their applications for degrees must be registered this semester.

The girl's dormitories are celebrating Christmas with annual Christmas parties again this year. Mary Hobbs Hall had their dinner last Friday night, December 11. Shore Hall had their party last night, and Founders Monday night.

"What would your father have to pay if he owed thirty-four dollars to the grocer, forty dollars rent, and fifteen dollars to the milkman?" asked the fifth grade teacher.

"Nothing—he'd move!" said Willie.

News Conference Held At Wilson

On December 4, 5, and 6, the annual fall meeting of the North State Press Conference Association met at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. Margaret Haworth, Carolyn Nimitz, and Danny Moore attended from Guilford. The meeting was held in a joint conference with the North Carolina Associated Press News Council, and several of the North Carolina dailies were represented.

The conference members were treated to a buffet supper in the faculty lounge of the administration building of the college following registration on Friday evening, and the first general session was held Saturday morning, when the meeting really got under way. After the discussion groups met, the business meeting was called, and then the conference members adjourned for lunch. There was a banquet Saturday night for the members attending both of the Council meetings.

The hosts for the entire weekend were the Wilson Daily Times and Atlantic Christian College.

The dancing teacher showed me something new today.

Is that right?
No, but it's lots of fun.

Primm Crowned Christmas Queen At Monogram Dance

Caroline Primm, escorted by Brodie Baker, was crowned Christmas Queen during the annual Christmas Dance festivities held in the gymnasium last Saturday night. Ed Bannigan, vice-president of the MSG, was acting master of ceremonies. Against the background of a gaily decorated Christmas tree and a large bell, the senior members of the Monogram Club and their dates were presented for recognition. With Harold Gale and his band playing "White Christmas," as a background, Jordan Washburn, president of last year's Monogram Club, and acting as Santa Claus, crowned Caroline Primm as Christmas Queen and presented her with a bouquet of red roses.

Caroline is a senior education major from Snow Camp, N. C., on the Student Affairs Board, vice-president of the Woman's Athletic Association, and is a member of the 1960 May Court.

The theme of the dance was "Christmas in the City." The decorations included silhouettes of the Monogram Club members, and the sky line of a large city.

APPENZELLER GIVEN CITIZENSHIP AWARD

Herb Appenzeller, head coach of the Quaker football squad, received the coveted Citizenship Award from the Guilford College Civitan Club on Friday night, December 4. The Award was presented at a banquet that was given by the club in honor of the 1959 Guilford football team.

The presentation was a surprise to the Guilford Coach, and it was the first award of this kind presented by the club since it was organized.

Gene Key, the Alumni Secretary here at the college, and a graduate of the class of '51, was emcee at the banquet. Don Baxter, a graduate of the class of '40, is president of the club, and Jack Tilley, a graduate of the class of '49, presented the award to Coach Appenzeller.

Johnny Meroney, co-captain of the 1959 Quakers spoke to the guests on behalf of the football team, and Carl Opauski, the other co-captain, presented the coaches with gifts from the team. Coach Maynard, who was unable to attend, was presented with a small dog by the two captains in upper-classman chapel the following Wednesday.

Dr. Milner, the President of the College, Mr. Parsons, the Business Manager, Dr. Ljung, the Dean of the College, and Dr. Kent, the Dean of Men, were present to represent the college.
