By HERMAN CLARK

Well, many days have gone by now since I have attempted to keep you informed on all the latest sports news. Since the lag off for semester exams, the local team has been on several road trips—all of which haven't proved to be very fruitful.

The Quaker squad has made a trip to the state of Virginia to play The Division of William and Mary in Norfolk, and the pre-exam game with this group showed up to be a very close contest. At this game, the team did an excellent job for the first three quarters and after that it looked like nothing they shot would go in. They still showed the fine Quaker spirit and fought until the end.

A few days after their return they traveled to Catawba to tangle with the Indians, who are really opening the eyes to some teams this year—they are beginning to be looked upon with more respect. They have pulled quite a few surprising upsets. Again our boys did their best, but as usual they had too much height for us and just overpowered us.

This past Saturday night they traveled to Wilson to play Atlantic Christian College, along with the cheerleaders, who spent the night there. The team again faced a much more experienced team; one who had many "tall folks" on it.

The Quakers are still being led by Don Lineberry with a 24-point average per game—also second in the North State Conference records. Along with Don there is Jon Burwell who is trying to keep his average high, and doing this especially well in the free-throw department. Harold Braxton, a freshman, is seeing a lot of action now and is doing a fine job of rebounding.

A newcomer to the squad after exams is Ray Sharpe, a guard and a fine ball handler. As a new Quaker basketball member is Joe Jeffries, a six-foot-five lad from Chicago, Illinois, who transferred from Frederick Junior College. He will be held out so that he will have two full seasons in which to play. He can be seen playing intramural ball now for Yankee Stadium. There was only one loss for the team at the end of the first semester and that was Bill Thrower. They will miss him very much, for Bill had height and a good eye for that basket.

With only one more game at home and only three more away, give the team all your support—every bit helps. The last home game is February 16, with Catawba—you all come ! !

Student - Faculty Basketball Game To Be Held Next Week

The Monogram Club is sponsoring a basketball game between the students and the faculty of the college next Friday night at eight o'clock in the Guilford gymnasium. Everyone is invited.

GUILFORD TO PRESENT UNIQUE PRODUCTION IN MARCH

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, March 10, 11, and 12, the Reveler's Club will join their forces together with the college music department and will present "Annie Get Your Gun." It will be the first musical production of its kind to be staged at Guilford College.

INTRAMURALS

By Dauso

Volleyball is out and basketball has taken full command of the situation. New North made a clean sweep of the tournament by defeating Yankee Stadium in the finals. Such outstanding play form Dick Cain, Jim Pendry, Jerry Davis, and Steve Helton made it a rough season for the competition. Stadium received some very fine play from Harold James and Brodie Baker while Archdale and Center Section could thank Dick Wiley, Carey Reece, and Bob Rosier (Archdale) plus Jim Chambers, Ken Hedrick, and Groome Fulton (Center) for their good fortunes. The teams finished in the tournament in the previous order and the regular season in this line: New North, Center, Archdale, and Yankee Stadium.

The volleyball nets are down and now all attentions are directed toward basketball. In the "A" league, Stadium, Center, English, New North and the Day Hoppers look like the teams to watch. However, teams like Archdale, Old North South, and the Day Rompers cannot be sold short. The competition is going to be very keen if the first few games are any indication of the season. The fight for those tournament berths will be something. As of the writing of this article Yankee Stadium and Center were the only two undefeated quints remaining and their clash being one of the last of the season, each team has a tough row to hoe. From here it looks this way; Stadium has the material, Center has the scorers, English has the balance, New North has the spirit, and the Day Hoppers have the brawn. It appears that no team will walk away with the top spot and least of all the tournament. This could well be the most competitive intramural basketball season we've had in quite a while.

The "B" league presents a little different picture with two teams standing quite a bit in the forefront. English with such greats as "Fall Down" Simpson, "Excitable" Durham, "Wrong Goal" Hupfer, and "Hooks" Opauski will provide thrills and spills for the junior league fans while on the other hand the Center 'Playbabies' featuring such greats as "Jumpin' Jim" Chambers, F. C. Warren, "French" Wagoner, and "Sweets" Burrows will provide ample competition. Other teams which bear watching include Old North South, Stadium, New North, Archdale, and Day Hops No. 3.

Let's all support our respective teams, whether playing or cheering, and try to be considerate of the referees.

P. S. Ping pong starts soon ! !

"What's that you have in your button-hole?"
 "Why, that's a chrysanthemum."
 "It looks like a rose to me."
 "Nope, you're wrong. It's a chrysanthemum."
 "Spell it."
 "K-r-i- . . . . by golly, that is a rose!"

QUAKERS LOSE THREE

WILLIAM AND MARY

The Quaker cagers suffered a loss at the hands of William and Mary College, of Norfolk, Virginia last week. The final score saw the Quakers defeated 101-70. Don Lineberry led the loser's attack with 26 points for the night.

CATAWBA

The Catawba Indians rolled up their fifth straight victory by downing the Quakers, 88-58 last week. Once again Don Lineberry was Guilford's high scorer with 19 points. Jon Burwell also hit the double figure column, contributing 16 points to the Quaker cause.

and to provide both fellowship and worship for students from the BSU's involved. More than 1500 Baptist students are enrolled at the institutions listed.

Miss Roverda Ellis, High Point College, is serving as reservations chairman for the group; she will accept reservations until February 15.

Albert Leath, Minister of Music and Education at Hilliard Memorial Church, High Point, will be the music director for the retreat. Harold Cole and Gloria H. Blanton, both of the Department of Student Work, Raleigh, will lead conferences on "The Art of Leadership" and "Leading Group Worship," respectively. Mr. Greene will lead two workshops on Baptist Student Union programming and he will preside at the Friday evening session for Pastor and Faculty Advisers of the campus groups.

Serving as advisers for the Guilford College Baptist Student work is Rev. Paul Riggs, Guilford College.

ACC

Last Saturday night, in a contest on the hardwood, Atlantic Christian College rolled up a score of 95-59 over the Guilford five. The game marked Guilford's eight straight loss. Don Lineberry and Jon Burwell each got 16 points for the losers.

Two struggling young artists were discussing their respective prospects.

"I'm not doing so well. I painted a picture for a woman but she didn't like it. She said it made her look just like a monkey."

"I hope you were diplomatic about it."

"Yes. I told her she should have thought of that before she had her picture painted."
