

LOCAL ART GALLERY TO OPEN

Design Associates Gallery, a new fine arts gallery, will be opened Feb. 24 at 411 Tate Street, Greensboro, by Artist Ann Weeks Bonitz and her husband, John Bonitz, Jr.

The gallery will feature various kinds of paintings, sculpture and crafts including pottery, weaving and jewelry.

Mrs. Bonitz was graduated from Woman's College in 1960 with a major in art. She is now a graduate assistant in the Woman's College Department of Art.

Her work is currently being exhibited in the Artists Gallery, Virginia Beach, Va., and the Artists Gallery, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Bonitz had a one-man show at Salem College during the month of December. She works with oils, water color, metal and tin-can relief sculpture.

John Bonitz, Jr., designer for the gallery interior, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He studied design at the Art Institute, Chicago, and water color at the American Academy, Chicago.

The formal opening of the gallery will be held Feb. 24. It will be an invitational show. The gallery will be open to the public Feb. 25 from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

12 Students Make Top Grades

With a whole semester's work behind them, twelve students can boast all "A" averages. These students are Brenda Alexander, Miriam Almaguer, James Childress, Daniel Jones, Clarence Lowdermilk, Edward Murrelle, Elwood Parker, Linda Sheppard, Penelope Smith, Steen Spove, Edwin Strother, and Brenda Yow.

There may be more all "A" grades when the grades from the students who have transferred from the Greensboro Division are turned into the registrar's office.

Another set of 12 people should also receive recognition. Each of them lacked one "A" on his grade. Those making all "A's" but one were Billie Adams, Jane Carroll, Lois Chase, Douglas Connor, Thomas Folwell, David Miller, Carolyn Nimitz, Richard Paul, Maurice Raiford, Bruce Stewart, Judith Vail and Phyllis Voss.

Fifty-nine students made all "A's and B's" and six made all "B's." Possibly one reason for this high percentage of excellent grades stems from the fact that there has been a record enrollment of 712 students during the past semester. Nevertheless, it cannot be denied—this has been a good semester for Guilford academically speaking.

Lynn Warren to Go On College Board

Guilford College will be represented this year on Mademoiselle's national College Board by Lyndal Warren. She is among the 842 students at 330 colleges who will report to Mademoiselle this year on college life and the college scene.

As a College Board member, each girl will complete an assignment that will help her explore her interests and abilities in writing, editing, fashion, advertising or art, in competition for the twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded by the magazine at the end of May.

Lynn is presently working as a reporter in the Women's Department of the Greensboro Daily News. She is president of the WSC here and has served on the WAA cabinet and the Quaker staff. Last year she was awarded the Student Achievement Alumni Award.

Student Legislature

Anyone interested in being Guilford College's representative to the Interim Council for the 1961-62 State Student Legislature of North Carolina should see Miles Frost. Guilford will have two representatives in this council.

N. C.'s 'Miss Sun Fun' To be Chosen Soon

The Furniture City Chapter of the American Business Club will hold its annual beauty pageant in High Point, April 7 and 8, 1961, to select Miss Sun Fun of North Carolina, 1961. She will represent North Carolina in the national pageant at Myrtle Beach June 8-10 where Miss Sun Fun USA will be selected.

Any single girl between the ages of 18 and 25 interested in participating is asked to contact Mr. Stewart Stone, Box 1, High Point, North Carolina. Attendance at a North Carolina college or university fulfills the residence requirement even if your home is not in North Carolina.

Snapshot Contest

Do you have any crazy snapshots of yourself and your Guilford friends? If you do, enter them in the picture contest sponsored by the Quaker. The ones selected will be placed in the annual. Main emphasis should be on people themselves—not events or activities.

The date for this contest is February 1st through the 12th. Snapshots may be given to the following students: Helen Brown, Jane Coltrane, Diana Coneybear, Sue Drake, Brenda Ferguson, Stan Heist, Lynn Hundley, Charlie Little, or Judy Stencil.

No negatives will be accepted—only glossy snapshots. If you want these pictures returned, be sure to put your name on the back.

Religious Emphasis Week Moves Into Fourth Day of Activities

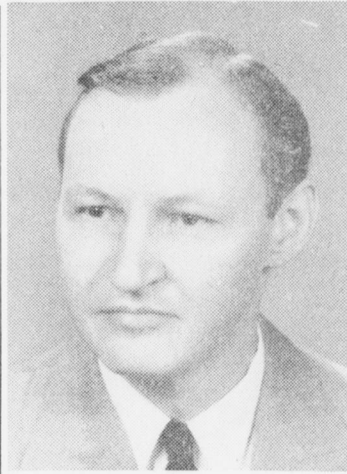

Dr. Putzel to Talk On Literature

"Religion in the Fine Arts" has been selected as the theme for the annual Religious Emphasis Week now in its fourth day of progress here. This theme develops a consideration of the relationship between religion and drama, painting, music, and literature.

Featured speaker on today's program is Dr. Rosamond Putzel, instructor in English at WCUNC. She will lead an informal discussion on "Religion and Literature" at 8 o'clock tonight in the College Union. She was also speaker for freshman chapel today.

Dr. Putzel has taught at Woman's College since 1956 with one year's leave of absence. She has her Ph.D. in English and is presently teaching freshman and sophomore courses.

Tomorrow's concluding program will highlight Dr. Carroll Feagins, associate professor of Philosophy here at Guilford. For upperclass chapel he will present a summary program on "Religion and Fine Arts." He will also conduct the regular Friday night lecture series.

Other speakers this week have included Herman D. Middleton, head and associate professor of drama at WCUNC, speaking on "Religion in the Theater;" David Ashburn, head of drama at Greensboro College; Mrs. Hermene Eichhorn, organist at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, speaking on "Religion in Music;" and Paul Bartlett, artist and teacher of painting, speaking on "Religious Expressions in Paintings."

"Religion is not a completely separate element in life," says the committee working on the Religious Emphasis Week program. "It pervades all of life's activities. The purpose of this week is to emphasize this point and to elucidate the spiritual content and expression of some of the fine arts."

The complete program is being sponsored by the campus Student Christian Association with co-operation from the Hille Society. Nancy Dawson is chairman of the committee. Committee heads for each day are Jimmy Childress, Bill Rhodes, Margaret Leith, Judi Tindall, Merle Mallard, Ann Shelton.

SHORT COURSE FOR PASTORS WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT WEEK

Guilford College will again host the Pastors' Short Course of the North Carolina Yearly Meeting when it meets here next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Featured speaker for Tuesday will be Colin Bell, who will deliver addresses at 9:30 and 11:15 a.m., and at 7:15 p.m. in freshman chapel. Also on the day's program is Richard Young who will speak at 2:00 p.m. on "Mechanics of Hospital Visitation," and at 4:00 p.m. on "Relationship Between Religion and Health."

Howard Coble will speak on the "Ministry of Music" Wednesday morning at 9:00 and 11:15. Colin Bell will speak again in chapel. A business meeting and panel discussion are planned for the afternoon.

Wednesday night at 7:15 Rabbi Fred Rypins will speak on "Beginnings of Church and Synagogue." All students are invited.

Thursday morning, Charles Hendricks will report on Quaker Lake. The course will be adjourned after lunch.

GUILFORD'S MISS and MR. FTA

Chosen by the local Future Teacher chapter, Lillian O'Briant and Charles Wayne Stout are this year's "Miss and Mr. Representative Future Teacher." They will represent Guilford at the State Education Association Convention.

Lillian O'Briant and Charles Wayne Stout have been selected as Guilford's Miss and Mr. Representative Future Teacher by the campus FTA group. They will represent Guilford College at the forthcoming North Carolina Education Association Convention in Asheville in March.

Lillian, who is president of the Guilford F.T.A., is a senior history major and has recently completed her practice teaching in the History Department at Greensboro Senior High School. She says that she is planning to teach history next year in Chapel Hill while her husband attends the University Law School.

Wayne, who is an English major and lives in English dorm, has also recently completed practice teaching which was done in the English Department at Page High School. Wayne's home is in Asheboro, but he has not yet decided where he wants to teach although he is considering some of the northern states.

Both delegates feel that "the trip should be very beneficial because the delegate learns methods of instruction," and he comes in contact with some of the educators who are now working in North Carolina.

Mrs. Milner Returns From Chicago Trip

Mrs. Ernestine Milner, professor of psychology here, returned recently from Chicago, Ill., where she was attending a meeting of Altrusa leaders to plan the Program Issue of The Altrusan. This magazine is the official publication of Altrusa International. The issue being prepared will carry details of the program for the two years of Mrs. Milner's term as president.

She is now president-elect of the organization and will assume the office of president at the Denver, Colorado, biennial international convention next July.

Moore Will Direct Pendle Hill Session

J. Floyd Moore, member of the religion department here, has been chosen to serve as director of the Pendle Hill summer session in 1961. This will be his third summer on the staff of the Quaker Graduate Center as lecturer on Quakerism, and his second as director.

The session lasts from July 2 to 22. "Pete," as he is commonly known around campus, was chosen to serve as vice-president of the North Carolina Teachers of Religion, at their annual session at Duke University this past September. The conference will hold its 1961 meeting on the Guilford campus next year, using the new facilities of the department of religion, which will be housed in the new building under construction.

'Scarecrow' Dates

The Revelers' Club will present its spring production, "The Scarecrow," March 10th and 11th in Memorial Hall at 8:00 p.m. Tickets will be available for guests: $1.00 for adults and $.50 for children and students. The play is the story of a scarecrow who turns into a human being to avenge his mother misused by a young gentleman in a late seventh century New England town.
