

Quaker Gridders Lose To Hampden-Sydney 13-7; Elon 28-7

by HANK SIEGEL

Perhaps one of the most interesting facets of the recent Hampden-Sydney game was the way in which the positions of last year's graduates were filled. Replacing Tommy Barnes, David Wells, Bobby O'Daniels, Ed Williams and Howard Braxton were indeed problems that needed to be solved quickly.

I spoke to Jimmy Williams, our Quarterback, about this and other questions. This is what he had to say.

"I think we've got a real good crop of Freshmen this year. They're really going to help us this year and in the future. . . . The ends, Buffalo and Griffith are coming along well. They were getting open in the Hampden-Sydney game a lot."

How about the new Center and kicker?

"This was the first time Doby's ever Centered and he's doing real well. He didn't snap one bad one in the Hampden-Sydney game. Jack Brinkley is doing a good job on the points after touchdown but needs some work on the field goals. I know that he'll get there soon and then he'll really be able to help us."

I noticed that you had some trouble passing against Hampden-Sydney. What's the story on that?

"Well, it was me. My pass protection was good. I had time to throw the ball and my men were getting loose. I just need a lot of work on the running pass. I can throw from a standing position all right but when I run and throw my accuracy and range are off. Remember that second down play late in the Hampden-Sydney game, when we were deep in their territory? I spotted Dixon loose in the end zone and threw from a running position on the option. I could see that ball just curve away from him. That's where I need the work."

You know that you're getting a reputation for the bootleg?

"I'm afraid of that. I think that pretty soon they're always going to have someone hitting me when they think I have a bootleg going."

It worked well until now.

"Yes. A bootleg's a play for a fool. The only reason it works is because the defense watches your eyes. If I look to Joye after faking to him and just stand there with the ball behind my back, most of the defense will go after Joye and leave me alone. But now I think that they'll always have someone hitting me—just in case. The bootleg's a good little trick. But when the defensive man's eyes start looking at you then you know that it's time to get out of there."

How did you find the heat in the Hampden-Sydney game?

"The heat got to us in the second half. The boys really felt it. I'm not making and excuses for losing. I know Hampden-Sydney felt it also."

A muddy, rain-swept Burlington High School Stadium was the scene, Saturday night, the 28th, of the latest chapter of the traditional Guilford College-Elon rivalry.

The Elon Christians, who eventually won by 28-7, were the first to score when, with a few seconds left in the first quarter, Sonny Pruette, Elon's Halfback, plunged to paydirt from the one yard line. Elon scored again with six and a half minutes to go in the half on a drive which began on the Elon twenty, and ended by Quarterback Eddie Wheless sneaking in from the one. A third Elon score came in the middle of the third quarter on Eddie Wheless' twenty-two-yard pass to Sonny Pruette.

The Quakers finally managed to score late in the third quarter when elusive Jimmy Williams ran home from the thirteen-yard line. Elon's Willie Tart added one more touchdown for good measure at the end of the fourth quarter to sew up the game for the Christians.

Elon gained 270 yards rushing and 43 yards in the air. Guilford had 106 yards on the ground and 50 yards passing. This was the first conference game of the season for both teams. Elon next plays Appalachian while Guilford plays host to Western Carolina.

Basketball

Coach Jerry Steele has always played Basketball with a winner. Everyone knows that he played with Wake Forest during some of their best seasons. Last year he came to Guilford and no longer did he play with a winner. He didn't like the new feeling. But unlike most others who might be placed in the same position, Coach Steele decided to do something about the situation. So, thanks to him we just may be on the verge of one of our best Basketball seasons ever.

There are twenty-six boys working with the team this fall. We've got a lot of good young talent plus all of the last season's experienced varsity. By just looking at the size of the boys it is clearly evident that we are going to give everyone a lot of trouble in the rebounding department. This of course means more shots for us and less for the opposition. The fact that we have had so little rebounding in the past has probably hurt us more than anything else.

Thus far all that Coach Steele has worked on has been conditioning. He says that the boys are working hard and although he is Guilford -vs- Hampden-Sydney.

The Play of the Week

The play of the week is a new series that the Guilfordian will continue throughout the 1963 Football season.

The following two plays were chosen for their importance in the Hampden-Sydney game.

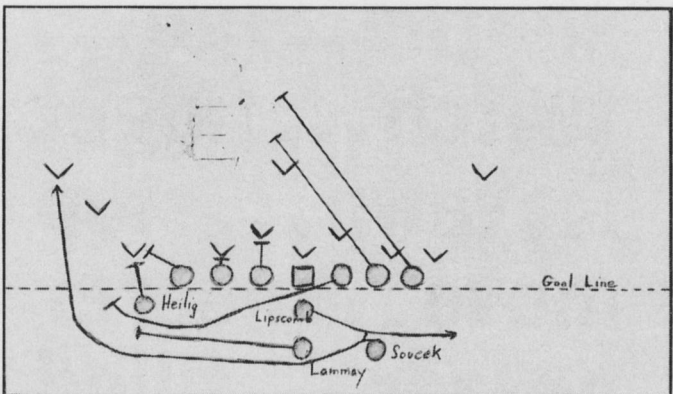

In the first play Guilford is shown with the ball. The formation that Guilford is working from is known as the "Shotgun." Five men (Buffaloe, Joye, Dixon, Gore, and Griffith) are potential receivers. The play was run six times during the game and resulted in an average gain of ten yards for every time that it was used. In this play Quarterback Jimmy Williams is faced with the option of throwing to Dixon or running, himself. On one occasion Jim ran up the unprotected middle for a sizeable gain.

The second diagram represents one of the game's two most crucial plays. The situation developed when Guilford's Billy Joye punted to the Hampden-Sydney one yard line. Hampden-Sydney took over with the forward line on the one and the backfield in the endzone it was evident that a safety was more than just a possibility. The Tigers then called what Football experts consider a foolish play for such a situation—an end sweep. It did. One of their men blocked it worked! It shouldn't have but out two of ours. A third Quaker tripped over another Guilford man and the Tigers' Halfback, Archie Soucek, picked up eight yards before he was finally brought down.

not completely satisfied he is fairly pleased with the way things are working out.

To help restock the Varsity at the end of this season the Coach is considering a Junior Varsity program similar to that of the Football team.

The Guilford College Quakers opened their 1963 Football campaign on a sad note by dropping a closely played contest to the Hampden-Sydney Tigers, 13-7, at Armfield Athletic Center on September 21.

The game, which was played in 80 degree heat, was scoreless until Hampden - Sydney Quarterback, White Lipscomb, scored from the Quaker two-yard line with three minutes to go in the half. The play climaxed a drive which began on the Hampden-Sydney 34-yard line.

Guilford quickly reciprocated when on the first play after the kickoff, Jimmy Williams, the Quaker Quarterback, picked up a loose ball (in college football the offense may run with a fumble) and scampered 63 yards to tie the score.

The final scoring occurred with eight minutes to go in the third quarter when Hampden - Sydney drove 80 yards for their second touchdown. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful.

The Quakers staged a final threat in the late stages of the last quarter when they reached the Tiger's 13-yard line. The game was soon resolved when Guilford failed to capitalize on the fourth and four situation.

Intramurals

This fall, intramural director John Lambeth has set forth a unique program designed to promote more individual participation in intramurals.

In addition to the usual Football and Horseshoes tournaments a fall Tennis singles and doubles tournament and Golf match of 54 holes will be introduced. Both the Tennis and Golf tournaments are "open." That is—any amount of entries may participate from any section.

In Football the four teams with the four highest records will compete in a single elimination tournament.

A special note of thanks to the English Dorm for their challenge letter. The Guilfordian hopes that other sections will now be inspired enough to knock the crown off the head of the high flying English "Black Hawk."
