

Broad Development Planned by Trustees

Rules Updated By Legislature

The Student Legislature this year has been very active in its functions of coordinating campus organizations, creating new legislation to keep up with the times, and representing the views and ideas of the student body to faculty and administration.

The Constitution Committee of the Legislature is in the process of revising the Student Government Constitution to include the Social Committee as a subsidiary organization of the Student Legislature. This act will provide for closer coordination between the two bodies and will bring the Social Committee into the actual Government organization. The Committee is also seeking to have on record the constitutions of all student organizations on campus.

The Legislature's Traffic Committee has been extremely effective this year. Early in the year it was armed with new up-to-date legislation which provided for a stricter enforcement of campus regulations. The Legislature has also recently completed a new set of regulations concerning motorcycles, which will be under the authority of the Traffic Committee.

Earlier in the year a joint meeting of the Legislature, the Men's Student Council and the Women's Student Council resolved numerous proposals which were brought before the Committee on Counseling. As a result of this meeting a few changes have been or will be put into effect, such as: a new and more convenient method of family-style serving to go into effect next semester; more lighting installed along the walks; and a drive to attempt to remedy the sloppy condition of the Soda Shop.

WSC Rules Pending

Lillian Davis, president of the Women's Student Legislature, has announced that the proposed rules changes discussed and voted upon by the women students, are presently in the hands of the Committee on Counseling.

These changes involve liberalization of campus regulations which will remove what has been said to be unnecessary restrictions now in effect against the women students. These changes involve ten of the fourteen articles now in the present constitution. Included in the proposals are the following:

Removal of the section of Article I which states that special permission must be granted from home for each instance in which a woman student will return from a ball game at an hour after 12 midnight.

Removal of the portion of Article III which states that "Freshmen do not leave campus alone or with a date. They must be accompanied by another freshman or upperclassman throughout the first semester."

Removal of a portion of section 2, Article V. This states that bermudas and slacks can be worn on hikes and picnics, only with the permission of the House President. Removal of the permission clause is suggested.

Removal of Article VI, section D. This states that "women should not

Dana Scholars Do Research

by ANDY HINES

For the past several years the Dana scholars have undertaken various study projects, and this year the scholars are concerned with procuring supplementary materials which will be used as teaching aids in connection with the World Culture Center.

Under the direction of Dean Atwell and Dean Mellaney, each scholar shall determine what he feels to be a major aspect or contribution in his chosen field of study, and then shall suggest major aspects or contributions. Supplementary materials include such things as motion picture films which could be scenic, dramatic, scientific, or interpretative. Also included would be filmstrips, slides, recordings and works of art.

The idea is to locate and procure those materials which will best portray, characterize, or facilitate the understanding of a particular individual, idea or concept, and use these supplementary materials as teaching aids.

But this is not restricted to the Dana scholars alone. Each scholar, I am sure, would welcome criticism and suggestions from faculty and students alike on any phase of this study. The World Culture Center is going to be a significant addition to the Guilford College scene and you will feel that you are more a part of it if you have, in some way, contributed to it.

World Culture Center To Be Hub Of Learning

C. Elmer Leak, distinguished citizen of Greensboro and alumnus of Guilford College, has given funds for construction of the World Culture Center in the proposed new classroom building at Guilford College. The World Culture Center will occupy the entire first floor of one wing of the building. Cost is estimated at $100,000.00. The purpose of the World Culture Center will be to interpret the cultural resource program at Guilford College as outlined in the publication, "An Introduction To The Cultural Resource Program At Guilford College." Of almost equal importance the World Culture Center will be used extensively in a program of continuing adult education designed to meet the needs of the Greensboro community.

The Guilford College core curriculum, consisting of sixty hours of tool and cultural resource courses and required of all students regardless of major, is designed to make the liberal arts graduate intelligently conversant with the culture of his civilization so that he can enter more fully into, and contribute more significantly to, his social responsibilities. Despite the fact that teachers are continually encouraged to emphasize the threads that have been woven together over the centuries to form our present civilization, there is a tendency to treat the various fields as isolated entities or separate compartments. It is believed that the body of knowledge contained in the core linger in cars with men when they return from riding together."

Amendment of Article VIII, paragraph 4, to read as follows: "Women students are allowed 11:00 p.m. permission the night preceding a vacation and 12:00 p.m. permission the night before classes resume. Students are expected to arrange transportation in order to be in the dormitory by closing time. In case of emergency causing delay past the closing hour, the dean of wom-

Endowment To Be Raised To $7,000,000 By 1972; Enrollment To Remain Same

Upon completion of the five construction projects involved in the Charles A. Dana Challenge Program—the new men's dormitory, the new women's dormitory, the new power plant, the addition to the dining hall and the addition to the library—the Guilford College Board of Trustees has adopted a broad development program looking toward its completion in 1972. This program will include development in the areas of endowment and enrollment.

It is desired to increase the permanent endowment of the college from $2,610,710 to a minimum of $7,000,000. This increase will make possible much of the proposed increase in strength of faculty and number of volumes in the library. It will also enable the college to continue and improve its established policy of assisting faculty members in the pursuit of advanced degrees.

Enrollment on the Guilford College campus will remain at the present level of 850 students so that the college policy of providing individual attention for each student can be maintained. It is intended that present dormitory accommodations will be fully used and that the resident student body will be maintained at 750 students; 100 day students will be accepted each year. Enrollment in the Greensboro Division will be allowed to increase as the demand increases to a maximum of 2,000, a number which can be accommodated adequately with present facilities.

The full-time teaching faculty at the college campus will be increased to 60, with an additional 12 faculty members who will divide their teaching responsibility with the Greensboro Division. The faculty salary range will be doubled during this decade of development.

Present space in the college library will make it possible to increase the number of books to 80,000 by the addition of 2,500 carefully selected volumes each year. Reading rooms and other library facilities are considered adequate for a student body of 850.

Present plans call for renovation of Memorial Hall so that offices for members of the college faculty will be available. The renovation will include remodeling of the entrance to the building and remodeling of the second floor.

Within the next several years the Administration-Classroom Building will be erected. This proposed structure will provide offices for the college administration and will include 10 general purpose classrooms. Also included will be such other teaching facilities as are

by HANK SIEGEL

MISENHEIMER, Dec. 8—Guilford College opened Carolinas Conference play Tuesday night with a thrilling 55-51 victory over the Falcons of Pfeiffer College.

After four straight wins over Dixie Conference teams Guilford passed what was regarded as its first major test of the season. In doing so the Quakers beat a team whose starting five featured four seniors and a junior.

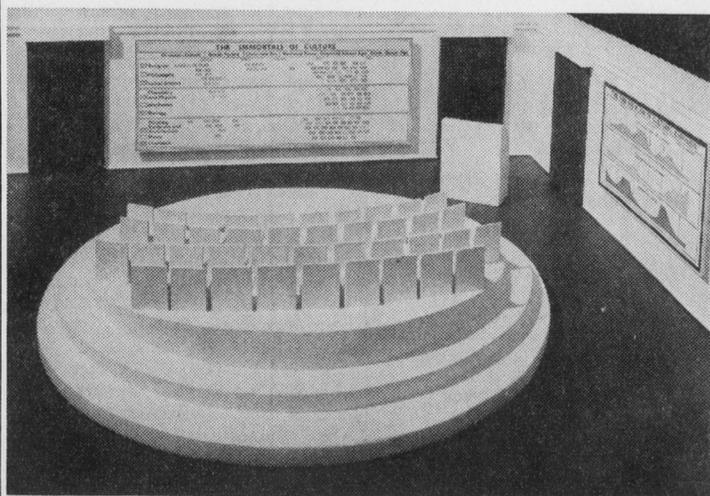

From the opening whistle to the closing buzzer both teams employed a tenacious pressing defense. As a result there was never more than a five-point difference in the teams' scores.

The first half was a see-saw battle as the lead switched hands seven times. With 3:35 left in the half and with Pfeiffer ahead 25-22, Guilford made a bid to take the lead by halftime.

John Brooks hit a shot from close range and Lloyd Turlington followed with a jump-shot. The Quakers now led 26-25 with 1:41 remaining. But it was all in vain as Pfeiffer's Danny Carver layed in John Miller's pass to give the Falcons a 27-26 halftime lead.

Guilford came out of the locker room and reclaimed the lead as Lloyd Turlington, followed by Chuck Scott, put in lay-ups, making the score 30-27. Guilford kept the lead until 14:41 to go. At that point big Bob Kauffman committed his fourth personal foul, and left the game. It seemed to take some-
