

New Budget Vetoed by Students

Nominations Are Due Today

The student body of Guilford will hold general spring elections on Wednesday, April 7. Numerous offices will be at stake, the most important of which will be the leadership of the Student Legislature, the Women's Student Council, and the Men's Student Council. The leaderships of the four classes and of the student publications, the Quaker and the Guilfordian will also be up for grabs.

Bill Pleasants, of the Elections Board, has requested that all nominations be submitted no later than today (March 19). He has also requested that petitions for those who are not nominated and wish to run for an office, should be received by Friday, April 2.

There will be two tickets seeking the leadership of the Student Legislature. Tom Taylor, presidential candidate; Libby Voss, vice-presidential candidate; Mary Penn Burton, candidate for secretary; and Bob Mackie, candidate for treasurer, will comprise one ticket.

The opposing ticket will be headed by presidential candidate Jimmy Williams; Gail Williams, vice president; Joy Purcelle, candidate for secretary; and David Rowe, candidate for treasurer.

Stewart to Make Good Will Tour

Guilford College Football Coach John Stewart has been selected by the Amateur Athletic Union and the State Department to visit six African nations this spring.

Stewart will be accompanied by another coach from the mid-west and eight members of the United States Olympic team. The group will visit Morocco, the United Arab Republic (Egypt), Kenya, Madagascar, Uganda and Tunisia in an effort to instruct Africans in methods in track and field, and to promote good will between these nations and the United States.

Coach Stewart will leave for New York on April 11 for a two-day indoctrination period. On April 13 the group will leave by plane for Morocco, spend approximately one week in each of the six countries and will return to Washington, D. C. on June 1 for a two-day debriefing session.

Stewart, who was chosen as Carolinas Conference Coach of the Year by his fellow coaches, welcomed the trip as both an opportunity and an honor. "This will be an opportunity that I may have never otherwise gotten and one that I will always remember. It is also a great honor for me to serve the United States as a good will ambassador."

Stewart, who has been given the title of "manager-coach," plans to make the most of the opportunity. "We'll be traveling almost twenty-five thousand miles in six weeks and they say I won't be in one place long enough to do my laundry. With all that sight-seeing I hope to take some movies and slides and maybe show them to our students."

Stewart reasoned that if he were to take such a trip as a vacation it would cost about ten thousand dollars but fortunately the sponsoring organizations are supplying his wardrobe (which will include the official United States Olympic team blazer), expenses and spending money.

"As it is," said Stewart, "the trip

Revelers Met The Challenge

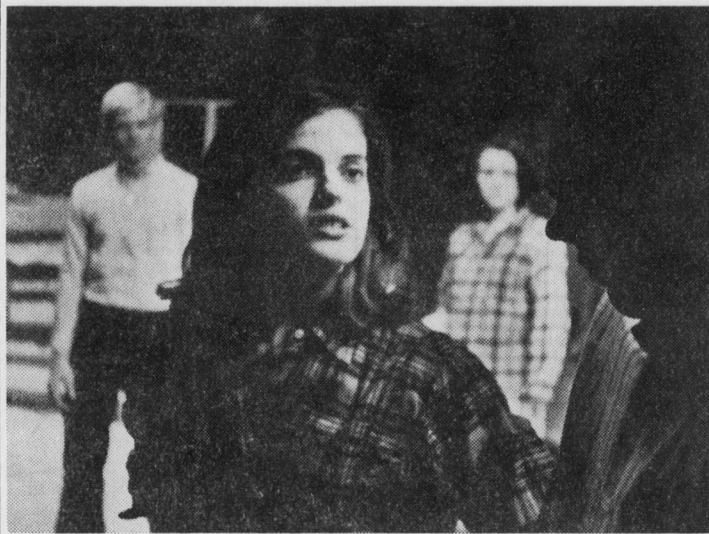

Local patrons of drama who were in attendance at the Guilford College Revelers' production of As You Desire Me in Dana Auditorium Friday and Saturday were perhaps unaware of several behind-the-scene factors in the production.

To begin with, the plays of Italian Luigi Pirandello (1867-1936), said to be the most outstanding playwright between the two world wars, are relatively obscure in these parts. As You Desire Me is the first known production.

The local collegiate drama group selected the play with the help of Mrs. Rosalie Ortolani Payne, a native Italian, and a language teacher at the college. Mrs. Payne helped with translation and retention of Italian and Pirandello "flavor."

Another problem was sets and decorations. The Revelers do not have a large budget, and the play, to be effective, needed an authentic scenario. With a few dollars, a lot of work, and some fine tools purchased by the Revelers a few years ago, the group came up with a completely new, authentic "Italian-flavored" set.

Also, physical characteristics

Ethelyn French Stars in "As You Desire Me"

were considered in casting, and Miss Ethelyn French, junior from Orlando, Fla., and Nestus Gurley, Jr., junior from Greensboro, were outstanding in the lead roles.

Why do the play, when another might have been less trouble? "We wanted to try an Italian play," said Donald Deagon, director of the Revelers. "Pirandello deals with people of the lower middle class.

He concerns himself with a number of philosophic ideas, and his characters are dealt with in a pessimistic fashion. There is confusion, which is passed on to the audience."

Deagon continued by saying that "the Revelers have produced some very good talent, including Miss French and Mr. Gurley. The play was a big challenge, and the Revelers met it well."

Becky Stout Will Visit India

Becky Stout, a senior at Guilford College, has been selected to spend the summer in India on the Leslie Watt Scholarship of the Experiment in International Living. One of the two highest awards given by this educational exchange organization whose headquarters are in Putney, Vermont, it covers the entire expenses of a two-month program which includes one month living with an Indian family.

Becky is the third Guilford College coed to take part in a program of this nature. Several years ago Leah Harris went to England and last year Gloria Phillips visited Switzerland. These two girls, however, were sponsored by local organizations. Becky's trip will be promoted by a national group.

When asked why she chose India, Becky replied that she had no specific reasons. "I love that part of the world and I don't really know why."

Becky claims that when she applied for the honor during the Thanksgiving vacation, frustration almost caused her to abandon the whole idea. "I had to fill out one of those long application blanks that can make you waste a whole vacation, and there were several times when I almost tore it up. But I'll never forget the night the man called up with the good news. I thought it was a joke. Now I'm so overwhelmed with the idea of going that I can't bring myself back down to earth."

Despite what she says, the petite redhead is quite down to earth. A very active and outstanding member of her class, Becky is presently secretary of the Student Legislature, secretary of the senior class, a member of the Honor Board, a Dana scholar, a member of the Freshman Advisory Council, a member of the May Court and was selected for "Who's Who."

Becky, an English major from Asheboro, N. C., will take part in a nine-day orientation period in Vermont. She will then leave for India, spending July and August at the homes of two Indian families, probably in the area of either New Delhi or Bombay.

While abroad Becky plans to become a "shutter-bug" and bring back to the United States as many color slides as possible. She hopes to do a good deal of traveling and might even meet Dr. and Mrs. Feagins, who will also visit India.

Becky intends to do quite a bit of reading about Indian culture before she departs. This, she feels, will greatly aid in her understanding of the Indian people.

"I'm not going to buy any additions to my wardrobe before I leave," noted Becky. "They recommend that we wear native clothes so that it will be easier for us to live as the natives do."

Becky Stout is one of more than 2,000 young men and women who will be visiting forty-six different countries on every continent this year under Experiment auspices. But her honor was a special one. The Leslie Watt Scholarship is a full scholarship and the only one that is offered to a girl.

For Becky Stout, who plans to become a college teacher, no honor could be better deserved.

Guilford Senior Becky Stout

Three-Fourths Affirmation Is Not Attained

The student body of Guilford College has voted down the 1965-66 budget which was recommended by the Student Legislature on Monday. This year's budget is based upon a $30 fee from 825 students.

In comparing the proposed budget to last year's budget, which totaled $23,970, we find that:

1. Of the 23 campus organizations that receive money from the Student Legislature, nine would have received increases, three would have received decreases and eleven would have received the same amount.

2. The Special Events fund would have received the largest increase. Last year they received $1,100. This year they would have received $1,500. The Social Committee would have also received a substantial increase from last year's $1,850 to $2,100. Other organizations slated for increases were the Women's Athletic Association, the Revelers' Club, the Student Christian Association, the Literary Society, the Cheerleaders, the band and orchestra and the day students.

In a percentage breakdown, 58% of the students voted "Yes"; 42% voted "No." The greatest fault found by the students appeared to be in the amount of money allotted to the choir.

The next vote on the budget will probably take place during general spring elections.

Tatum Will Discuss The Draft

Arlo Tatum, the executive secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors in Philadelphia, will visit the Guilford College campus on April 8. He will appear in the Student Union lounge at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the draft.

It is hoped that Mr. Tatum will be able to attend several classes and perhaps dine with interested students for the noon meal at the private dining room in Founders Hall.

The Central Committee is a non-denominational agency which provides counseling and legal aid to Conscientious Objectors.

Before becoming executive secretary Mr. Tatum was formerly general secretary of the War Resisters' International, at its headquarters at Enfield, England.

Four Students Are Honored

Four Guilford College students who live in foreign countries were recently honored by the Greensboro Rotary Club. On March 8, Patricio Antonio Massu, Bu Choon Chung, Hideo Shiozumi, and Yong Moon Lee were introduced to the club at the O. Henry Hotel. Massu, Shiozumi and Bu Choon Chung spoke before the group.

The occasion was prompted by a proclamation of Mayor David Schenck, making March 14-20 "World Understanding Week."

Patricio Massu lives in Santiago, Chile, Bu Choon Chung is from Seoul, Korea, Hideo Shiozumi hails from Tokyo, Japan, and Yong Moon Lee is also from Seoul.

(Continued on page 3, col. 4)