

Taylor Speaks At Bennett

Tom Taylor, President of the Guilford College Student Government, was one of three speakers at a convocation-forum on the Bennett College campus Wednesday morning, February 16. Sponsored by the Student Senate of Bennett, the panel discussed the topic of academic freedom as it related to the speakers' respective institutions.

The other two students were coeds who were exchange students on the Bennett campus from Wilamette College and DePauw University. Surprisingly enough, their major problems were more properly within the realm of social freedom, and the audience was extremely sensitive in comparing the rules which governed women students.

Taylor stressed the liberal traditions of the Society of Friends and the diverse backgrounds of faculty members as factors contributing to academic freedom at Guilford.

Signs Here in May

The Sign Committee of the Student Legislature is in the final stages of planning, and is awaiting the signal to identify all campus buildings. The plans at the present time are for all buildings to be identified by letters which will be mounted on the building itself.

The building will be labeled with a style of lettering known as architectural design. This style is used on many campuses and will be very suitable for use on our own campus.

All the buildings with the exception of the New Men's Dorm and English Hall will be identified from the front facade of the building. The committee felt that since English Hall and the New Men's Dorm do not face a major roadway, they should be identified from the front and the side as well.

The New Men's and New Women's Dorms will continue to maintain their present names until the school receives a donation of at least $250,000 from an individual. The new dorms will then bear that person's name.

The Andco Corporation of Greensboro, which specializes in custom work for building identification, has been contracted to erect the signs. Dwight Thomas, a Guilford graduate and a representative of Andco, is in the process of completing scale drawings of the lettering. These drawings will be submitted to the Board of Trustees and when approved, the lettering will be installed during the month of May.

Thanks to the contribution of Mrs. R. E. Williams of Goldsboro, the lettering of the college buildings will be an important improvement to the Guilford campus.

Guitar Society Meets

The North Carolina Society of the Classic Guitar will hold a meeting on March 6th, at 3:00 p.m. in Elliott Hall at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. There will be a musical program of both classical and flamenco guitar music by a group of members from Charlotte. Guilford College students who are interested in the guitar are urged to attend.

The organization, formed late last year to promote interest in the instrument throughout the state, is presenting a recital at the Greensboro Coliseum on March 14 by Jesus Silva, director of the Guitar School at the N. C. School of the Arts in Winston-Salem. Tickets will be $1.50.

Students Reminded of New Traffic Rules

The Traffic Committee of the Student Legislature would like to remind students that the following traffic rules were passed during the first semester. These, in addition to the traffic rules listed in the Pathfinder, are in effect for the second semester.

1. Cars are not to be parked on the grass next to the driveway or the parking lot of Dana Auditorium. Park only on the paved areas.

2. The parking spaces marked by white lines in front of the New Men's Dormitory, behind Cox Hall, English Hall, and next to the crosswalk behind Founders Hall are reserved for motorcycles only.

3. The four spaces marked by white lines in front of the apartments are reserved for the students living the four middle-front apartments.

4. Cars are not to be parked in the driveway of the old student union because this area is being used as a loading and unloading zone.

5. Day student parking is restricted to the old union parking lot, the lot at the gym, the lot behind Dana Auditorium, and the street in front of Dana.

6. Cars are not to be parked in the two spaces behind Founders Hall which are reserved for Mr. Lee and the nurse. These spaces are marked with the initials of the persons who are entitled to use them. Also, cars are not to be parked in the loading zone of the cafeteria which is adjacent to these spaces.

Cars illegally parked in the above areas will be ticketed.

Campus freshmen are not to maintain or operate a car while under the jurisdiction of the college. If a campus freshman feels that he must drive, permission may be obtained from the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.

The first violation by freshmen will result in a $15 fine which will be payable within two weeks. The second offense will result in a $5 fine and loss of privileges to operate or maintain a car on campus for the first semester of the following year.

Foreign Policy Symposium to Be Held in April; Morse, Iyalla Will Speak During the Session

SEN. WAYNE MORSE of Oregon

On April 18, 1966, the first Guilford College Symposium will convene for a three-day session that promises to be a landmark in the progress of this institution toward realizing its full potential.

The topic of the speakers participating in the symposium will be "The Foreign Policy of the United States in Southeast Asia." This will include our relations with China.

The concept for the symposium grew out of extended discussions that developed from our chapel debate on Viet Nam. A committee of fifteen members has been organized to steer the project. Jane Benbow is coordinator of the committee, Butch Benbow is directing the publicity, while money for the expenses involved is being raised by Alpha Phi Omega, the newly-organized chapter of the national service fraternity.

The committee in charge of the symposium has invited speakers to represent the spectrum of views on the subject. Of special emphasis, of course, will be our policy in the Viet Nam situation. It is not definite yet who the speaker in defense of the administration's policy will be, but it may be either Dean Rusk or Maxwell Taylor, although it may well be neither. Representing the neutral countries' view will be Nigeria's deputy permanent representative to the United Nations, J. T. F. Iyalla.

Representing those who oppose the policy of the administration will be the colorful and very liberal senator from Oregon, Wayne Morse. Fiercely independent in his state record, Morse has been consistently opposed to our approach to the problem in Viet Nam. He stresses the fact that we are breaking the Geneva Agreement, and maintains that by our actions we are dealing a fatal blow to any sort of strong international law. He is expected to speak in Dana Auditorium on Monday, April 18, at 8:00 p.m.

The committee had originally planned for a top-level debate between the participants, but the participants have since declined to do so.

According to a recent poll taken by the Guilfordian, Morse is going to be in disagreement with the majority of Guilford students. Sixty-five percent of the students here indicated that they agree with and support the administration's policies in Viet Nam. The faculty, perhaps more steeped in Quaker tradition, is more in agreement with Morse, although only forty-four percent of that group supports our current policy.

Finally, as an institution founded by the Society of Friends, the implications of a discussion concerning war vs. pacifism offers adequate assurance that the symposium will be stimulating and enlightening.

Mathis Announces New Library Hours

Treva W. Mathis, head librarian of Guilford College, announced today that the College Library will remain open on Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. and on Sundays from 2:00 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

The additional hours have been made possible because of the help of two faculty wives, Mrs. Oliver Ingraham and Mrs. Leon Lee, who will work on alternating Saturday afternoons, and Mrs. Jessie Buie, head resident in Shore Hall, and a library assistant, who volunteered to work every Sunday evening.

The library will also remain open on Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Trivia - A New Campus Game

Don't be taken by shock if, one day in the near future, you happen to be in the midst of a campus stroll and you hear one student ask another: "In the comic strip Superman, what was the name of the editor of the Daily Planet?"

Well, have no fear! It's a new pop-culture game called Trivia and it is currently the rage among college students throughout the land.

The object of the game is for one student to try and stump another by asking him questions pertaining to comic books, television programs, movies or anything else that was popular when they were children.

The new game, which was supposedly begun at Columbia University, is an outgrowth of the recent pop-culture fad which has also given birth to the Batman television show.

The reason for the current popularity of pop-culture can be traced to a person's desire to reminisce. In this sense, the game of Trivia acts as a common denominator. It helps participants to recall the once-popular entities of their youth, and the associative experiences that accompanied such items as baseball cards, television programs, and hit records. The mere mention of Clark Kent, Monopoly, Milton Berle, Davy Crockett and Edward R. Murrow are enough to bring twinges of nostalgia to even the most serious of students.

On almost any night these days, students from Smith to Stanford can be found asking each other such teasers as the original name of the Ed Sullivan Show (The Toast of the Town) or the name of that misguided soul in Sergeant Bilko's platoon (Doberman).

In one recent incident on the Guilford College campus, two boys in the New Men's Dorm challenged some girls in Shore Dorm to try and stump them. With Coca-Colas as the stakes, the girls wrote out five of the most impossible questions. It is doubtful that the boys will ever find out the name of Shirley Temple's butler or the name of the boss on "Dear Phoebe." Anyway, there is a greater likelihood that the girls will collect their cokes.

What are Trivia questions really like? Here are ten that might be batted around in the best of circles:

1. What was Kate Smith's theme song?
2. What two weekly shows did Ed Murrow have on CBS?
3. Who played Maxie the Taxi?
4. What were the names of Superman's parents?
5. What four comedians starred on the Steve Allen Show?
6. Who sponsored the Milton Berle Show?
7. What NBC newscaster began his show, "Ladies and gentlemen and good evening to you?"
8. Who was Flash Gordon's enemy?

Students Send Budget Back to S.A.B.

The budget that the Student Affairs Board presented to the students for preliminary voting on February 25, has been sent back to the S.A.B. with recommended changes. Twenty per cent of the students objected to the amounts allotted to the Revelers Club, $1500; the Biophile Club, $440; and the Guilfordian, $2120. In addition, ten per cent of the students were not in favor of the $150 allotted to the International Relations Club.

Changes in the budget have thus been made and the funds of the following organizations will be decreased: The Revelers, —$200; the International Relations Club, —$50; the Biophile Club, —$40; and the Band and Orchestra, —$100.

The following organizations will receive additions to their allotments: the Social Committee, from $3000 to $3300; the Junior Class, from $325 to $350; the Cheerleaders, from $475 to $520; and the Student Legislature, from $400 to $420.

The First Signs of Spring
