Disorder Plagues Retreat

According to observers, several students at the recent leadership retreat became intoxicated and created a disturbance.

The disturbance, which allegedly took place on Saturday night, centered around a dance sponsored by a high school group at the retreat site near Reidsville.

The climax of the disturbance at the dance occurred when a Guilford student grabbed the microphone from the performing dance group and began shouting political slogans into it.

Other incidents at the retreat that night included the harassment of a female high school student by a member of the Guilford group.

In addition it was reported that vomiting outside of the dance by an intoxicated Guilford female created some disorder.

Drinking by members of the Guilford group began in individual cabins early in the evening. However, while most of the Guilford group reportedly drank, only a few became disorderly.

NOV. SEMINAR TO SEE U. N.

The first 1969-70 off-campus seminar will be held in New York City November 22-29. The subject of study is the United Nations. There will be briefings, visits to the General Assembly, Council and Committee meetings and lectures by national representatives on topics of current interest. Students will have free time in the evenings for shows and concerts.

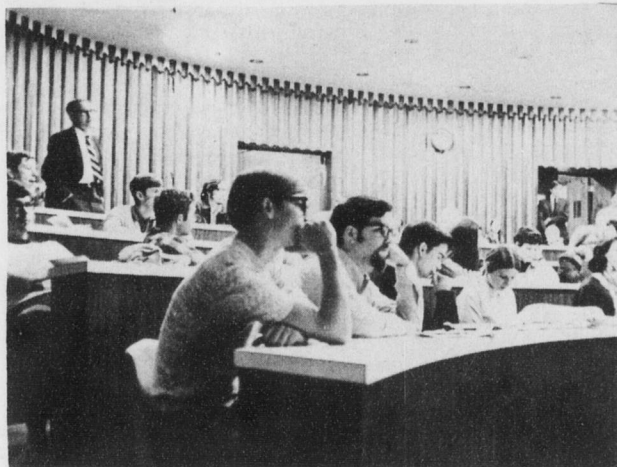

The program, which gives one hour of college credit, is planned by students. Cost is minimal.

Leaders Interact At Fall Retreat

Social interaction was the keynote last weekend as the Executive Councils of Student Government and the College Union held their Fall Leadership Retreat. The retreat at Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Camp in Reidsville provided training in leadership and unique experiences in group living.

Saturday afternoon featured a "sensitivity-type" session in which retreat participants communicated on both verbally and non-verbally. The members also had a lesson in group dynamics. While one group carried on a discussion, others observed the roles of each person in the discussion consulting a check-list of common

Req. Convo Threat Abolished

"Required convocation has had its day at Guilford"

Required convocations were abolished at the Tuesday night meeting of the Student Legislature by an overwhelming majority.

A bill, establishing a limited number of required convocations, was passed at the last meeting of last year's legislature.

Legislature members continued to support their actions in the fact of substantial student opposition. A motion to abolish required convocations was defeated by a vote of 32-5 at the September 23 meeting.

Tuesday night there was a continued discussion over the penalty for over-cutting convocations, which originally had been suspension. Dr. William Lanier, Dean of Students and Legislature advisor, pointed out the confusion and failure of required convocations in the past, and the impossibility of enforcing them, saying "Required convocation has had its day at Guilford."

The successful motion to abolish the convocation requirement was immediately made.

SIGN-OUT PROCEDURE

The legislature passed a resolution modifying women's sign-out procedure. Under the modified system, women will seal their sign-out cards in envelopes to be opened by the house resident in case of emergency. This procedure will keep sign-out information from public scrutiny.

Also passed was a resolution calling for the establishment of a "public information" committee. This committee will facilitate the dissemination of legislature information.

PROJECT ARTS APPROVED

The legislature approved the newly organized "Project Arts" as a student organization. Project Arts is an intercampus organization of 5 Greensboro colleges. Its purpose is to expose the arts more completely to citizens of the community especially the underprivileged.

The following students were elected by the Legislature to serve on student-faculty committees: Teacher Education, Lloyd Spruill and Paige Via; Admissions, Jane Forbes; Library, Evan Davis; Foreign Studies, Vicki Wyszinski and Simon Suarez; Academic Retentions, Tim Collins and Beth Igon; Dana Scholarship, Rick McClellan and Tim Collins; Athletic, Susan Ratteree and Carl Southerland; Foreign Students, Beverly Briggs and Ashraf Faruqi.

Group Plans Moratorium At Guilford

Guilford's Vietnam Moratorium Committee, composed of 20 students, is part of a series of national anti-war activities. The group whose theme is "Bring the war home," is planning the activities for October 15 in an effort to stimulate interest on the campus.

The faculty is being asked to lead discussions on Vietnam during regularly scheduled morning classes. At noon there will be a peace vigil in downtown Greensboro. Other activities on the Guilford campus include a speak-out in front of Founders Hall and a Guerilla Theater presentation. During the day, there will be workshops in Greensboro on draft counseling. Wednesday night Guilford students will unite with the students from other campuses in a candle light peace march through Greensboro.

Any persons interested in helping the local committee with its activities are asked to contact Pat Shope or Sue Singletary in Hobbs Hall.

BURRIS, GRECO OCT. ART STARS

The Guilford College Arts Series will present soprano Marilyn Burris on October 7.

Mrs. Burris won the Young Artists Award in Charleston, S. C. in 1959. In 1967 she was named "Singer of the Year" by the National Association of Teachers of Singing. She has sung with the Charleston Symphony Orchestra, the Manhattan Orchestra and the University of North Carolina Symphony Orchestra.

A graduate of Meredith College, she received her Master of Music in voice degree from the Manhattan School of Music.

Mrs. Burris teaches in the Guilford College music department. She is married to Dr.

William C. Burris, academic dean at the college.

JOSE GRECO

Jose Greco, Spanish dancer, will appear here October 10. He too is sponsored by the Guilford College Art Series.

Greco was born of Spanish-Italian parentage in a village in the Abruzzi mountains of Italy. As a small child he displayed a great interest in Spanish culture, especially music and dancing.

He has performed in movies, including Michael Todd's production of "Around the World in 80 Days". He can also be seen in "Ship of Fools."

JOSE GRECO TO APPEAR OCTOBER 10

Students who turned in books for the APO book sale are requested to pick up their money and unsold books at the Student Union building between 1 and 4 p.m. on Monday, October 6. Unclaimed books will be sold to a local book distributor and the money given to the Tri-County Easter Seal Society.

Union Events

Events planned by the College Union for the week of October 3 through October 10 include a history lecture, a movie, and three musicians.

Dr. Lee Kennett from the University of Georgia will deliver the annual Newlin History Lecture tonight, October 3, at 8 p.m. in the Moon Room, and David Sheppard from UNC-CH will perform in the HUT tonight at 8 p.m.

Saturday, October 4, David Sheppard will turn to the HUT at 8 p.m. Sports events for Saturday include a football game with Gardner-Webb and a home soccer game with St. Andrews at 2 p.m.

Tuesday, the Art Series will present Marilyn Burris, Soprano, and Friday, October 10, Jose Greco, in Dana Auditorium. Both of these Art Series programs begin at 8:00.
