

NAIA ALL-Pro Team

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 14.—The Oakland Raiders and the World Champion Kansas City Chiefs, placed the most men on the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) All-Pro football team. The 24-man team, as selected by the NAIA, represented the outstanding performers of the 203 former NAIA football players who played in the NFL and AFL during the 1969 season.

The Oakland Raiders placed four men on the NAIA team: split end Warren Wells; offensive guard Eugene Upshaw; cornerback Willie Brown, and punter Mike Eischeid. The Kansas City Chiefs had fullback Robert Holmes; defensive tackle Buck Buchanan, and cornerback James Marsalis. Oakland and Kansas City, who had the best records in the AFL this year, currently have 13 and 12 former NAIA stars respectively on their 40-man rosters, to pace the Pro Teams in NAIA players.

In the NFL the St. Louis Cardinals, Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams each had two players. The two pro-football leagues each placed 12 players on the 24-man team.

To no-one's surprise Grambling (La.) College led the NAIA's 290 football playing schools with four former Tiger stars on the NAIA All-Pro team. Southern (La.) University had three selections. Other schools with more than one former player were New Mexico Highlands, Texas A&I and Jackson State (Miss.)—each with two.

Elon And Lenoir Rhyne Most Accurate

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. --- Elon and Lenoir Rhyne have taken over as the most accurate teams from the field and from the free throw line in the Carolinas Conference.

Elon, one of three teams over the 50 per cent mark, leads the nine-team league in field goal marksmanship. The Fighting Christians have made 335 of 636 attempts for 53 per cent. Atlantic Christian is second best in this category with 50.4 per cent, and Guilford is third best with 50.2 per cent.

Lenoir Rhyne has taken the lead from High Point in free throw accuracy. Lenoir Rhyne has made 178 of 234 attempts for 76.1 per cent. High Point's average slipped from 75.9 to 74.3.

Guilford and Atlantic Christian are battling for the lead in scoring. Atlantic Christian leads with a production of 87.7 points a game. Guilford is averaging 87.0.

The two South Carolina schools in the conference are in a virtual tie for the lead on defense. Newberry is yielding 72.9 points a game, and Presbyterian is giving up 73.0. Atlantic Christian brings up the rear in this category, allowing 100.3 points an outing.

Guilford, which leads the conference standings, also has the widest average margin of victory. The Quakers have beaten their opponents by 11.8 points a game. Newberry is second with a victory margin of 11.4 points.

BYU Recruits Black Athletes

Brigham Young University is making a renewed effort to recruit black athletes as a result of protests directed against the Mormon Church-operated school, according to Milton F. Hartvigsen, dean of BYU's college of physical education.

Calling the move "a natural follow-through to the circumstances of the times," Hartvigsen stressed, as have other BYU officials, that Negroes have always been welcome at the school, and the recruiting drive is an effort to make that policy more well known.

Few Blacks In Area

Hartvigsen said that BYU officials had not in the past extensively attempted to recruit Negroes because they had indicated an unwillingness to attend. He added that the officials had been careful to inform Negroes of the limited social prospects because of the scarcity of blacks in and around Provo.

The new recruiting drive is to determine if there has been a "change of heart" in the black community about attending BYU, Hartvigsen stated. He added that the increasing number of demonstrations against the school might indicate a new "desire" among blacks to attend.
