

Pre-Registration
This Week

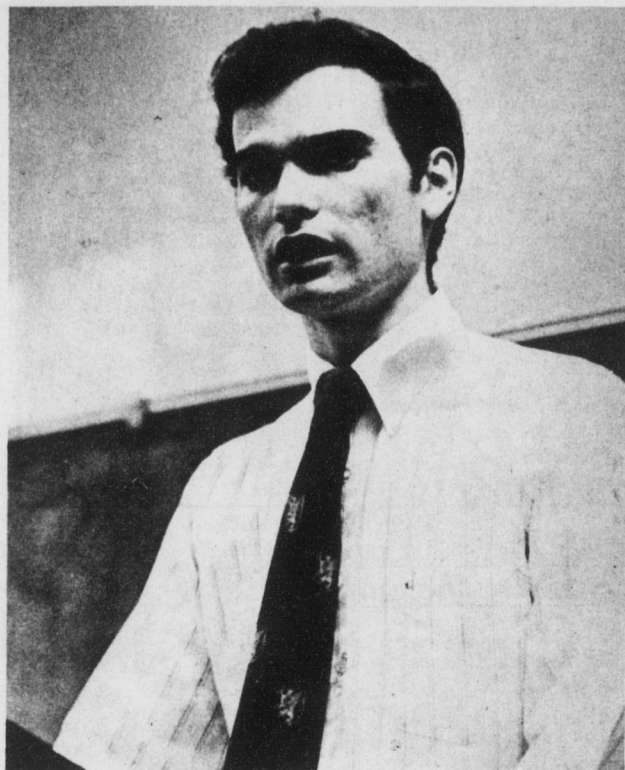

The Guilfordian

Music Festival
Coming!
May 9

VOL. LIV

MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1970

NO. 26

—Photo by Willson

Joel New, 1970-71 Guilford Student Legislature president, presides over legislature for the first time.

Leg.: Old Issues New President

The Student Legislature met Monday April 20, 1970 and installed the new executive council, discussed the alcohol question and continued the controversy over THE GUILFORDIAN.

Dan Hulbert installed the newly elected executive council and the new president, Joel New presided over the remainder of the meeting.

The president announced that applications and recommendations for Dana Scholarships must be filed by 12 noon on Tuesday May 5.

Guilfordian

President New presented a report of the meeting of legislature officers, the Publications Board and the editors of the GUILFORDIAN regarding legislature decision to suspend GUILFORDIAN funds.

According to New, the consensus of the meeting was that both legislature and the GUILFORDIAN staff had made mistakes pertaining to issue 23 of the GUILFORDIAN. He said that legislature had used the wrong methods of censuring the GUILFORDIAN'S actions when they cut off funds for this year.

The legislature cannot cut the funds for this year without obligating itself to fulfill the advertising contracts held by the GUILFORDIAN.

Alcohol Resolution

It was brought to the attention of legislature that the alcohol question had not been placed on the agenda for the April Board of Trustees meeting. Carl Southerland urged that a resolution be sent to Dr. Hobbs to request that the alcohol issue be placed on the agenda for the April 24th meeting.

After discussion legislature passed a resolution presented by Larry Elworth.

Legislature resolved: "That the Guilford College Student Government strongly recommends that the question of alcoholic beverages on campus be discussed, considered and acted upon at the April, 1970 meeting of the Board of Trustees of Guilford College."

Since the legislature meeting, the question of alcohol proposal has been placed on the agenda.

Student Senate

Larry Elworth moved that the changes incorporated in his senate proposal be seriously considered by the new executive board.

Joel New assured Larry Elworth that the new executive council would consider any suggestions for improving the effectiveness of student legislature.

Board Tables Open Hours

Drink Policy Passed

The Board of Trustees voted Saturday to approve a testimony of Quaker policy prepared by Fred Parkhurst and Beth Keiser of the SAC which neither approves nor prohibits the use of alcoholic beverages in dormitories.

The statement warned students that "any violation of North Carolina law relating to the possession and sale of alcoholic beverages . . . shall be subject to strong college discipline."

The board also warned against "any disorderly misconduct or interference with the rights of others, such as to study, any offensive public display, or anti-social behavior" resulting from the use of alcohol.

The statement quotes the North Carolina "Book of Discipline" on the Quaker attitude toward drinking: "Friends maintain a strong testimony against the use of intoxicating liquors." The discipline also says that Friends should be "earnest and energetic in their opposition" to the liquor traffic.

In stating that the board would no longer prohibit drinking in dorms, the board statement announced, "We do not seek to impose this testimony as a legal matter but rather request other Quakers and non-Quakers be especially sensitive to this testimony in their conduct while in residence at this college."

Unit of Living

The unit of living proposal also was approved on the condition that, in a referendum, two-thirds of the resident students approve the proposal.

If the students vote to institute the proposal, each dormitory will be allowed to adopt its own house ruled rules subject to the approval of the SAC and the Administrative Council.

Two trustees, Byron A. Haworth of High Point and J. Paul Reynolds of UNC-Wilmington, were added to the Administrative Council and will be involved in approving the units of living constitutions.

Women's Hours

A proposal establishing a system of self-regulating hours for resident women students was discussed and tabled until the July board meeting in order to allow the board time to gather more information. Prior to that meeting, the board hopes to have surveyed parents concerning the proposal.

The proposal that was sent to the Board of Trustees by the Administrative Council recommended the student rotation system of self-regulating hours. The Board discussed the idea of permitting self-regulating hours only for those women who could obtain parental permission.

The board also announced that they would meet in the near future with WSC in order to discuss the proposal.

Ebel Chosen New Editor

In an April 21 meeting of the Publications Board, Jeanette Ebel was appointed editor of the GUILFORDIAN and James G. Willson was appointed editor of the QUAKER.

At that meeting, an anonymous member of the Publications Board presented the incoming and outgoing editors of the GUILFORDIAN with checks for one hundred dollars.

Accompanying the checks was the following statement:

Because it is an essential element of personal integrity to practice what we preach, and since I have urged financial support for the GUILFORDIAN and in order to encourage the student legislature and Guilford College to guarantee a free press of high quality, I am writing two checks in the amount of $100 each, one for the outgoing editor Craig Chapman, and one for the incoming editor Jeanette Ebel. I hope that this modest sum of $200 will motivate consideration not only for the editor of the GUILFORDIAN, but for the business manager, for the editor of the QUAKER, and for the staffs of these publications. While such financial recognition is only part of the reward to be gained, I believe that it deserves our endorsement.

Contributed anonymously by a faculty member of the Publications Board

—photo by Willson

Jeanette Ebel, left, 1970-71 Guilfordian editor, is congratulated by Craig Chapman, this year's editor. They hold checks presented to them by an anonymous donor.

SEE PAGE 4
For Report Of
"Earth Day"
Activities