Elections Slated

Elections for next year's Community Senate Executive Council, College Union President, and College Union Board of Governors members-at-large will be held on March 1st, the Community Senate Elections Committee announced this week.

The members of the Community Senate for 1972-73 will also be chosen in dormitory elections to be held the same week. Runoffs for campus wide office, if necessary, will be held on March 3.

Petitions for executive council office must be turned in to the elections committee or members of the Senate by February 25. To qualify for executive council candidacy, students must have a 1.00 cumulative point average, and have attended Guilford College for at least one semester. Day students as well as dormitory residents are eligible for office.

Qualifications for College Union offices include some previous involvement in the Union. Persons interested in Union offices should see either Valerie Johnson, current Union President, or Cliff Lowery, Director of Student Activities.

The polls will be open in the afternoon and evening of Wednesday the first. The small dining room at the entrance of the cafeteria will be the polling place. Students should bring their college identification with them to vote.

Board Hears Code, Visitation Violations

The campus Judicial Board met on Wednesday night, Feb. 2, and on Thursday night, Feb. 3, finding 3 students guilty of plagiarism and 7 guilty of visitation violations.

Seven of these cases involved visitation violations, with guilty verdicts rendered in each case. After considering each, the Board issued severe reprimands and each student was cautioned that another violation would result in more serious disciplinary action. Two of these violations occurred in 1968 Dorm and the remainder in Binford Dorm.

Two residents of Mary Hobbs Hall were charged with failing to comply with their work job arrangements, moving out of the dorm without receiving official approval, and removing one bed and two bookcases from Mary Hobbs Hall. The two freshman women were found guilty and both were placed under disciplinary probation for a period of two semesters.

The provisions of Disciplinary Probation, as stipulated in the PATHFINDER, state that if the

Hobbs Explains Costs Rise

President Grimsley Hobbs told the monthly faculty meeting Wednesday that students costs at Guilford may rise by as much as $130 per year for on campus students, and as much as $100 for day students. This would represent a rise of as much as five percent.

Dr. Hobbs cited three reasons for the expected increase. The rising cost of coal may necessitate a change from coal to oil heat for the campus plant. There will be wage change considerations for the college's non-academic employees, and last, the cost of electricity is rising.

In addition to hearing Dr. Hobbs, the faculty discussed the Student Personnel Service Counseling facilities, a new sabbatical program, summer school, new Academic Retention policies, and an AAUP report on the Urban campus.

Andy Gottschall Dean of Students, introduced Bill Springs a clinical psychologist who is working with the Student Personnel Services to provide a more adequate counselling program for Guilford students. Springs is a Guilford graduate who did his graduate work in

Hearing Debates Symmetrical Plan

More than 200 people attended an open design hearing of the State Highway Commission last Tuesday to hear and give debate about the proposed symmetrical widening of Friendly Road. The symmetrical plan now being considered by the Commission is a compromise to take approximately equal footage from both the north and south sides of Friendly, 18 feet in front of the college gates and 15 from the facing businesses.

In the proposed widening of the road to five lanes from Henderson Street to the Gilbarco plant, 24 businesses will have to be relocated. This will result in an additional cost of $880,000 for the right of way over what would have been necessary if all the needed land been allocated from the college side. The Highway Commission has already determined that this five lane expansion will be inadequate to handle the traffic projected for 1990.

The gist of the February 1st debate, presided over by R. W. McGowan, the assistant chief engineer of the State Highway Commission, lay in the college's hope of historical preservation against the disruption of the businesses along Friendly Road. Grimsley Hobbs, speaking first in the Western Guilford High School Auditorium presented the college's official position in recognizing "the urgent need" for the widening of the road and giving its "unqualified support of the symmetrical."

Karen Reeling, a Guilford senior, challenged the businessmen's notion that the vacant college land was necessarily of less value.

Mrs. Mary Caine, a past president of the preservation society also argued for the conservation of the historical potential of the Guilford College Community. She mentioned the idea of Guilford religion professor Floyd Moore of recreating the area as a historic village, "a Quaker version of Old Salem."

Sam Talbert, owner of several of the buildings across from the campus, said he could not conceive of the highway department taking 15 feet off the front of buildings when there is open land across the street. He challenged the college's "historical argument", noting that much of the campus land in question had not been purchased by Guilford until the 1950's. Talbert felt, further that the college had been "ruthless and slanderous" in the meetings with the highway commission which had resulted in the symmetrical compromise.

The transcript of the hearing will be used, according to McGowan, by the highway commission in making its final decision
