

Quaker Teams Win Openers Big

Scott Scores Hat Trick

Booters Rip GC 7-1

Claude Arnold try for a goal hits cross bar. Quakers went on to win 7-1 over Greensboro College. photo by Causey

QUAKERS PICKED

by Nevets Kceb

Shoot the breeze and chew the fat, football season is here once again. And yes dear friends, just as football season is here, so is the football predictor - which is me.

I guess Guilford College is about the easiest places one can predict football game. I mean its really hard to get shut-out for a week when Guilford is one of the games to predict.

Or is it? Rumor has it that Guilford won last week, and get this, won big. I thought this place was streaking (32, that is) years before it came to be a craze last year. And my schedule tells me these same Quakers are playing in town this week. I just can't wait to see our double-deck, multi-purpose stadium I was told about during freshman orientation.

The people who run the school must really support their athletic teams to give them such an impressive stadium, especially when a simple concrete structure would be adequate. Now, if I can only find the stadium.

Well dear friends, back from a summer vacation in my native Sumatra, and for the first time at Guilford, here are my first picks of the year.

HAMPTON SYNDEY at GUILFORD

Last year Hampton-Syndey whipped the Quakers a year ago on opening day. Not so this year. Look for Guilford to take the visitors to the hoop and stay undefeated. Guilford 21, H-S 7.

ELON at MARS HILL

Here's this week's tuffy. "Hoot" Gibson from MHC has more then he is showing and Elon's "Red" Wilson has more than he can handle. The Christians started strong a year ago and look for more of the same. Elon 28 Mars Hill 14.

CATAWBA at GLASSBORO STATE

Be sure to wear your goggles to this one if your crazy enough to go to Jersey to watch Catawba play. The Indians will shatter Glassboro 21-0.

ALABAMA at MARYLAND

Ha, ha, ha. Ho, ho, ho. Hee, hee, hee. "Bama 49 - Terps 3.

OHIO UNIVERSITY at UNC

Carolina has a reputation for playing easy non-conference schools but this is absurd. Bring a blanket and an alarm clock to this one as the Heels snooze by Ohio 20-3.

WILLIAM AND MARY at WAKE FOREST

I don't know about William, but watch Mary embarrass the ACC and the Decs 28-6.

VIRGINIA at NAVY

All right, no sinking ship jokes this week. Watch Navy upset Virginia's no name, no talent squad 14-10. Sorry Ambrose, one good apple can't ripe the entire basket.

CLEMSON at TEXAS A&M

They say your hair grows shorter in Texas, not longer.

Cont. on Page 8

by Fred Taylor

Coming off an 8-5-1 season, the Guilford soccer players came out in fashion form to demolish Greensboro College in their season opener 7-1. Even though G.C. is not noted for excelling in soccer, the reason why the Quakers rolled up such an impressive score was due to the gifted talent and expert teamwork which got the ball in the goal four times before the half and three times after the break.

Such kind of play is very encouraging, especially when sloppy passing and careless plays are common in early season play. But this was not the case. Behind the leadership of first year coach Steve Hutchins and co-captains Garrett Wall and Chuck Evans the team became confident and psyched for the event.

One reason for the confidence and fine play is due to the fact that many of the starting eleven have played together for two seasons. The players this year are now older and have a lot of experience, a factor which insures improvement over last years team.

This years returning starters consists of Bucky Boykin, David Scott and Dennis Burke at forwards; and Claude Arnold, Steve Skinner and David Brown playing the halfback positions with Wall, Evans, and Jeff Burns on defense. The only newcomer who managed to break into the line-up is Robert Pierce at goalie, replacing last years MVP Steve Peterson who graduated.

The game with Greensboro College got off to a fast start with an old fashioned Scott to Burke Cross, who skillfully headed the ball into the goal. Again the team of Burke-Scott forced the G.C. defense into multiple mistakes as Burke came up with another goal.

Later in the half Richard Shumacher crossed the ball in front of the net to Scott who put in the third Quaker goal. Near the end of the period,

Cont. on Page 8

First Half Explosive

Gridders Win 20-0

by Steve Beck
Sports Editor

ATHENS, W.VA. - For the third time in five years Guilford College opened its football season with a new head coach. Wilbur Johnson, fired after the 1972 campaign, won only two games in three years. Next came Henry Vansant who talked about winning seasons and bowl trips before vacating the position to take a similar position at a Fayetteville high school. This year it is Dennis Haglan's turn, but things are a little different. Haglan finally has the Quaker football team rolling. This was evident as Guilford ripped Concord 20-0 here last Saturday.

This season the Quakers have the personnel to put a strong veteran club sprinkled with talented rookies. Last years most productive offensive backfield of Steve Watson, Reggie Kenan and Billy Whitley returns while Bunky James heads up the defense again. Against Concord this team showed both excellent offensive and defensive potential.

The game began on a cautious note. Both teams punted on their first possession, and then the fireworks began. Gary Crockett recovered a fumble jarred loose by lineman Steve Manning on the Guilford 47-yard line.

Kenan then broke loose for runs of 20 and nine yards as he moved the ball down to the Concord 15 following a CC offside penalty. But the Lion defense stiffened and faced with a fourth and six from the 20-yard line. Watson called his own number, swept the right end, breaking off five Concord defenders, and gave the Quakers a first down on the 11-yard line. Following offside by Concord Whitley rushed twice from the six, finally scoring from the three-yard line. Foley missed the extra point and Guilford lead 6-0 with 3:18 remaining in the first quarter.

Mike Williams started the second scoring drive when he returned a Concord punt, rambling to the CG 44-yard line. Again having good field position, Watson took to the air ways this time as he found

Cont on Page 8

CAROLINA'S CONFERENCE SCHEDULE

September 14	GLASSBORO ST Glassboro, N.J. 7:30	MARS HILL Mars Hill 7:30	HAMP-SYDNEY Greensboro 7:30	GARDNER WEBB Hickory 7:30	ELON Winston-Salem 7:30
September 21	MARS HILL Mars Hill 7:30	SAVANNAH ST Savannah 7:30	EMORY & HENRY Knoxville 7:30	WOFFORD Spartanburg 7:30	CATAWBA Catawba 7:30
September 28	NEWBERRY Spartanburg 7:30	GUILFORD Guilford 7:30	ELON Greensboro 7:30	PRESBYTERIAN Greensboro 7:30	GEORGETOWN Georgetown 7:30
October 5	EMORY & HENRY Knoxville 7:30	CARS-NEWMAN Burlington 7:30	GARDNER WEBB Hickory 7:30	NEWBERRY Spartanburg 7:30	OPEN
October 12	GUILFORD Guilford 7:30	BLUEFIELD ST. Bluefield, W.Va. 7:30	CATAWBA Catawba 7:30	APPALACHIAN Hickory 7:30	PRESBYTERIAN Greensboro 7:30
October 19	GARDNER WEBB Hickory 7:30	PRESBYTERIAN Greensboro 7:30	MARS HILL Mars Hill 7:30	DAVIDSON Hickory 7:30	GUILFORD Guilford 7:30
October 26	ELON Winston-Salem 7:30	CATAWBA Catawba 7:30	RAND-MACON Ashland, Va. 7:30	MARS HILL Mars Hill 7:30	LENOIR RHYNE Lenoir 7:30
November 2	PRESBYTERIAN Greensboro 7:30	WOFFORD Spartanburg 7:30	DAVIDSON Greensboro 7:30	CARS-NEWMAN Hickory 7:30	GARDNER WEBB Hickory 7:30
November 9	WOFFORD Spartanburg 7:30	NEWBERRY Spartanburg 7:30	OPEN	FURMAN Greensboro, S.C. 7:30	ST. LEO. Mars Hill 7:30
November 16	OPEN	LENOIR RHYNE Lenoir 7:30	WOFFORD Spartanburg, S.C. 7:30	ELON Winston-Salem 7:30	NEWBERRY Spartanburg 7:30
November 23	LENOIR RHYNE Lenoir 7:30	Winston-Salem St. Winston-Salem 7:30	OPEN	CATAWBA Catawba 7:30	CARS-NEWMAN Mars Hill 7:30