

Language Week

by Angela Lantz

Governor Holshouser has declared the third week of March (week after Guilford's spring break) "Language Week". When learned, it lends one the power of building communicative bridges over the breaches of cultural differentiation.

On March 19, Guilford College's attention to the language arts will utilize a perception of some of both the specificities and commonalities among different cultures. All week the third floor of Duke Memorial will feature various displays including photographs, writings, and objects of special interest from around the world.

At 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday, the 19th, there will be held also on third floor Duke, a tea in honor of Dr. Tetel, our guest speaker from Duke University. Dr. Tetel, head of Romance Languages at Duke University and a professor there for fifteen years, is a medievalist and author of five books on Rabelai, Marguerite De Navarre, and Montagne. He is French born, has spent much of his life studying on grants in Italy, and is a United States citizen.

Dr. Tetel will speak at 4:00 p.m. on March 19th, in the Leak Room. The subject of his

Civil Liberties Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Greensboro Chapter of the NCCLU will be held on Wednesday, March 5, at 8:00 p.m. in the Claxton Room, Elliot Hall, UNC-G. Dan Pollit, Professor of Law at Chapel Hill, will address the meeting on the subject of "Civil Liberties in the 1970's." During the meeting the nominating committee will report its recommendations for four openings on the Board of Directors three by rotation, a fourth from a resignation). Nominations from the floor will be received prior to the vote.

Professor Pollit has been a member of the faculty of the UNC School of Law since 1957. He was a Charter Member of the Board of Directors of the NCCLU, and has served as Chairman of the Board. In 1974 he was honored with the NCCLU's Annual Frank Porter Graham Award for distinguished service in the cause of civil liberties. Pollitt is also active in the work of the American Association of University Professors. In 1968-69 he was President of the UNC Chapter of AAUP.

talk will be on Montagne, a well known 16th century writer and Machiavelli, an Italian whose most famous literary work is The Prince.

Anyone who is interested in the language arts, literature, or the Medieval and Renaissance culture in France and Italy and wishes to take part in language week will certainly want to attend the lecture given by the very well versed and fascinating Dr. Tetel. The tea, also, as well as the displays are open to all students.

N.C. Summer Internships

The various departments of the state government of North Carolina have over 200 internship positions (competitive selection) available for this summer. These internships are designed to be more than "just summer jobs" and are not confined to clerical or manual labor. The information sheet says "These intern projects are developed with the following ideas in mind: 1) Internships create the opportunity for students to apply classroom instruction to a working situation 2) Internships give students the opportunity to witness the operations of state government on a daily basis 3) Individualized projects allow the student to be creative and enterprising in his internship role."

Most of the internships are located in the Raleigh state government office complex although there are some located in other parts of the state. Any college student who is either a resident of North Carolina or who attends a North Carolina college is eligible to participate. Preference is given to rising juniors and seniors. The weekly pay will usually be $125.00. There are positions for a number of different majors.

The deadline for submitting your application is March 20, 1975. Further information is available in the Placement Office, Suite D-12, Bryan Hall.

Law School for Women

Women in Law at Wake Forest University School of Law is sponsoring a career weekend March 21-23, 1975 in Winston-Salem for any women interested in attending law school. Registration is open to anyone, not just college seniors.

Activities for the weekend will include attending some classes, social events where women can talk informally

THE GUILFORDIAN

Editor.....David Green
 News Editor.....Jon Hiratsuka
 Managing Editor.....Bob Johnston
 Sports Editor.....Pat Townsend
 Photography.....Steve Causey, Tommy Lo
 Staff.....Leslie Zeldin, Lucy Swan, Susie Rice, Angela Lantz, Steve Mathis, David Scott, Tobv Gearhart, Sara Dalcher, Charles Thibaut, Annette Green

The Guilfordian is published weekly except for examination periods and vacations. The Guilfordian is not an official publication of Guilford College, and the opinions expressed herein are solely those of the authors and editors. Office: Room 223, Cox Old North, Phone: 292-8709. Mailing address: Guilford College, Greensboro, North Carolina 27410. Subscription rates: $4.00 per year, $2.50 per semester, distributed free of charge on the Guilford College campus.

Sierra Club's 1st Meeting

On February 10, 1975, the Sierra Club held its first meeting on the Guilford campus. The recently-formed Piedmont Plateau Group of the Club has chosen Guilford for its regular meeting spot. The Sierra Club, a nationally-known conservation organization has had a chapter in the Carolinas but has only been active in the Piedmont for the past two years. The Club originally began as an effort to "preserve, protect, and enjoy the Sierra Nevadas", but soon became involved in a nationwide wilderness preservation program. The Club was founded by John Muir, a renowned Scottish naturalist, in 1892.

The Sierra Club has two main thrusts today; wilderness outings and environmental protection. It is probably the most active and effective environmental organization in the country, with some 140,000 members. Its greatest growth period came when it got involved in the battle to present construction of dams in the Grand Canyon, a successful campaign that took several years to complete. More recently the Club has been in the forefront of the efforts to develop rational national energy policies, ranging from conservation of fossil fuels to control of nuclear power plants.

with attorneys, seminars on women's experience as students and as practicing attorneys, explanation of admission procedures, and opportunity for small group discussion. Housing will be provided if needed.

Information is available at the Placement Office at your school, or contact: Women in Law, Wake Forest Law School, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27109

On March 17, 1975, at 7:30 p.m. the local Club will hold its next meeting, in the Moon Room of Dana Auditorium. The subject will be a slide show by Don Gibbon on a national Club outing he and his wife took in the Canyon County of Southeast Utah.

This eight-day backpacking trip took them through the remote canyons inhabited 700 to 1,000 years ago by the predecessors of the Pueblo peoples. Many of their artifacts and dwelling places are still to be found along the route of the hike. (You may notice a similarity to the recent Seminars West program...that is more than a coincidence! Don Gibbon and Dick Morton are leading Seminars West this year out to the same area).

Also on the same program will be a Conservation Workshop, in which we will break up into small groups to focus on areas of particular conservation interest. During the workshop we will discuss North Carolina's scenic rivers program, problems of nuclear power and energy conservation, how to work with and on our state legislators, recycling problems and how to grapple with them, and any other matters which the membership is interested in working on.

Student membership in the Sierra Club is only $8.00 a year. For that fee you receive the national Bulletin, a monthly Chapter and group newsletter, which brings you notice of local outings, and you get major discounts on books in the Club's extensive list of publications.

Non-members are particularly invited to the local meetings... We need your help!

Sierra Club Meeting: Moon Room, 7:30 PM 17 March 1975

Summer Work and Study Abroad

Students who come to Guilford to advance their education and learn about their world will have many opportunities in the Summer of 1975. The spring break is a time to think it over and make plans. The possibilities abroad range from jobs with a net income to study with 8 hours of College credit. But the thing they have in common is the experience of living and learning in another culture. Without this experience education is not a preparation for the multinational and multi-cultural world in which we live.

The three types of opportunities to learn, work and study in other cultures are: SUMMER JOB ABROAD in BRITAIN* FRANCE and GERMANY where you can learn about the people and their language while you earn an income. Information and applications will be available at the Center for Off Campus Education in Bryan Hall after Spring break.

SUMMER SCHOOLS ABROAD with 8 hours of College credit at a cost that is little more than the same hours of credit on the campus. The Schools are located where there is a maximum opportunity for education both in the history and culture of European countries and in the contemporary problems of Europe and the world.

The Schools are located in London, Paris, Athens, East and West Germany, Italy and Cali (Colombia). Each is six weeks three additional weeks provided for independent travel.

SEMINARS where experience, personal observation and involvement are central to learning:

- Seminars Abroad - a 65 day visit to 15 cities in 13 European countries with emphasis on meeting students and civic leaders in each city - June 3 - Aug. 8.

- Quakerism Seminar in England, 3 weeks, to study the origins and history of the Religious Society of Friends - May 16 - June 4.

- Seminar West 1975, a four week study of the Geology, Anthropology and natural and human environment of New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado - May 15 - June 21.

For more information, contact Claude Shotts in the Center for Off Campus Education, in Bryan Hall (292-5511, Ex. 25).