

Food Committee Meeting

by Forrest Hughes

The Senate Food Committee met on Wednesday, Oct. 1, to organize and to discuss the needs of the Guilford cafeteria. Present were eight students, Ron Short, and Jim King from Epicure and Ken Schwab, director of student personnel and John Marge-not, one of the vegetarian cooks.

The first order of business was to select leaders. Jeff Martin is the new chairperson of the committee and Barbara Ropp and Forrest Hughes are co-vice-chairpeople.

The Committee members will ask questions of cafeteria eaters about particular meals and the food in general during three different mealtimes each week throughout the year. The responses to these questions will be correlated and turned over to Ron and Jim for them to work with. Hopefully, the food service can thus be improved in the directions that students desire.

Several suggestions were made during the meeting itself as to possible improvements in Epicure's service. Among these were the chances of having working toasters, moving the grill room hours from Saturday nights to Sunday nights, putting up a daily menu outside the cafeteria doors and the setting up of suggestion boxes.

The point was brought out that is a relatively simple procedure to get a meal for a sick friend who is unable to get to the cafeteria. All you have to do is get a filled-out green card from your intern or resident co-ordinator and present it at the cafeteria. Then you can get a hot plate to take back to the dormitory.

The Food Committee meetings are open to anyone who has complaints or suggestion they would like to voice. The next meeting will be held during lunch on Tuesday in the back dining room.

Student Health Care Center

The individual student will be responsible for the expense of additional services such as lab tests, prescription medication, x-rays, etc. These charges will be in compliance with the fees set by Friends Homes. Students will receive bills for such services from the college and the college will in turn pay Friends Homes. The college insurance program will cover any charges that exceed $25.00 for participating students.

Student Health Records - All students can expect the same professional ethical code from the Student Health Center as that extended to them by their family physician. The confidentiality of any discussion with the staff is guaranteed. Medical records are kept on file in the infirmary and will not be shared with anyone without the student's written consent except authorized college officials. These records are discarded when the student graduates and held for a period of four years if a student leaves the college before graduation

Policy Covering Excuses from Classes - Responsibility for class attendance and for completion of assignments rests primarily with the student, who should assume this responsibility of granting "excuses" rests with the college nurse. She will send a letter to the instructor to inform him/her of the student's excuse. The individual diagnosis and other specific details will not be released without the written consent of the student.

Health Education and Preventive Medicine - An attempt will be made by the medical personnel of the Student Health Care Center to educate individuals and to instruct students concerning their particular health problems and needs. Students who have particular health care needs should inform their resident coordinator and the college nurse.

Unruly or Uncooperative Patients - Any student visiting the Student Health Care Center who becomes unruly or uncooperative will be immediately reported to the Campus Security and to the Student Services office.

"Hands On" Education Seminar to Philadelphia

by Annette Zitver Green

The Education Department, under the leadership of David Kingsley, is now preparing for the annual Education Seminar to Philadelphia. The group will leave Guilford in cars on October 25 and return on October 31.

Some basic changes in the seminar's format are being made this year. The emphasis will no longer be on seeing a little bit of a lot of different educational situations. Instead, participants will be given the opportunity to become more involved in the programs they choose to visit. David Kingsley describes it as "very much a hands-on kind of experience." Two full days will be set aside for this sort of personal involvement. An inner city class building its own sailing boat, the innovative Parkway Program and various social services are

by Caryl Kuser

In the basement of Founders waits a Photography Lab with room enough for six student photographers to print at once in addition to three separate film development rooms. However, no equipment will be provided until an organization shows itself.

In order to be acknowledged by those who will allot the equipment, this organization must have a statement of purpose and a constitution, accompanied by four expedient officers; president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Across the span of three meetings, fourteen people have showed interest. More Please, if you are interested in facilities open to the use of the student body, come to Wednesday's meeting.

To be eligible for use of the darkroom one must show some competence and knowledge about the procedures of developing and printing, and ability to keep the lab clean. Beginners are welcome under supervision and will be gladly shown the basics and observed until they feel more confident.

would-be photographers are needed to expand the ranks so that the criterion for an organization will be fulfilled and the group will be able to benefit from the needed equipment.
