Dr. Bruyn To Lecture

by Emily Bonk
Staff Writer

As a part of the Distinguished Quaker Visitors Program, Guilford College will host Dr. Severyn T. Bruyn, a professor of sociology at Boston College on March 29 and 30. Bruyn's areas of knowledge and expertise include the fields of social economy, which involves the humane organization of people within the economic structure, social policy, and community development.

The Dr. Bruyn's visit has been arranged by Judy Harvey, director of The Friends Center at Guilford, which sponsors programs about Quakerism in the Southeast region. Last fall, as a part of the program, Miriam Levering, Executive director of the Ocean Education Project was named the Distinguished Quaker Visitor for 1982.

Dr. Bruyn will play an important role in the development of Guilford's proposed Democratic Management program as he is a consultant for a similar idea at Boston College. Democratic Management, or Participatory Management, entails a new way of viewing the relationship between the worker and his supervisor. The concept includes worker-run co-operatives and worker-owned businesses in which the president is elected by the laborer as opposed to being appointed by an executive board. Essentially, the supervisor works for the workers. While here, Dr. Bruyn will work closely with Bill Stevens of the Management department serving in the capacity of consultant to the proposed concentration at Guilford. Stevens said that there are 2 groups advising him on the project: one from the immediate area, and a long-distance consulting group consisting of faculty and professionals associated with the University of Michigan, Cornell University, and the National Center for Employee Ownership, etc. Bruyn falls into the latter group.

Also while here, Dr. Bruyn will be visiting management, sociology, and economics classes, sharing his expertise in these fields. On reserve in the library is material Dr. Bruyn has published in these areas. Management majors especially might find some of the results of the studies interesting.

A bit of background: Social Economy involves Self-government which is a self-reliant management, free from outside control. In a study where a traditional system of management is converted to one of

Serendipity Outlook

It's that time again and Serendipity is almost upon us. This year's activities promise to make it an event not soon forgotten. Serendipity officially begins Tuesday, April 5 with Open Mike Night, sponsored by the Coffee House Committee. This will provide an opportunity for members of the Guilford College Community to display their various talents. Thursday night M*A*S*H* will be shown in Sternberger. The weekend festivities will begin Friday night with an evening of varying music styles from Mickey Mills, Tom Bogan, and The Neighbors. Saturday offers a variety of activities beginning with the 10K Run in the morning and ending with the DJ dance in Bryan Quad at 9 p.m. In between, there will be entertainment and games on English lawn as well as the traditional pub setting. Mike Cross will be featured later in the afternoon on the Milner/Bryan lawn followed by a picnic dinner served by Epicure. Sunday's activities are still open as this list is by no means complete.

T-shirts and beer bracelets will be on sale in Founder's Hall the week of Serendipity for $5 each. The Serendipity Committee is currently looking into the possibility of using a truck to mobilize the beer and keep it cold. In addition they would like to be able to provide pizza for sale during the day. Finally, to make this all work, the committee will need help. If you are available to sell T-shirts and bracelets or to help set up or run any of the various activities, please contact Mike Hubbard.

Editor's Note: The Guilfordian is in the process of creating a Frisbee Golf Competition to add to the list for Serendipity.
