Booters End Season

By Jacque Lesboot

13 and six goals respectively

The soccer season came to a close for the booters when they dropped a thrilling sudden death overtime match to district 26 champs, Atlantic Christian College. The Quakers ended the year with a respectable 9-6-1 record and Conference championship.

This year's soccer program saw many changes, including Steve Skinner becoming head coach and ten new faces on the squad. In order to keep on the winning track the booters need defensive help next year to fill the vacant shoes of seniors, Paul Gurspan, David Hood, Jim Schmutz, T.J. Faherty and Jeff Polinchock.

The offense, however, appears strong for next season. They will be led by Roberta Sa and Tim Dorion who ended the season with

The Quakers ended the season with a 7-0 record in conference play and in those games, the offense poured in 23 goals while goalies Jim Schmutz and Mark Kramer only permitted seven balls to cross the goal line. Four of the team's losses came to division I teams, while all nine wins were against district foes. The Quakers compiled a 9-1-1 record in those district games.

The soccer program is on the rise, and with an influx of some new defensive blood the booters hope they can repeat as conference champs in 1984. The year will also be beneficial in that the young team and coach will become more familiar and mature in all of the aspects of the game.

Women's Tennis

Future Looks Bright

By Doug Drotman

Although the Women's Tennis season does not officially begin until the springtime, there has been fall-time action.

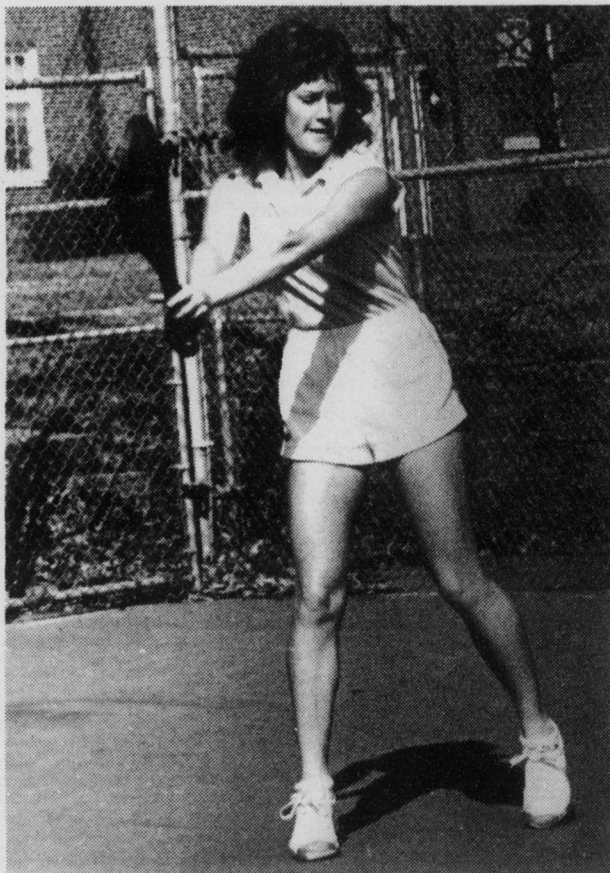

In the City Tournament, sophomore and #1 seed Julie Tupper emerged victorious in both the singles and doubles titles. Lady Quakers dominated the tournament and the only time a Lady Quaker lost was when she faced a teammate. With the exception of Lili Carpenter's loss in the Quarterfinals to Josie Ward.

Tupper faced teammate Lisa Miller in the finals and handed

Miller, not just the only match she lost, but also, the only set she lost. Final scores were 6-2, 6-2.

Then Tupper, teamed with Jennifer Friend, defeated teammates Melanie Bischoff and Lili Carpenter in three sets to take the doubles title. Tupper took both the singles and doubles titles in the city clay court tourney. The last Lady Quaker to accomplish this feat was Shirley Dunn

In team scrimmage matches thus far the Ladies are undefeated. UNC-G, William & Mary, and Greensboro Day School have been victims of their fine play.

MISTAKES COST GAME

By Tim Meadors

The Lady Quakers ended their season this weekend in the NAIA district 26 volleyball tournament. Their seasonal record was 23-9. Earlier this week, the Lady Quakers played their last regular season game.

The Lady Quakers took on North Carolina A&T at home on Tuesday, Nov. 1, winning the first game off the accurate serve of Sharon Vanis as well as the dominating front line play of Amy Parrish and Nicole Ronan.

The second game the Quakers were sluggish and North Carolina A&T stormed back and tied the score 10-10. The Quakers regained their composure and defeated the Aggies off the playing of Dana Cooper, Amy Parrish and Kris Schoolfield.

The third game the Quakers prevailed because of the outstanding serving of Kathy Ball and Lisa Tucker and the front line play of Kathy Baugus. The final score was 15-2, 15-10, 15-9.

The NAIA District 26 Volleyball tournament was held at Guilford College on Nov. 4 and 5. The Lady Quakers were seeded number one in the tournament.

On Friday night Nov. 4, Lenior Rhyne played University of North Carolina at Wilmington. This was a very close game but Lenior Rhyne put out the victory by the score 15-7, 15-9, 15-13. The second game of the evening pitted Shaw University against Atlantic Christian College. Atlantic Christian rolled on to an easy victory 15-0, 15-6, 15-0.

The Lady Quakers who received a bye in the first round, were matched against Lenior Rhyne. The Lady Quakers had the fight of their lives on their hands. Lenior Rhyne defeated the Quakers in the first game. The Lady Quakers took a 5-0 lead in the second game but couldn't hold it and lost 15-8. Lenior Rhyne, feeling an upset, fought bitterly and took the final game from the Quakers. Lenior Rhyne was led by server setter Sherry

Cash and hitter Kelly Bashler. The final score was 15-13, 15-8, 15-13.

Coach Gayle Currie said, "Untimely mistakes cost us the game. Give credit to Lenior Rhyne for capitalizing on the mistakes."

The Lady Quakers placed Dana Cooper on the all-tournament team.

This is also the last game for senior captain Amy Parrish. She is planning to take a year off and work in a private mental institution. She plans to go to New York and attend graduate school in hopes of becoming a clinical psychologist. Parrish said, "I will really miss this team because we are as close as a family."

She also had this to say about Coach Gayle Currie, "Coach Currie treats everyone special and places her players first before anything else. She is like our mother even though she is just 30 years old."

Quakers Tie Indians

By Doug Drotman

A Saturday that got off to a strange start for the football team also ended on a strange note. Halfway through the 45-minute drive to Catawba College the bus, carrying the players, broke down and left the players stranded on the highway to wait for a replacement bus. The bus eventually arrived but threw off the usually precise pregame activities.

Just as last year's 11-10 victory wasn't decided until the final minute, neither was the 1983 Quaker-Indian battle. In fact the game was never decided since it ended in a 15-15 tie.

The Quakers opened the scoring midway through the first quarter, when Junior linebacker Scott O'Kelley (4 Tackles, 6 assists) picked off a Bobby Meyers' pass and after dodging several tacklers ended up with a 48 yd. interception return for a touchdown. Bryan Wilson kicked the extra point, and the Quakers had a 7-0 lead.

The interception did not intimidate the Catawba offense because with their next possession they put the ball in the air for two big pass plays. The passes of 20 and 18 yards plus a 15-yard roughing penalty gave the Indians possession at the Quaker 28.

The Quaker defense toughened for the challenge. When faced with a fourth down and inches Catawba decided to attempt a 36-yard field goal, rather than gamble against the Quaker defense. Jeff Coulter's 36-yard attempt was way off the mark and the Quakers celebrated.

On a Quaker possession in the second quarter, aided by a 31-yard pass interference penalty, the Quakers blew a golden scoring opportunity. The key

UNC-Chapel Hill Declines Overtime

By Josie Alexander

Last Sunday at Chapel Hill the Guilford College Women's Soccer Club came from two goals down to take the lead and eventually tie U.N.C.-Chapel Hill four to four (4-4).

The tie came as a disappointment to Guilco as a last second goal by Bren Murray was disqualified in a disputed call as to when time had actually ended. The game was left at a tie due to U.N.C.'s declining to play overtime.

Scoring was led by Gwen Tracey with 2 goals, Amy Mahan 1 goal, and Madsie Bertram—with an incredible bicycle kick—1 goal.

Head Coach Willie Flash and his staff were very pleased with the team's performance and described them as being "tough as nails." Come and support the Quakers this Friday afternoon in a home match against Salem College.
