

Sports

This week in Guilford College Sports

Friday, March 23

Women's Tennis vs. Sweet Briar, Guilford Tennis Courts, 4:30

Saturday, March 24

Baseball vs. Virginia Wesleyan (DH), McBane Field, noon
Women's Lacrosse (1-6) vs. Christopher Newport, Haworth Field, 3:30
Men's Lacrosse (4-1, 0-0 ODAC) at Hamden-Sydney, VA, 1:00
Women's Tennis at Eastern Mennonite, Harrisonburg, VA, 1:00
Ultimate Frisbee at SPUD Tournament, Columbia, SC

Sunday, March 25

Women's Tennis at Bridgewater, Bridgewater, VA., noon

Tuesday, March 27

Baseball vs. Lynchburg, McBane Field, 3:00
Womens Lacrosse vs. Greensboro, Haworth Field, 3:30

Wednesday, March 28

Baseball at Averett, Danville, VA, 3:00

Friday, March 30

Women's Lacrosse at Catholic, Washington, D.C., 4:00
Women's Tennis at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, VA, 3:30
Golf at Camp Lejeune Intercollegiate, Camp Lejeune, NC

Saturday March 31

Baseball at Randolph-Macon (DH), Ashland, VA, noon
Women's Tennis at Roanoke, Salem, VA, 1:00
Men's Lacrosse vs. Virginia Wesleyan, Armfield Athletic Center, 2:00
Golf at Camp Lejeune Intercollegiate, Camp Lejeune, NC
Ultimate Frisbee at Dead Monkey's Tournament, UNC Greensboro, NC

Washington wins fourth-straight Division III women's basketball title

Courtesy of Associated Press

DANBURY, CT - Tasha Rodgers ended her collegiate career in style as she scored a career-high 36 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as Washington University of St. Louis, MO won its fourth-straight NCAA Division III Women's Basketball National Championship.

Saturday night, Washington defeated Messiah College, 67-45 in front of 1,974 fans at Western Connecticut State University's Feldman Arena. Rodgers was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Player for the third-straight year.

The Bears, (28-2) led by five points, 40-35 with 12:28 remaining before Rodgers, who was named Division III

Player of the Year on Thursday, took over. After back-to-back buckets by Washington's Jennifer Rudis, Rodgers made steals that led to easy lay-ins on three straight Falcon possessions. During a four-minute span and by the time Rodgers' outburst was over, Washington built a 21-point bulge, 56-35.

Rudis scored 15 points for the Bears and was named to the all-tournament team along with Ohio Wesleyan's Katy Sturtz, Messiah's Amy Hitz and Emmanuel's Brianne Bognanno.

Hitz was the only Falcon, to reach double figures in the scoring column as she netted 10 points.

Rodgers accounted for 54% of Washington's points after hitting 15 of 26 shot from the field.

2001 National Collegiate Division III Men's BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

