RECENT UPDATE: In response to student's criticisms concerning the failure of last year's Serendipity to provide anything worthy of a serendipitous definition, administration has taken the planning of this year's festival into their own hands.

"What we have planned for the students this year ranks right up there with OzzFest and Lilith Fair," said Serendipity head organizer and Guilford's president Don MacNemar. "We felt it was our responsibility, after last year's disaster, to show these kids how to have a good time."

The administration has removed previous headlining bands like 2 Skinny Js from the program and replaced them with Guilford-renowned acts like "The German G-

Men," starring English professor Jeff Jeske on accordion and History professor Jeff Vanke on the trombone. "We're really excited to be playing at Serendipity this year," said Jeske. "We are currently practicing new material, like 'Ain't Nothing Worse Than Life Without Bratwurst.'"

Aside from the main attractions of the upcoming weekend, there are numerous other options to consider. The apartments will be hosting a "Name That Bottled Water" party, where students will have the opportunity to sample and taste various refreshing and non-alcoholic beverages. The Physics department will be holding a contest in Frank Family Science Center to see who can give the decimal expansion of pi to the highest significant digit. The winner will receive a graphing calculator.

Junior Jay Gregory and sophomore Anna Belle Peevey will be doing a standup comedy routine in Dana, sure to draw a large crowd. "This is something I'm really looking forward to seeing," said Junior Colin Bentley. "I mean, have you ever read some of the stuff they write for The Guilfordian?"

Other activities include a Tea and Talk with Guilford's very own mascot, the Fighting Quaker, bobbing for bagels in the lake, and a school-wide bridge tournament. All students who attend the festival will receive a Serendipity edition copy of the 1997 "K" Encyclopedia Britannica.

"We believe this year is going to surpass all previous Serendipity festivals," said Jerry Godard, Guilford's academic dean. "And listen up kids, here's the best part — parents get in free."
