

So, you think you know about music?

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

You think your favorite band is cool because they only have one CD, which they recorded themselves in their father's studio without permission on the weekends? Yeah, right. Your band isn't cool until you don't even know you're in it. It has to just happen, like the wind or the rain, or like the Banana and The One in this accompanying picture.

The One doesn't even know who this Banana is! Hell, The One barely knows who she herself is, but the two still have a double album together — and a breakout single. On college radio, of course.

Don't get it? Well then, young Beatle, you clearly still have much to learn.

And, let us tackle the topic of instruments. Guitars? Tambourines? Pick axes, chainsaws, and other assorted machinery? Come on, you might as well just invest in a synthesizer and name your band "The Sell Outs." Real musicians know where to find music that you wouldn't expect. Iced tea spoons. Long underwear. Moldavian tribal chants. That's what makes real music, not bland acoustics.

The One could probably educate you folks forever, but the truth is, Her Musical Majesty is tired and, plus, she can only give so much of her wisdom away in one day. David Bowie wouldn't divulge all his wisdom in one sitting, now would he? Exactly.

Nonetheless, The One hopes you could take something of value away from this lesson. If nothing else, you are at least humbled in your knowledge, a crucial first step in the learning process.

Do not worry, young master. You shall reach enlightenment someday. The One's sort of endless wisdom takes time, dedication, and a whole lot of friends on MySpace. Once all three (especially the last) are achieved, then — and only then — can true musical nirvana be found.

BANANAFANTASTICOLAMA REALLY SPEAKS TO THE HEART AND SOUL OF A GENERATION WHO DOESN'T KNOW IF THEY SHOULD BUILD A BOMB SHELTER OR BUY A MINIVAN

PHOTOS BY GRACE BOYLE/GUILFORDIAN

A Facebook reality...

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

known for her show "America's Next Top Model," has entered the race for the candidacy and now leads the polls for potential presidents.

When the creator of the Tyra-for-President group was asked how he felt about his group becoming reality, all he had to say was, "It's fierce."

Postmodernists argue that this Facebook reality is just another sign of our decaying society, and that this so-called reality is nothing more than simulacra.

"Our lives, our minds, have been repeatedly assaulted by what we see on Facebook, along with other media images, that some people can no longer discern the difference between what is real and what is not. Facebook is merely another example of this inability. Facebook is not reality, it just simulates reality," said now-deceased French theorist Jean Baudrillard in late February.

facebook
home search browse invite help logout

If It's On Facebook- It Must Be True!

Global

Information

Group Info

Name: If It's On Facebook- It Must Be True!

Type: Just for Fun - Inside Jokes

Description: You all know it. Facebook has become the number one source of all knowledge on life, the universe, and everything.

Photos

No one has uploaded any photos.