

GUILFORD ATHLETICS THROUGH THE AGES

1838-1888: In this time, hunting and a modified version of "soccer" were popular. Soccer consisted of throwing the ball into bounds and having both teams attempt to advance towards the goal

1867: Men's baseball was introduced at the "New Garden Boarding School," the predecessor to Guilford

1888: "Girls should have advantages equal in every respect to those offered to boys," wrote President Lewis Hobbs. True to his word, he opened a physical education program and a baseball team for women, despite the Guilford Collegian publication's warnings that the girls would surely steal all the baseballs

1893: Guilford commenced their men's football team with their first game against the Charlotte YMCA

1900-20: Guilford's golden era of men's baseball begins, and Guilford wins baseball championships in 1906, 1908, 1913, 1917 and 1918

1906: Guilford defeats Wake Forest University, 26-19, in basketball — many claim it was the first Carolinian intercollegiate game

1902-3: Guilford Science Professor Raymond Binford starts men and women's track and cross-country teams

1911: The Collegian advocated resources for women's athletics

1913: Lady Quakers created an association for women's sports and appointed managers for women's basketball, tennis and track, although they did not receive proper funding

1968: First co-ed dance

1940: Alumni Gym built over "The Barn," where students used to play sports

1968: Guilford Athletics logo redesigned to current version

1975-80: Women's volleyball sets the bar high, winning second and third several times in the North Carolina Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, before proceeding to the NAIA National Tournament

1970s: President Grimsley Hobbs, a former school wrestler and runner, promoted sports equality and funds to what had previously been known as minor sports. He also helped women's sports achieve collegiate status and gave women's sports long-desired grants-in-aid

1973: Men's basketball won the NAIA National Championship with future NBA players M.L. Carr, World B. Free and Greg Jackson

1981-6: Women's tennis excels, winning four conference titles

1990s: Guilford joins the NCAA Division III and leaves the NAIA. The Pittsburgh Pirates drafted Guilford's Tony Womack '91. Lee Porter '89 goes to the U.S. Open to finish 32nd.

2005: Jordan Snipes '07 shoots an amazing, buzzer-beating, full-court shot. Someone captures this on video and it goes viral

2011: Guilford hosts the NCAA Division III Men's Golf Championships in Greensboro at the Grandover

2006: Guilford renames new press box after longtime athletic director Herb Appenzeller

2013: Guilford claims second straight ODAC Women's Basketball Championship title

INSIDE SPORTS

Quakers prove that pink and maroon do not clash

Preview: women's basketball season begins

BY LEK SIU
STAFF WRITER

BY IAN PENNY
STAFF WRITER

Who's rocking out in the wide world of Guilford Sports? Check out these student-athletes!

TAYLOR WHITLEY
SENIOR
VOLLEYBALL

Vs. GREENSBORO
COLLEGE

Totaled 34 assists and five digs

CAROLINE BISHOP
SENIOR
WOMEN'S SOCCER

SENIOR NIGHT Vs.
EASTERN MENNONITE
(OCT. 26)

Scored one goal on an assist from Kelli Uresti

ADAM SMITH
SOPHOMORE
FOOTBALL

Vs. RANDOLPH-
MACON (OCT. 26)

Caught seven passes for 226 yards and 3 touchdowns